- (f) Security has a variable rate. Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of June 30, 2024. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.

- (r) The interest rate for this security is inversely affected by upgrades or downgrades to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of June 30, 2024.

The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.

(b) All or a portion of the security was purchased on a delayed delivery basis. As of June 30, 2024, the total payable for investments purchased on a delayed delivery basis was $1,305,516.
(c) All or a portion of the security is pledged or segregated as collateral.
(d) Security has a variable rate. Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of June 30, 2024. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.
(e) Security is restricted to resale to institutional investors or subject to trading

- restrictions due to sanctions on foreign issuers. See Restricted Securities table following the Schedules of Investments.
(f) Treasury inflation indexed note, par amount is not adjusted for inflation.

(h) Security is a step-up bond where the coupon may increase or step up at a future date or as the result of an upgrade or downgrade to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of June 30, 2024.
(i) Perpetual security. Next contractual call price and date are presented in parentheses, if applicable.
(j) Convertible security.

- (g) Perpetual security. Next contractual call price and date are presented in parentheses, if applicable.
- (h) Security is a step-up bond where the coupon may increase or step up at a future date or as the result of an upgrade or downgrade to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of June 30, 2024.
- (i) Non-income producing security.
- (j) Security is restricted to resale to institutional investors or subject to trading restrictions due to sanctions on foreign issuers. See Restricted Securities table following the Schedules of Investments.
- (k) Contingent distributions represent the right to receive additional distributions, if any, during the reorganization of the underlying company.
- (l) Investment in affiliate.
- (m) Yield changes daily to reflect current market conditions. Rate was the quoted yield as of June 30, 2024.

- (a) Security has a variable rate. Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of June 30, 2024. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.
- (b) This senior floating rate interest will settle after June 30, 2024. If a reference rate and spread is presented, it will go into effect upon settlement.
- (c) Security fair valued in good faith as a Level 3 security in accordance with the procedures approved by the Board of Trustees. Good faith fair valued securities are classified based on the applicable valuation inputs. See "Fair Value Measurement" in the Notes to Financial Statements.
- (d) Pay-in-kind security. Stated coupon is the pay-in-kind rate. The interest earned by the security may be paid in cash or additional par.
- (e) Security fair valued in good faith as a Level 2 security in accordance with the procedures approved by the Board of Trustees. Good faith fair valued securities are classified based on the applicable valuation inputs. See "Fair Value Measurement" in the Notes to Financial Statements.
- (f) Security is exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended.

Fair Value Hierarchy. Various inputs are used in determining the fair value of financial instruments. For a description of the input levels and information about the Fund's policy regarding valuation of financial instruments, see Note 3 in the Notes to Financial Statements. The following table summarizes the Fund's investments categorized in the disclosure hierarchy as of June 30, 2024.

- restrictions due to sanctions on foreign issuers. See Restricted Securities table following the Schedules of Investments.
- (c) Perpetual security. Next contractual call price and date are presented in parentheses, if applicable.
- (d) All or a portion of the security was on loan as of June 30, 2024.
- (e) Convertible security.
- (f) Pay-in-kind security. Stated coupon is the pay-in-kind rate. The interest earned by the security may be paid in cash or additional par.
- (g) Non-income producing security.
- (h) As of June 30, 2024, issuer was in bankruptcy and/or was in default relating to principal and/or interest. Partial or no payments were paid on the last interest or dividend date.
- (i) Security has a variable rate. Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of June 30, 2024. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.
- (j) This senior floating rate interest will settle after June 30, 2024. If a reference rate and spread is presented, it will go into effect upon settlement.
- (k) Security fair valued in good faith as a Level 3 security in accordance with the procedures approved by the Board of Trustees. Good faith fair valued securities are classified based on the applicable valuation inputs. See "Fair Value Measurement" in the Notes to Financial Statements.
- (l) Investment in affiliate.
- (m) Yield changes daily to reflect current market conditions. Rate was the quoted yield as of June 30, 2024.

(a) Security is exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. As of June 30, 2024, the value and the percentage of net assets of these securities was $35,841 and 15.2% of the Fund. (b) Convertible security. (c) Security has a variable rate. Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of June 30, 2024. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents. (d) Perpetual security. Next contractual call price and date are presented in parentheses, if applicable. (e) Security is restricted to resale to institutional investors or subject to trading restrictions due to sanctions on foreign issuers. See Restricted Securities table following the Schedules of Investments. (f) The interest rate for this security is inversely affected by upgrades or downgrades to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of June 30, 2024. (g) Investment in affiliate. (h) Yield changes daily to reflect current market conditions. Rate was the quoted yield as of June 30, 2024.

For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.
- (i) Security is exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. As of June 30, 2024, the value and the percentage of net assets of these securities was $27,510 and 5.2% of the Fund.

- (m) The interest rate for this security is inversely affected by upgrades or downgrades

- to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of June 30, 2024.
- (n) Pay-in-kind security. Stated coupon is the pay-in-kind rate. The interest earned by the security may be paid in cash or additional par.

- (a) Non-income producing security.
- (b) All or a portion of the security is pledged or segregated as collateral.
- (c) All or a portion of the security is subject to a written call option.
- (d) Security is exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. As of June 30, 2024, the value and the percentage of net assets of these securities was $1,188,794 and 8.4% of the Fund.
- (e) All or a portion of the security was on loan as of June 30, 2024.
- (f) Security has a variable rate. Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of June 30, 2024. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.
- (g) This senior floating rate interest will settle after June 30, 2024. If a reference rate and spread is presented, it will go into effect upon settlement.
- (h) Security fair valued in good faith as a Level 3 security in accordance with the procedures approved by the Board of Trustees. Good faith fair valued securities are classified based on the applicable valuation inputs. See "Fair Value Measurement" in the Notes to Financial Statements.
- (i) Perpetual security. Next contractual call price and date are presented in parentheses, if applicable.
- (j) Investment in affiliate.
- (k) Yield changes daily to reflect current market conditions. Rate was the quoted yield as of June 30, 2024.

For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool

- (a) Security is exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. As of June 30, 2024, the value and the percentage of net assets of these securities was $388,208 and 75.2% of the Fund.
- (b) Convertible security.
- (c) Perpetual security. Next contractual call price and date are presented in parentheses, if applicable.
- (d) Pay-in-kind security. Stated coupon is the pay-in-kind rate. The interest earned by the security may be paid in cash or additional par.
- (e) All or a portion of the security was on loan as of June 30, 2024.
- (f) Security has a variable rate. Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of June 30, 2024. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference

- rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.
- (g) This senior floating rate interest will settle after June 30, 2024. If a reference rate and spread is presented, it will go into effect upon settlement.
- (h) Non-income producing security.
- (i) Investment in affiliate.
- (j) Yield changes daily to reflect current market conditions. Rate was the quoted yield as of June 30, 2024.

- (a) Non-income producing security.
- (b) All or a portion of the security is subject to a written call option.
- (c) Security fair valued in good faith as a Level 2 security in accordance with the procedures approved by the Board of Trustees. Good faith fair valued securities are classified based on the applicable valuation inputs. See "Fair Value Measurement" in the Notes to Financial Statements.
- (d) Security is exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. As of June 30, 2024, the value and the percentage of net assets of these securities was $14,617 and 26.2% of the Fund.
- (e) Security is a step-up bond where the coupon may increase or step up at a future date or as the result of an upgrade or downgrade to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of June 30, 2024.
- (f) All or a portion of the security is pledged or segregated as collateral.
- (g) Convertible security.
- (h) Security issued with a zero coupon. Income is recognized through the accretion of discount.
- (i) Pay-in-kind security. Stated coupon is the pay-in-kind rate. The interest earned by the security may be paid in cash or additional par.
- (j) Security is restricted to resale to institutional investors or subject to trading restrictions due to sanctions on foreign issuers. See Restricted Securities table following the Schedules of Investments.
- (k) Perpetual security. Next contractual call price and date are presented in parentheses, if applicable.
- (l) Security fair valued in good faith as a Level 3 security in accordance with the procedures approved by the Board of Trustees. Good faith fair valued securities are classified based on the applicable valuation inputs. See "Fair Value Measurement" in the Notes to Financial Statements.

- (n) As of June 30, 2024, issuer was in bankruptcy and/or was in default relating to principal and/or interest. Partial or no payments were paid on the last interest or dividend date. The aggregate value of these securities represented 2.1% of the Fund's net assets.
- (o) Security has a variable rate. Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of June 30, 2024. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.
- (p) Investment in affiliate.
- (q) Yield changes daily to reflect current market conditions. Rate was the quoted yield as of June 30, 2024.

- (a) Security is exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. As of June 30, 2024, the value and the percentage of net assets of these securities was $83,760 and 23.1% of the Fund.
- (b) All or a portion of the security was on loan as of June 30, 2024.
- (c) Perpetual security. Next contractual call price and date are presented in parentheses, if applicable.
- (d) Security has a variable rate. Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of June 30, 2024. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.
- (e) Security is a step-up bond where the coupon may increase or step up at a future date or as the result of an upgrade or downgrade to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of June 30, 2024.
- (f) The interest rate for this security is inversely affected by upgrades or downgrades to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of June 30, 2024.
- (g) Security is restricted to resale to institutional investors or subject to trading restrictions due to sanctions on foreign issuers. See Restricted Securities table following the Schedules of Investments.
- (h) Convertible security.
- (i) Non-income producing security.
- (j) As of June 30, 2024, issuer was in bankruptcy and/or was in default relating to principal and/or interest. Partial or no payments were paid on the last interest or dividend date.
- (k) Pay-in-kind security. Stated coupon is the pay-in-kind rate. The interest earned by the security may be paid in cash or additional par.
- (l) All or a portion of the security was purchased on a delayed delivery basis. As of June 30, 2024, the total payable for investments purchased on a delayed delivery basis was $7,195.
- (m) Security fair valued in good faith as a Level 3 security in accordance with the procedures approved by the Board of Trustees. Good faith fair valued securities are classified based on the applicable valuation inputs. See "Fair Value Measurement" in the Notes to Financial Statements.
- (n) Investment in affiliate.
- (o) Yield changes daily to reflect current market conditions. Rate was the quoted yield as of June 30, 2024.

(b) All or a portion of the security was on loan as of June 30, 2024.
(c) All or a portion of the security is pledged or segregated as collateral.
(d) All or a portion of the security was purchased on a delayed delivery basis. As of June 30, 2024, the total payable for investments purchased on a delayed delivery basis was $53,932.
(e) Security has a variable rate. Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of June 30, 2024. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.

- (f) Security is exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. As of June 30, 2024, the value and the percentage of net assets of these securities was $356,744 and 3.9% of the Fund.
(g) Convertible security.
(h) Security is a step-up bond where the coupon may increase or step up at a future date or as the result of an upgrade or downgrade to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of June 30, 2024.
(i) The interest rate for this security is inversely affected by upgrades or downgrades to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of June 30, 2024.
(j) Investment in affiliate.
(k) Yield changes daily to reflect current market conditions. Rate was the quoted yield as of June 30, 2024.

JNL Series Trust (Unaudited)
Financial Highlights
For a Share Outstanding

Net Investment Income (Loss). The net investment income (loss) per share is calculated using the average shares method.

Total Return. Total return assumes reinvestment of all distributions for the period. Total return is not annualized for periods less than one year and does not reflect payment of the expenses that apply to the variable accounts or any annuity charges and if it did performance would be lower.

Portfolio Turnover. Portfolio turnover is not annualized for periods of less than one year. Securities sold short are considered long term investments for purposes of calculating portfolio turnover. Dollar roll and in-kind transactions are excluded for purposes of calculating portfolio turnover. Fixed income securities with maturities greater than one year that are purchased for short term investment are excluded from the portfolio turnover calculation. Portfolio turnover for the Funds of Funds is based on the Funds of Funds' purchases and sales of the Underlying Funds. Portfolio turnover for the Feeder Funds reflects each Master Fund's portfolio purchases and sales. Portfolio turnover is calculated on the basis of the Fund as a whole, without distinguishing between the classes of shares issued.

Income and Expense Ratios. Ratios are annualized for periods less than one year. Ratios of net investment income and expenses to average net assets do not include the impact of underlying funds' expenses. The expenses or expense waivers for certain Funds' Class I shares were $0.00 for one or more days during certain periods and this was a result of the net assets for the respective Class being below a level to generate an expense allocation greater than $0.005 for that day. Additionally, the expenses or expense waivers for certain Funds' Class I shares were $0.01 for one or more days during certain periods and this was a result of the net assets for the respective Class being at a level to generate an expense allocation between $0.005 and $0.01 for that day and rounded to $0.01. As a result, the ratios of net and total expenses to average net assets during the period for Class I shares can be less than or more than the anticipated ratios of net and total expenses to average net assets depending on the net assets that Class I shares acquired during the period.

Class A shares and Class I shares differ primarily due to 12b-1 fees attributable to Class A shares. Shareholders bear the common expenses of each Fund and earn income and realized gains/losses from each Fund pro rata based on the average daily net assets of each class. From time to time, a Fund may have significant subscription and redemption activity which, when executed at the net asset value ("NAV") rounded to two decimals, can impact the NAV per share of either class and cause a divergence in the NAV between each class. Each share class also has different voting rights on matters affecting a single class. No class has preferential dividend rights.

NOTE 2. SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The Funds are investment companies and follow accounting and reporting guidance under Financial Accounting Standards Board (“FASB”) Accounting Standards Codification (“ASC”) Topic 946, “Financial Services-Investment Companies”. The following is a summary of significant accounting policies consistently followed by the Funds in the preparation of their financial statements in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles (“GAAP”).

Security Valuation. Under the Trust’s valuation policy and procedures (“Valuation Policies and Procedures”), the Trust’s Board of Trustees (“Board” or “Trustees”) has designated to the Adviser the responsibility for carrying out certain functions relating to the valuation of portfolio securities for the purpose of determining the NAV of each Fund. The Adviser has established a Valuation Committee (the “Valuation Committee”) that is charged with the responsibilities set forth in the Valuation Policies and Procedures. The Valuation Committee is responsible for determining fair valuations for any security for which market quotations are not readily available. For those securities fair valued under procedures approved by the Board, the Valuation Committee reviews and affirms the reasonableness of the fair valuation determinations after considering all relevant information that is reasonably available. The Valuation Committee’s fair valuation determinations are subject to review by the Board.

The NAV of a Fund’s shares is generally determined once each day on which the New York Stock Exchange (“NYSE”) is open, at the close of the regular trading session of the NYSE (normally, 4:00 PM Eastern Time, Monday through Friday). The NAV of a Fund’s shares may also not be determined on days designated by the Board or on days designated by the SEC. However, consistent with legal requirements, calculation of the Fund’s NAV may be suspended on days determined by the Board during times of NYSE market closure, which may include times during which the SEC issues policies or protocols associated with such closure pursuant to Section 22(e) of the 1940 Act. In the event that the NYSE is closed unexpectedly or opens for trading but closes earlier than scheduled, the Fund’s Valuation Committee will evaluate if trading activity on other U.S. exchanges and markets for equity securities is considered reflective of normal market activity. To the extent an NYSE closure is determined to be accompanied by a disruption of normal market activity, the Valuation Committee may utilize the time the NYSE closed for purposes of measuring and calculating the Funds’ NAVs. To the extent an NYSE closure is determined to not have resulted in a disruption of normal market activity, the valuation committee may utilize the time the NYSE was scheduled to close for purposes of measuring and calculating the Funds’ NAVs. The Funds of Funds’ investments in the underlying funds are valued at the daily NAV of the applicable underlying fund determined as of the close of the NYSE on each valuation date. Valuation of investments by the underlying funds is discussed in the underlying funds’ shareholder report, which are filed with the SEC and are available on the SEC’s website at www.sec.gov. Each Feeder Fund’s investment in its corresponding Master Fund is valued at the daily NAV per share of the applicable Master Fund determined as of the close of the NYSE on each valuation date. Valuation of the investments by the Master Fund is discussed in each Master Fund’s shareholder report, which is available on the SEC’s website at www.sec.gov. Equity securities are generally valued at the official closing price of the exchange where the security is principally traded. If there is no official closing price for the security on the valuation date, the security may be valued at the most recent sale or quoted bid price prior to close. Stocks not listed on a national or foreign stock exchange may be valued at the closing bid price on the over the counter (“OTC”) market. Investments in mutual funds are valued at the NAV per share determined as of the close of the NYSE on each valuation date. The Adviser has retained an independent statistical fair value pricing service to assist in the fair valuation process for equities traded in foreign markets in order to adjust for possible changes in value that may occur between the close of the foreign exchange and the time at which the NAVs are determined. When fair valuing foreign equity securities, the Adviser adjusts the closing prices of foreign portfolio equity securities (except foreign equity securities traded in North America and South America) based upon pricing models provided by a third-party vendor in order to reflect the “fair value” of such securities for purposes of determining a Fund’s NAV. Foreign equity securities traded in North America and South America may be fair valued utilizing international adjustment factors in response to local market holidays, exchange closures, or other events as deemed necessary in order to reflect the “fair value” of such securities for purposes of determining a Fund’s NAV. All securities in the JNL/WMC Government Money Market Fund, as permitted by compliance with applicable provisions under Rule 2a-7 under the 1940 Act, are valued at amortized cost, unless it is determined that such practice does not approximate fair value. If a valuation from a third party pricing service is unavailable or it is determined that such valuation does not approximate fair value, debt obligations with remaining maturities of sixty (60) days or less may be valued at their amortized cost, unless it is determined that such practice also does not approximate fair value. Debt and derivative securities are generally valued by independent pricing services approved by the Board. Pricing services utilized to value debt and derivative instruments may use various pricing techniques which take into account appropriate factors such as: yield; credit quality; coupon rate; maturity; type of issue; trading characteristics; call features; credit ratings; broker quotes; and other relevant data. Term loans are generally valued at the composite bid prices provided by approved pricing services. Commodity-linked structured notes and credit-linked notes are valued by approved pricing services. Futures contracts traded on an exchange are generally valued at the exchange’s settlement price. If the settlement price is not available, exchange traded futures are valued at the last sales price as of the close of business on the primary exchange. Options traded on an exchange are generally valued at the last traded price as of the close of business on the local exchange. If the last trade is determined to not be representative of fair value, exchange traded options are valued at the current day’s mid-price. Forward foreign currency contracts are generally valued at the foreign currency exchange rate as of the close of the NYSE. If pricing services are unable to provide valuations, OTC derivatives are valued at the most recent bid quotation or evaluated price, as applicable, obtained from a broker/dealer or by pricing models using observable inputs. Swap agreements that clear on exchanges are valued at the most recent bid quotation or evaluated price, as applicable, obtained from pricing models or by the clearing exchange using observable inputs.

Market quotations may not be readily available for certain investments or it may be determined that a quotation of an investment does not represent fair value. In such instances, the investment is valued as determined in good faith using procedures approved by the Board. Situations that may require an investment to be fair valued may include instances where a security is thinly traded, halted or restricted as to resale. In addition, investments may be fair valued based on the occurrence of a significant event. Significant events may be specific to a particular issuer, such as mergers, restructurings or defaults.

JNL Series Trust (Unaudited)
Notes to Financial Statements
June 30, 2024

Alternatively, significant events may affect an entire market, such as natural disasters, government actions, and significant changes in the value of U.S. securities markets. Securities are fair valued based on observable and unobservable inputs, including the Adviser's or Valuation Committee's own assumptions in determining the fair value of an investment. Under the procedures approved by the Board, the Adviser may utilize pricing services or other sources, including each Fund's Sub-Adviser(s), to assist in determining the fair value of an investment. Factors considered to determine fair value may include fundamental analytical data relating to the security; the nature and duration of restrictions, if any, on the disposition of the security; trading volume on markets, exchanges, or among dealers; evaluation of the forces which influence the market in which the security is traded; the type of security; the financial statements of the issuer, or other financial information about the issuer; the cost of the security at its date of purchase; the size of the Fund's holding; the discount from market value of unrestricted securities of the same class, if applicable, at the time of purchase or at a later date; reports prepared by analysts; information as to any transactions in or offers for the security; the existence of any merger proposal, tender offer or other extraordinary event relating to the security; the price and extent of public or dealer trading in similar securities or derivatives of the issuer or of comparable companies; trading in depositary receipts; foreign currency exchange activity; changes in the interest rate environment; trading prices of financial products that are tied to baskets of foreign securities; and any other matters considered relevant.

If an investment is valued at a fair value for purposes of calculating a Fund's NAV, the value may be different from the last quoted price for the investment depending on the source and method used to determine the value. Although there can be no assurance, in general, the fair value of the investment is the amount the owner of such investment might reasonably expect to receive in an orderly transaction between market participants upon its current sale.

Distributions to Shareholders. The amount and timing of distributions for the RIC Funds (as discussed in Note 10) are determined in accordance with federal income tax regulations, which may differ from GAAP. Dividends from net investment income are generally declared and paid annually by the RIC Funds, but may be paid more frequently to avoid excise tax. Distributions of net realized capital gains by the RIC Funds, if any, are distributed at least annually, to the extent they exceed available capital loss carryforwards. The JNL/WMC Government Money Market Fund declares dividends from net investment income daily and pays dividends monthly. No distributions of net investment income or realized capital gains are required for Funds that are not RICs, therefore, undistributed net investment income and accumulated net realized gain/loss are reclassified to paid-in capital on a semi-annual basis. Capital gains distributions received from the Master Funds and underlying funds are recorded as Net realized gain on Distributions from Affiliated or Unaffiliated investment companies, as applicable, in the Statements of Operations.

Security Transactions and Investment Income. Security transactions are recorded on the trade date for financial reporting purposes. Realized gains and losses are determined on the specific identification basis. Dividend income, net of applicable withholding taxes, is recorded on the ex-dividend date. Corporate actions involving foreign securities, including dividends, are recorded when the information becomes available. Income received in lieu of dividends for securities loaned is included in Dividends in the Statements of Operations. Interest income, including effective-yield amortization of discounts and premiums on debt securities and convertible bonds, is accrued daily. A Fund may place a debt obligation on non-accrual status and reduce related interest income, and value, by ceasing current accruals and writing off interest receivables when the collection of all or a portion of interest has become uncollectible. A debt obligation is removed from non-accrual status when the issuer resumes interest payments or when collectability of interest is reasonably assured. Following Russia's invasion of Ukraine on February 24, 2022, economic sanctions and other restrictive measures have limited the ability of the Funds to receive and record dividend, interest and maturity payments from certain Russian securities or to repatriate Russian currency.

Expenses. Expenses are recorded on an accrual basis. Expenses of the Trust that are directly attributable to a specific Fund are charged to that Fund. Expenses attributable to a specific class of shares are charged to that class and any other expenses are allocated to the classes on a pro rata basis using the daily net assets of each class. Other Trust level expenses are allocated to the Funds based on the average daily net assets of each Fund. As it relates to expenses in Master Funds, the Feeder Fund's shareholders bear the fees and expenses of each respective Master Fund in which the Feeder Fund invests because each Feeder Fund invests all of its assets in its respective Master Fund. Such expenses are not included in the Statements of Operations but are incurred indirectly in the calculation of the NAV of the respective Master Fund. As a result, the Feeder Funds' actual expenses may be higher than those of other mutual funds that invest directly in securities. A similar situation exists for the Funds of Funds as it relates to the expenses associated with the investments in underlying funds.

Foreign Taxes. The Funds may be subject to foreign taxes on income, gains on investments or foreign currency purchases and repatriation, a portion of which may be recoverable. The Funds will accrue such taxes and recoveries as applicable, based upon the current interpretations of tax rules and regulations that exist in the markets in which the Funds invest. When a capital gains tax is determined to apply, a Fund will record an estimated tax liability in an amount that may be payable if the securities were disposed of on the valuation date. The estimated liability is recorded as Deferred foreign capital gains tax liability in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities. Foreign capital gains tax paid and the current period's change in deferred foreign capital gains tax liability are recorded in Net realized gain (loss) on Investments - unaffiliated and Net change in unrealized appreciation (depreciation) on Investments - unaffiliated, respectively, in the Statements of Operations.

Foreign Currency Translations. The accounting records of each Fund are maintained in U.S. dollars. Each business day, the fair values of foreign securities, currency holdings and other assets and liabilities denominated in a foreign currency are translated into U.S. dollars based on current exchange rates. Purchases and sales of investment securities, income receipts and expense payments are translated into U.S. dollars based on the respective exchange rates prevailing on the dates of such transactions. The Funds do not isolate that portion of the results of operations resulting from changes in foreign exchange rates on investments from the fluctuations arising from changes in market prices of foreign securities. Such fluctuations are included in Net realized gain (loss) on Investments - unaffiliated and Net change in unrealized appreciation (depreciation) on Investments - unaffiliated, respectively, in the Statements of Operations.

Net realized gains and losses on foreign currency related items are considered ordinary income for tax purposes and arise from sales of foreign currencies; currency gains or losses realized between the trade and settlement dates on securities transactions; the difference between the amounts of dividends, interest and foreign withholding taxes recorded and the U.S. dollar amounts actually received or paid; and the realized gains or losses resulting from portfolio and transaction hedges. Net unrealized gain or loss on foreign currency related items include gains and losses from changes in the value of assets and liabilities, other than investments in securities, resulting from changes in currency exchange rates.

Guarantees and Indemnifications. In the normal course of business, the Trust may enter into contracts that contain a variety of representations which provide general indemnifications for certain liabilities. Under the Trust's organizational documents, its officers and Trustees are indemnified against certain liabilities arising out of the performance of their duties to the Funds. However, since their commencement of operations, the Funds have not had claims or losses pursuant to their contracts and expect the risk of loss to be remote. The Funds' maximum exposure under these arrangements is unknown since the amount of any future claims that may be made against the Funds cannot be determined and the Funds have no historical basis for predicting the likelihood of any such claims.

Use of Estimates. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of increases and decreases in net assets from operations during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Statement of Cash Flows. GAAP requires entities providing financial statements that report both a financial position and results of operations to also provide a statement of cash flows for each period for which results of operations are provided, but exempts investment companies meeting certain conditions including that the investment company had little or no debt, based on the average debt outstanding during the period, in relation to average total assets and that substantially all the investment company's investments were carried at Level 1 or Level 2 measurements in accordance with FASB ASC Topic 820. Funds with certain degrees of borrowing activity, typically through the use of securities sold short, transactions characterized as secured borrowing transactions or reverse repurchase agreements, have been determined to require a statement of cash flows.

Recent Accounting Pronouncements. In March 2020, FASB issued Accounting Standards Update ("ASU") 2020-04, Reference Rate Reform (Topic 848): Facilitation of the Effects of Reference Rate Reform on Financial Reporting. The guidance provides optional expedients and exceptions for applying GAAP to contract modifications and hedging relationships, subject to meeting certain criteria, that reference the London Interbank Offered Rate (LIBOR) or another reference rate expected to be discontinued due to reference rate reform. The amendments in this update are elective and may be applied through December 31, 2024. Management has evaluated the amendments and determined that they will not have a significant impact on the Funds' financial statements.

In June 2022, FASB issued ASU 2022-03, Fair Value Measurement (Topic 820): Fair Value Measurement of Equity Securities Subject to Contractual Sale Restrictions. The amendments in the ASU clarify guidance in Topic 820 when measuring the fair value of equity securities subject to contractual restrictions prohibiting their sale and introduce new disclosure requirements for these securities. The amendments in this update are effective for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2023. Management has evaluated the amendments and determined that they will not have a significant impact on the Funds' financial statements.

NOTE 3. FAIR VALUE MEASUREMENT

FASB ASC Topic 820 establishes a single authoritative definition of fair value, sets out a framework for measuring fair value and requires additional disclosures about fair value measurements. Various inputs are used in determining the value of a Fund's investments under this guidance. The inputs are summarized into three broad categories:

Level 1 includes valuations based on quoted prices of identical securities in active markets, including valuations for securities listed on national or foreign stock exchanges, futures and options contracts listed on derivatives exchanges or investments in mutual funds. Level 1 valuations include investments in the underlying funds and Master Funds.

Level 2 includes valuations determined from significant direct or indirect observable inputs. Direct observable inputs include broker quotes, third-party prices, closing prices of similar securities in active markets, closing prices for identical or similar securities in non-active markets or corporate action or reorganization entitlement values. Indirect significant observable inputs include factors such as interest rates, yield curves, prepayment speeds or credit ratings. Level 2 includes valuations for fixed income securities, including certain term loans, OTC derivatives, centrally cleared swap agreements, broker quotes in active markets, securities subject to corporate actions, securities valued at amortized cost, international equity securities priced by an independent statistical fair value pricing service, swap agreements valued by pricing services, ADRs and GDRs for which quoted prices in active markets are not available or securities limited by foreign ownership.

Level 3 includes valuations determined from significant unobservable inputs including the Adviser's own assumptions in determining the fair value of the investment. Inputs used to determine the fair value of Level 3 securities include security specific inputs such as: credit quality, credit rating spreads, issuer news, trading characteristics, call features, maturity or anticipated cash flows; or industry specific inputs such as: trading activity of similar markets or securities, changes in the security's underlying index or changes in comparable securities' models. Level 3 valuations include securities, currency exchange rates and forward foreign currency contracts where forward rates are not available; term loans that do not meet certain liquidity thresholds; securities where prices may be unavailable due to halted trading, restricted to resale due to market events, or newly issued; private placements; or investments for which reliable quotes are otherwise not available.

Inputs used in the determination of the fair value level of Level 3 securities, which were deemed to be material, are disclosed within the notes below and are not necessarily an indication of the risk associated with investing in those securities.

NOTE 4. SECURITIES AND OTHER INVESTMENTS

Securities Lending and Securities Lending Collateral. All Funds, except JNL/PPM America Floating Rate Income Fund, JNL/WMC Government Money Market Fund, the Funds of Funds and the Feeder Funds, participate in agency based securities lending programs. JPMorgan Chase Bank, N.A. ("JPM Chase") and State Street Bank and Trust Company ("State Street") (each a "Custodian" and together the "Custodians") each serve as securities lending agent to the eligible Funds for which they are Custodian. Per the securities lending agreements, the securities lending agent is authorized to loan securities on behalf of the Funds to approved borrowers and is required to maintain collateral. Each Fund receives either cash or non-cash collateral against the loaned securities in an amount equal to at least 100% of the market value of the loaned securities. Generally, cash and non-cash collateral received for the following types of securities on loan are as follows: U.S. Government fixed income – 102%; U.S. equities – 102%; U.S. corporate fixed income – 102%; international equities – 105%; international corporate fixed income – 105%; sovereign fixed income – 102%; and asset backed investments – 102%. Collateral is maintained over the life of the loan as determined at the close of Fund business each day; any additional collateral required due to changes in security values is typically delivered to the Fund on the next business day. The duration of each loan is determined by the agent and borrower and generally may be terminated at any time. Certain loans may be negotiated to mature on a specified date. The securities lending agents have agreed to indemnify the Fund in the event of default by a third-party borrower. A Fund may experience a delay in the recovery of its securities or incur a loss if the borrower breaches its agreement with the Fund or becomes insolvent. For cash collateral, the Fund receives income from the investment of cash collateral, which is shared with the borrower through negotiated rebates. The Fund bears the risk that the agent may default on its obligations to the Fund. Non-cash collateral which a Fund receives may include U.S. Government securities; U.S. Government agencies' debt securities; and U.S. Government-sponsored agencies' debt securities and mortgage-backed securities. For non-cash collateral, the Fund receives lending fees negotiated with the borrower. The securities lending agents have agreed to indemnify the Fund with respect to the market risk related to the non-cash collateral investments. The Fund also bears the market risk with respect to the collateral received and securities loaned. JPM Chase and State Street receive a portion of the earnings from the Funds' securities lending program.

Except as described below, cash collateral received is invested in the JNL Government Money Market Fund – Class SL, a registered government money market fund under the 1940 Act and series of the JNL Investors Series Trust. JNAM serves as the Adviser and Administrator for the JNL Government Money Market Fund. The JNL Government Money Market Fund is offered to the Funds and their affiliates and is not available for direct purchase by members of the public. The JNL Government Money Market Fund pays JNAM annual fees, accrued daily and payable monthly, for investment advisory and administrative services. In addition to investing cash collateral in the JNL Government Money Market Fund – Class SL, JNL/Mellon S&P 500 Index Fund may invest cash collateral in repurchase agreements collateralized by equity and U.S. Government or agency securities. JPM Chase has agreed to bear the risk of any deficiency in the amount of collateral available for return to a borrower due to a decline in value of the repurchase agreements collateralized by equity and U.S. Government or agency securities. Reinvestments in repurchase agreements will not exceed 10% of a Fund's net assets, shall be collateralized by equity and U.S. Government or agency securities equal to not less than 110% of the cash collateral reinvested in such transactions, and shall be marked-to-market daily.

Cash collateral received from the borrower is recorded in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities as Payable for Return of securities loaned. Investments acquired with such cash collateral are reported in a manner consistent with other portfolio investments held by each Fund as Investments - affiliated, at value or Investments - unaffiliated, at value, as applicable, on the Statements of Assets and Liabilities. Each Fund's net exposure to a borrower is determined by the amount of any shortfall in collateral received compared to the value of securities on loan. Certain Funds receive non-cash collateral in the form of securities received, which the Funds may not sell or re-pledge and accordingly are not reflected in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities. The value of securities on loan and collateral received (in thousands) at June 30, 2024 was as follows:

U.S. Government Agencies or Government Sponsored Enterprises. Certain Funds may invest in U.S. Government agencies or government sponsored enterprises. U.S. Government securities are obligations of, and in certain cases, guaranteed by, the U.S. Government, its agencies or instrumentalities. Some U.S. Government securities, such as Treasury bills, notes and bonds, and securities guaranteed by the Government National Mortgage Association, are supported by the full faith and credit of the U.S. Government; others, such as those of the Federal Home Loan Bank, are supported by the right of the issuer to borrow from the U.S. Department of the Treasury ("U.S. Treasury"); others, such as those of the Federal National Mortgage Association ("FNMA" or "Fannie Mae"), are supported by the discretionary authority of the U.S. Government to purchase the agency's obligations; and still others, such as those of the Student Loan Marketing Association, are supported only by the credit of the instrumentality. U.S. Government securities may include zero coupon securities, which do not distribute interest on a current basis and tend to be subject to greater risk than interest paying securities of similar maturities.

Government-related guarantors (i.e., guarantors that are not backed by the full faith and credit of the U.S. Government) include FNMA and the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation ("FHLMC" or "Freddie Mac"). FNMA purchases conventional (i.e., not insured or guaranteed by any government agency) residential mortgages from a list of approved seller/servicers, which include state and federally chartered savings and loan associations, mutual savings banks, commercial banks and credit unions and mortgage bankers. Pass-through securities issued by FNMA are guaranteed as to timely payment of principal and interest by FNMA, but are not backed by the full faith and credit of the U.S. Government. FHLMC issues Participation Certificates ("PCs"), which are pass-through securities, each representing an undivided interest in a pool of residential mortgages. FHLMC guarantees the timely payment of interest and ultimate collection of principal, but PCs are not backed by the full faith and credit of the U.S. Government.

FNMA and FHLMC have been operating as going concerns in a conservatorship overseen by the Federal Housing Finance Agency ("FHFA") since 2008. As the conservator, FHFA succeeded to all rights, titles, powers and privileges of FNMA and FHLMC and of any stockholder, officer or director of FNMA and FHLMC with respect to FNMA and FHLMC and each enterprise's assets. However, each remains liable for all of its obligations, including its guarantees, associated with its mortgage-backed securities. In connection with the conservatorship, the U.S. Treasury entered into a Senior Preferred Stock Purchase Agreement with FNMA and FHLMC. This agreement contains various covenants that severely limit each enterprise's operations. In exchange for entering into these agreements, the U.S. Treasury received senior preferred stock in each enterprise and warrants to purchase each enterprise's common stock.

Unregistered Securities. Certain Funds may own certain investment securities that are unregistered and thus restricted to resale. These securities may also be referred to as “private placements”. Unregistered securities may be classified as “illiquid” because there is no readily available market for sale of the securities. Where future dispositions of the securities require registration under the 1933 Act, the Funds have the right to include those securities in such registration generally without cost to the Funds. The Funds have no right to require registration of unregistered securities.

Repurchase Agreements. Certain Funds may invest in repurchase agreements. In a repurchase agreement a Fund receives debt securities (collateral) subject to an obligation of the seller to repurchase, and the Fund to resell, the securities at an agreed upon price and date. The underlying securities used as collateral for repurchase agreements may be held in safekeeping by the Fund’s Custodian or designated sub-custodians under triparty repurchase agreements. Earnings on collateral and compensation to the seller are based on agreed upon rates between the seller and the Fund. Interest earned on repurchase agreements is recorded as interest income to the Fund. When a repurchase agreement is entered into, a Fund typically receives securities with a value that approximates or exceeds the repurchase price, including any accrued interest earned on the repurchase agreement. The value of such securities will be marked to market daily, and cash or additional securities will be exchanged between the parties with a frequency and in amounts prescribed in the repurchase agreement. In the event of a default by the counterparty, realization of the collateral proceeds could be delayed, during which time the value of such collateral may decline.

Reverse Repurchase Agreements. Certain Funds may enter into reverse repurchase agreements. In a reverse repurchase agreement, a Fund delivers to a counterparty a security in exchange for cash with a simultaneous agreement to repurchase the same or substantially the same security at an agreed upon price and date. Cash received in exchange for securities delivered plus accrued interest to be paid by the Fund are reflected as Payable for Reverse repurchase agreements on the Statements of Assets and Liabilities. Interest paid is recorded as interest expense to the Fund. The Fund receives principal and interest payments, if any, made on the security delivered to the counterparty during the term of the agreement. In periods of increased demand of the security, the Fund may receive a fee for use of the security by the counterparty, which may result in interest income to the Fund. A reverse repurchase agreement involves the risk that the value of the security delivered by the Fund may decline below the repurchase price of the security.

The average daily balance (in thousands) and the weighted average interest rate for reverse repurchase agreements, for the period ended June 30, 2024, were as follows: JNL Multi-Manager Alternative Fund, $14,714 and 5.55%, respectively, for 182 days outstanding; JNL/PIMCO Income Fund, $28,384 and 5.32%, respectively, for 129 days outstanding. The value of reverse repurchase agreements and collateral pledged (in thousands) at June 30, 2024 was as follows:

Forward Sales Commitments. Certain Funds may purchase or sell forward sales commitments. A forward sales commitment involves a Fund entering into a contract to purchase or sell securities for a fixed price at a future date beyond the customary settlement period. The purchase of a forward sales commitment involves the risk of loss if the value of the security to be purchased declines before the settlement date while the sale of a forward sales commitment involves the risk that the value of the securities to be sold may increase before the settlement date. A Fund may dispose of or renegotiate forward sales commitments after they are entered into, and may close these positions before they are delivered, which may result in realized gain or loss.

Delayed-Delivery Securities. Certain Funds may purchase or sell securities on a delayed-delivery basis, including To Be Announced (“TBA”) or “To Be Acquired” securities. These transactions involve a commitment by a Fund to purchase or sell securities for a predetermined price or yield, with payment and delivery taking place beyond the customary settlement period. In TBA transactions, the Fund commits to purchasing or selling securities for which all specific information is not yet known at the time of the trade, particularly the face amount and maturity date of the underlying securities. When delayed-delivery purchases are outstanding, the Fund is required to have sufficient cash and/or liquid securities to cover its commitments on these transactions. When purchasing a security on a delayed-delivery basis, the Fund assumes the rights of ownership of the security, including the risk of price and yield fluctuations, and considers such fluctuations when determining its NAV. A Fund may dispose of or renegotiate a delayed-delivery transaction after it is entered into, and the Fund may sell delayed-delivery securities before they are delivered, which may result in a realized gain or loss. When a Fund has sold a security on a delayed-delivery basis, the Fund does not participate in future gains or losses with respect to the security. Securities purchased on a TBA basis are not settled until they are delivered to the Fund. In connection with TBA transactions, Funds may maintain a short position related to certain securities. In connection with these transactions, the Fund owns an equal amount of the securities or holds securities convertible (or exchangeable) into an equal amount of the securities, of the same issuer, as the position held short.

Mortgage-Backed Dollar and Treasury Roll Transactions. Certain Funds may purchase or sell mortgage-backed or Treasury securities and simultaneously contract to sell or repurchase securities at a future date at an agreed upon price. The Funds may only enter into covered rolls. A “covered roll" is a type of dollar or Treasury roll for which a Fund maintains offsetting positions in cash, U.S. Government securities, or other liquid assets which mature on or before the forward sale or repurchase settlement date of the dollar or Treasury roll transaction. During the period between the purchase or sale and subsequent sale or repurchase, a Fund foregoes interest and principal paid on the mortgage-backed or Treasury securities. A Fund is compensated by the interest earned on the cash proceeds of the sale and from negotiated fees paid by brokers offered as an inducement to the Fund to "roll over" its purchase commitments. A Fund may dispose of "covered roll" securities after they are entered into and close these positions before their maturity, which may result in a realized gain or loss.

Dollar or Treasury roll transactions involve the risk that the fair value of the securities sold by a Fund may decline below the repurchase price of those securities which the Fund is obligated to purchase or that the return earned by the Fund with the proceeds of a dollar roll may not exceed transaction costs.

In a mortgage-backed or Treasury securities roll transaction, if the repurchased security is determined to be similar, but not substantially the same, the transaction is accounted for as a purchase and sale. Any gains, losses and any income or fees earned are recorded to realized gain or loss. If the repurchased security is determined to be substantially the same, the transaction is accounted for as a secured borrowing, rather than as a purchase and sales transaction. For Funds with significant transactions characterized as secured borrowing transactions, any income or fees earned are recorded to investment income and financing costs associated with the transaction are recorded to interest expense.

The average daily balance (in thousands) and the weighted average interest rate for Treasury roll transactions accounted for as secured borrowing transactions, for the period ended June 30, 2024, were as follows: JNL/PIMCO Income Fund, $77,485 and 4.74%, respectively, for 132 days outstanding; JNL/PIMCO Investment Grade Credit Bond Fund, $63,301 and 6.12%, respectively, for 182 days outstanding; and JNL/PIMCO Real Return Fund, $275,901 and 2.57%, respectively, for 182 days outstanding. At June 30, 2024, JNL/PIMCO Income Fund, JNL/PIMCO Investment Grade Credit Bond Fund and JNL/PIMCO Real Return Fund had $175, $95 and $110, respectively, of deferred income (in thousands) included in Payable for Treasury roll transactions on the Statements of Assets and Liabilities.

The following table details Treasury roll transactions (in thousands) outstanding accounted for as secured borrowings as of June 30, 2024:

Inflation-Indexed Bonds. Certain Funds may invest in inflation-indexed bonds which are fixed income securities whose principal value is periodically adjusted to the rate of inflation. The interest rate on these bonds is generally fixed at issuance at a rate lower than typical bonds. Over the life of an inflation-indexed bond, however, interest will be paid based on a principal value which is adjusted for inflation. Any increase in the principal amount of an inflation-indexed bond will be considered interest income, even though investors do not receive principal payments until maturity.

Senior and Junior Loans. Certain Funds may invest in Senior loans or secured and unsecured subordinated loans, second lien loans and subordinated bridge loans ("Junior loans") which are purchased or sold on a when-issued or delayed-delivery basis and may be settled a month or more after the trade date. Interest income on these loans is accrued based on the terms of the securities. Senior and Junior loans can be acquired through an agent, by assignment from another holder of the loan, or as a participation interest in another holder's portion of the loan.

Securities Sold Short. Certain Funds may enter into short sales transactions whereby the Fund sells a security it does not own in anticipation of a decline in the market price of the security or to engage in arbitrage transactions. When a Fund engages in a short sale, the Fund borrows the security sold short to make delivery to the buyer. The Fund may have to pay a fee to borrow securities and is often obligated to repay the lender of the securities for any interest or dividends that accrues on the borrowed securities during the period of the loan. Until the Fund closes its short position, the lending broker or lending agent requires assets in the form of securities or cash to be segregated as collateral, which is marked-to-market daily, to the extent necessary to meet margin requirements or cover the short sale obligation. A Fund is obligated to deliver securities at the market price at the time the short position is closed. If the price of the security sold short increases between the time of the short sale and the time that the Fund replaces the borrowed security, the Fund will incur a capital loss; conversely, if the price declines, the Fund will realize a capital gain. A Fund's loss on a short sale could theoretically be unlimited in cases where the Fund is unable, for whatever reason, to close out its short position.

Convertible Securities. Certain Funds may invest in fixed-income securities which are convertible into common stock. Convertible securities may be converted either at a stated price or rate within a specified period of time into a specified number of shares of common stock. Typically, convertible securities pay dividends or interest greater than on the related common stocks, but less than fixed income non-convertible securities. By investing in a convertible security, a Fund may participate in any capital appreciation or depreciation of a company's stock, but to a lesser degree than if it had invested in that company's common stock. Convertible securities rank senior to common stock in a corporation's capital structure and, therefore, entail less risk than the corporation's common stock. A Fund may attempt to hedge certain of their investments in convertible debt securities by selling short the issuer's common stock.

Credit-Linked Structured Notes. Certain Funds may use credit-linked notes to take positions or manage equity price risk in the normal course of pursuing its investment objective. The value of a credit-linked note is based on the price movements of a particular credit, known as a reference credit. Credit-linked notes that the Funds invest in are typically listed instruments that typically provide the same return as the underlying reference credit. Credit-linked notes are intended to replicate the economic effects that would apply had a Fund directly purchased the underlying reference credit. The Fund generally will receive a fixed or floating coupon and the note's par value upon maturity. If a specified credit event occurs, such as default or bankruptcy, the Fund may experience a delay in payment or forego interest. The maximum potential risk of loss is limited to the par amount of the credit-linked note plus any accrued interest. The reference credit and its credit rating, for each credit-linked note, are presented parenthetically in the Schedules of Investments.

Equity-Linked Structured Notes. Certain Funds may invest in equity-linked notes. Equity-linked notes are financial instruments that combine debt and equity characteristics. These notes typically pay interest that is linked to the performance of the underlying equity. Equity-linked notes may be more volatile and less liquid than the underlying equity. In addition to fluctuating price movements in the underlying equity, these notes are debt securities of the issuer and will be subject to credit and interest rate risks that typically affect debt instruments.

Master Limited Partnerships. Certain Funds may invest in Master Limited Partnerships ("MLPs"). An MLP is a publicly traded company organized as a limited partnership or limited liability company and treated as a partnership for federal income tax purposes. The benefit derived from the Fund's investment in MLPs is largely dependent on the MLPs being treated as partnerships for federal income tax purposes. MLPs may derive income and gains from the exploration, development, mining or production, processing, refining, transportation (including pipelines transporting gas, oil, or products thereof), or the marketing of any mineral or natural resources.

Real Estate Investment Trusts. Certain Funds may invest in Real Estate Investment Trusts ("REITs"). REITs are traded as a stock on major stock exchanges and invests in real estate directly, either through properties or mortgages. REITs typically concentrate on a specific geographic region or property type, receive special tax considerations and are a liquid method of investing in real estate.

Participation Note Securities. Certain Funds may invest in Participation Notes ("P-Notes"). P-Notes are promissory notes that are designed to offer a return linked to the performance of a particular underlying equity security or market. P-Notes are issued by banks or broker-dealers and allow a Fund to gain exposure to common stocks in markets where direct investment by the Fund may not be allowed or efficient. A Fund may tender a P-Note for cash payment in an amount that reflects the current fair value of the underlying equity investments or market, reduced by program fees.

Unfunded Commitments. Certain Funds may enter into certain credit agreements, all or a portion of which may be unfunded. The Fund is obligated to fund these loan commitments at the borrowers' discretion. Unfunded loan commitments and funded portions of credit agreements are marked-to-market daily. Net unrealized appreciation/depreciation on unfunded commitments is reflected in Other assets and Payable for Investment securities purchased in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities and Net change in unrealized appreciation (depreciation) on Investments - unaffiliated in the Statements of Operations.

NOTE 5. INVESTMENT TRANSACTION AGREEMENTS AND COLLATERAL

Under various agreements, certain investment transactions require collateral to be pledged to or from a Fund and a counterparty or segregated at the custodian and the collateral is managed pursuant to the terms of the agreement. U.S. Treasury Bills and U.S. dollars are generally the preferred forms of collateral, although other forms of high quality or sovereign securities may be used. Securities held by a Fund that are used as collateral are identified as such within the Schedules of Investments. Collateral for OTC financial derivative transactions paid to or received from brokers and counterparties is included in Receivable from Deposits with brokers and counterparties and Payable for Deposits from counterparties in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities.

Master Netting Agreements (“Master Agreements”). Certain Funds are subject to various Master Agreements, which govern the terms of certain transactions and mitigate the counterparty risk associated with relevant transactions by specifying credit protection mechanisms and providing standardization that improves legal certainty. Because different types of financial transactions have different mechanics and are sometimes traded out of different legal entities of a particular counterparty organization, each type of transaction may be covered by a different Master Agreement, potentially resulting in the need for multiple agreements with a single counterparty. A Fund may net exposure and collateralize multiple transaction types governed by the same Master Agreement with the same counterparty and may close out and net its total exposure to a counterparty in the event of a default and/or termination event with respect to all the transactions governed under a single agreement with a counterparty. Each Master Agreement defines whether the Fund is contractually able to net settle daily payments. Additionally, certain circumstances, such as laws of a particular jurisdiction or settlement of amounts due in different currencies, may prohibit or restrict the right of offset as defined in the Master Agreements.

Master Agreements also help limit credit and counterparty risk by specifying collateral posting arrangements at pre-arranged exposure levels. Under the Master Agreements, collateral is routinely transferred if the total net exposure to certain transactions (net of existing collateral) governed under the relevant master agreement with a counterparty in a given account exceeds a specified threshold depending on the counterparty and the type of Master Agreement. A Fund’s overall exposure to counterparty risk can change substantially within a short period, as it is affected by each transaction subject to the relevant Master Agreement. To the extent amounts due to a Fund from its counterparties are not fully collateralized, contractually or otherwise, the Fund bears the risk of loss from counterparty non-performance. The Funds’ Sub-Advisers attempt to limit counterparty risk by only entering into Master Agreements with counterparties that the Sub-Adviser believes to have the financial resources to honor their obligations and by monitoring the financial stability of those counterparties. For swap agreements executed with a Derivatives Clearing Organization (“DCO”) in a multilateral or other trade facility platform (“centrally cleared swaps”), counterparty risk is reduced by shifting exposure from the counterparty to the DCO. Additionally, the DCO has broad powers to provide an orderly liquidation in the event of a default.

Master Repurchase Agreements and Global Master Repurchase Agreements (individually and collectively “Master Repo Agreements”). Master Repo Agreements govern repurchase, reverse repurchase and Treasury roll transactions between a Fund and select counterparties. The Master Repo Agreements maintain provisions for, among other things, initiation and confirmation, income payments and transfer, events of default, termination, and maintenance of collateral. In the event of default, the total value exposure will be offset against collateral exchanged to date, which would result in a net receivable/(payable) that would be due from/to the counterparty. Securities purchased under repurchase agreements are reflected as an asset on a Fund’s Statement of Assets and Liabilities. The value of repurchase agreements and collateral pledged or received by a counterparty are disclosed in the Schedules of Investments. A Fund’s net exposure to the counterparty is determined by the amount of any excess or shortfall in collateral compared to the value of the repurchase or reverse repurchase agreement.

Master Securities Forward Transaction Agreements (“Master Forward Agreements”). Master Forward Agreements govern the considerations and factors surrounding the settlement of certain forward-settling transactions, such as delayed-delivery transactions, TBA securities and Treasury roll transactions between a Fund and select counterparties. The Master Forward Agreements maintain provisions for, among other things, initiation and confirmation, payment and transfer, events of default, termination, and maintenance of collateral. Losses may arise due to changes in the value of the underlying securities prior to settlement date, if the counterparty does not perform under the contract’s terms, or if the issuer does not issue the securities due to political, economic or other factors. In the event of default, the unrealized gain or loss will be offset against collateral exchanged to date, which would result in a net receivable/(payable) that would be due from/to the counterparty. In the ordinary course of business, settlements of transactions are not typically subject to net settlement, except for TBA pools.

Customer Account Agreements. Customer Account Agreements and related addendums govern exchange traded or centrally cleared derivative transactions such as futures, options on futures and centrally cleared derivatives. If a Fund transacts in exchange traded or centrally cleared derivatives, the Sub-Adviser is a party to agreements with (1) a Futures Commissions Merchant (“FCM”) in which the FCM facilitates the execution of the exchange traded and centrally cleared derivative with the DCO and (2) with an executing broker/swap dealer to agree to the terms of the swap and resolution process in the event the centrally cleared swap is not accepted for clearing by the designated DCO. Exchange traded and centrally cleared derivatives transactions require posting an amount of cash or cash equivalents equal to a certain percentage of the contract amount known as the “initial margin” as determined by each relevant clearing agency and is segregated at an FCM which is registered with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission (“CFTC”) or the applicable regulator. The Fund receives from, or pays to, the counterparty an amount of cash equal to the daily fluctuation in the value of the contracts. Such receipts or payments are known as the “variation margin”. For certain exchanges or DCOs, variation margin may include more than one day’s fluctuation in the value of the contracts. Variation margin on the Statements of Assets and Liabilities may include variation margin on closed unsettled derivative transactions. Variation margin received may not be netted between exchange traded and centrally cleared derivatives. In the event of default, counterparty risk is significantly reduced as creditors to the FCM do not have claim to the Fund’s assets in the segregated account. Additionally, portability of exposure in the event of default further reduces risk.

International Swaps and Derivatives Association Inc. Master Agreements and Credit Support Annexes (“ISDA Master Agreements”). ISDA Master Agreements govern OTC financial derivative transactions entered into by a Fund’s Sub-Adviser and select counterparties. The ISDA Master Agreements maintain provisions for general obligations, representations, agreements, events of default, termination and maintenance of collateral. Termination includes conditions that may entitle counterparties to elect to terminate early and cause settlement of all outstanding transactions under the applicable ISDA Master Agreement. Any election to early termination could be material to the financial statements. In the event of default, the total financial derivative value exposure will be offset against collateral exchanged to date, which would result in a net receivable/(payable) that would be due from/to the counterparty. The amount of collateral exchanged is based on provisions within the ISDA Master Agreements and is determined by the net exposure with the counterparty and is not identified for a specific OTC derivative instrument.

Prime Brokerage Arrangements and Other Securities Borrowing Agreements. Certain Funds may enter into Prime Brokerage Arrangements or Securities Borrowing Agreements to facilitate execution and/or clearing of listed equity option transactions or short sales of securities between the Fund and select counterparties. The arrangements provide general guidelines surrounding the rights, obligations and other events, including but not limited to, margin, execution and settlement. These arrangements maintain provisions for, among other things, payments, maintenance of collateral, events of default, and termination. Cash margin and securities delivered as collateral are typically in the possession of the prime broker or lending agent and offset any obligations due to the prime broker or lending agent. Cash collateral held at the prime broker is reflected in Cash collateral segregated for short sales in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities. In the event of default, the value of securities sold short will be offset against collateral exchanged to date, which would result in a net receivable/(payable) that would be due from/to the counterparty.

NOTE 6. DERIVATIVE FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

Options Transactions. Certain Funds may buy and sell ("write") call and put options on securities, futures, indices, currencies, swap agreements ("swaptions") and inflation caps and floors. An option is a contract that gives the purchaser of the option, in return for a premium paid, the right to buy a specified underlying instrument from the writer of the option (in the case of a call option), or to sell a specified underlying instrument to the writer of the option (in the case of a put option) at a designated price. The right to exercise is dependent upon the contract terms and can be during the term or at expiration of the option. When a Fund purchases an option, the premium paid by the Fund is recorded as an asset. When a Fund writes a call or put option or an inflation cap or floor, the premium received by the Fund is recorded as a liability. All types of options are marked-to-market daily and the change in value is recorded by the Fund as an unrealized gain or loss. Premiums paid for purchasing options which expire are treated as realized losses. Premiums paid for purchasing options which are exercised or closed are added to the cost basis of the underlying investment or offset against the proceeds of the underlying investment transaction to determine realized gain or loss. Purchasing call options tends to increase a Fund's exposure to the underlying instrument. Purchasing put options tends to decrease a Fund's exposure to the underlying instrument. The risks associated with purchasing options are limited to premiums paid and the failure of the counterparty to honor its obligation under the contract. Premiums received from writing options which expire are treated as realized gains. Premiums received from writing options which are exercised or closed are added to the proceeds of the underlying investment transaction or reduce the cost basis of the underlying investment to determine the realized gain or loss. Writing call options tends to decrease a Fund's exposure to the underlying instrument. Writing put options tends to increase a Fund's exposure to the underlying instrument. The risk associated with writing an option that is exercised is that an unfavorable change in the price of the security underlying the option could result in a Fund buying the underlying security at a price higher than the current value or selling the underlying security at a price lower than the current fair value. There is also the risk a Fund may not be able to enter into a closing transaction if the market is illiquid. Options written by a Fund do not give rise to counterparty credit risk, as they obligate the Fund, not the counterparty, to perform.

Depending on the exchange on which an exchange traded futures option is traded, premium may be paid/received when purchasing/writing the option or there may be no premium paid/received when purchasing/writing the option. Variation margin on these options is recorded by the Fund until the contracts are terminated at which time realized gains and losses are recognized. Exchange traded futures options involve to varying degrees, risk of loss in excess of the variation margin recorded by the Fund.

Swaptions are similar to options on securities except that instead of purchasing the right to buy or sell a security, the writer or purchaser of the swaption is granting or buying the right to enter into a previously agreed upon interest rate or credit default swap agreement. The right to exercise is dependent upon the contract terms and can be during the term or at expiration of the option. Swaptions are classified as illiquid investments. Straddle options are written or purchased with premiums to be determined on a future date which are based upon implied volatility parameters at specified terms. An inflation cap can be used to protect the buyer from inflation erosion above a certain rate. An inflation floor can be used to provide downside protection to investments in inflation-linked products. The maximum potential amount of future payments (undiscounted) that a Fund could be required to make under an inflation cap or floor would be the notional amount times the percentage increase (for an inflation cap) or decrease (for an inflation floor) in inflation determined by the difference between the index's current value and the value at the time the inflation cap or floor was entered into.

Futures Contracts. Certain Funds may buy and sell futures on equities, indices, interest rates, commodities and currencies. A futures contract is a standardized contract obligating two parties to exchange a specified asset at an agreed upon price and date. Variation margin is recorded by the Fund until the contracts are terminated at which time realized gains and losses are recognized. Futures contracts involve to varying degrees, risk of loss in excess of the variation margin recorded by the Fund. The primary risks associated with the use of futures contracts are the imperfect correlation between the change in value of the securities held by the Fund or the change in the value of an underlying entity and the prices of the futures contracts and the possibility the Fund may not be able to enter into a closing transaction because of an illiquid market. With futures, counterparty risk to the Fund is reduced because futures contracts are exchange traded and the exchange's clearinghouse, acting as counterparty to all exchange traded futures, guarantees the futures contracts against default.

Forward Foreign Currency Contracts. A forward foreign currency contract is an agreement between two parties to buy and sell a currency at a set price on a future date. The use of forward foreign currency contracts does not eliminate fluctuations in the underlying prices of a Fund's investment securities, but it does establish a fixed rate of currency exchange that can be achieved in the future. The value of a forward foreign currency contract fluctuates with changes in foreign currency exchange rates. Forward foreign currency contracts are marked-to-market daily and the change in value is recorded by a Fund as an unrealized gain or loss and as a receivable or payable from forward foreign currency contracts. Upon settlement, or delivery or receipt of the currency, a realized gain or loss is recorded which is equal to the difference between the value of the contract at the time it was opened and the value at the time it was closed. Forward foreign currency contracts involve market risk in excess of the receivable or payable related to forward foreign currency contracts recorded by the Funds. Although contracts limit the risk of loss due to a decline in the value of the hedged currency, they also limit any potential gain that might result should the value of the currency increase. Additionally, a Fund could be exposed to the risk of a previously hedged position becoming unhedged if the counterparty to a contract is unable to meet the terms of the contract or if the currency changes unfavorably to the value of the offsetting currency.

Swap Agreements. Swap agreements are bilaterally negotiated agreements between a Fund and a counterparty to exchange or swap investment cash flows, assets, foreign currencies or market-linked returns at specified, future intervals. Swap agreements may be privately negotiated in the OTC market or executed and centrally cleared with a DCO. OTC swaps are typically classified as illiquid investments.

All types of swap agreements are marked-to-market daily and the change in value is recorded by a Fund as an unrealized gain or loss. For OTC swaps, premiums paid or received at the beginning of the measurement period are recorded as an asset or liability by the Fund and represent payments made or received upon entering into the OTC swap to compensate for differences between the stated terms of the OTC swap and prevailing market conditions relating to credit spreads, interest rates, currency exchange rates and other relevant factors as appropriate. These upfront payments are recorded as a realized gain or loss upon termination or maturity of the OTC swap. For centrally cleared swaps, daily changes in valuation are recorded as a receivable or payable, as appropriate, and received from or paid to the DCO on a daily basis until the contracts are terminated at which time a realized gain or loss is recorded. The use of centrally cleared swaps may require a Fund to commit initial and variation margin that may otherwise not be required under an OTC swap. A liquidation payment received or made at the termination of the swap agreement is recorded as a realized gain or loss. Net periodic payments received or paid by a Fund are included as part of realized gain or loss.

Entering into swap agreements involves, to varying degrees, elements of interest, credit, market and documentation risk in excess of the unrealized gain or loss recorded by a Fund. Such risks include that there is no liquid market for OTC swaps, that the counterparty to the agreements may default on its obligation to perform or disagree as to the meaning of contractual terms in the agreement and that there may be unfavorable changes in interest rates or value of underlying securities. Centrally cleared swaps involve to varying degrees, risk of loss in excess of the variation margin recorded by the Fund.

Interest Rate Swap Agreements. Interest rate swap agreements involve the exchange by a Fund with another party of their respective commitments to pay or receive interest with respect to the notional amount of principal. Forms of interest rate swap agreements that certain Funds have entered into may include: fixed-for-floating rate swaps, under which a party agrees to pay a fixed rate in exchange for receiving a floating rate tied to a benchmark; floating-for-fixed rate swaps, under which a party agrees to pay a floating rate in exchange for receiving a fixed rate; floating-for-floating rate swaps, under which a party agrees to pay a floating rate in exchange for another floating rate; interest rate caps, under which, in return for a premium, one party agrees to make payments to the other party to the extent that interest rates exceed a specified rate, or "cap"; interest rate floors, under which, in return for a premium, one party agrees to make payments to the other party to the extent that interest rates fall below a specified rate, or "floor"; interest rate collars, under which a party sells a cap and purchases a floor or vice versa in an attempt to protect itself against interest rate movements exceeding certain levels; callable interest rate swaps, under which the counterparty may terminate the swap transaction in whole at zero cost by a predetermined date and time prior to the maturity date; or forward spread locks, which allow the interest rate swap users to lock in the forward differential (or spread) between the interest rate swap rate and a specified benchmark.

A Fund's maximum risk of loss from counterparty credit risk for an interest rate swap agreement is the discounted net value of the cash flows to be received from the counterparty over the contract's remaining life, to the extent this amount is positive.

Cross-Currency Swap Agreements. Cross-currency swaps are interest rate swaps in which one party pays a stream of interest payments, either fixed or floating, in exchange for another party's stream of interest payments, either fixed or floating, based on the notional amounts of two different currencies. The notional amounts are typically determined based on the spot exchange rates at the inception of the trade. Cross-currency swaps may also involve an exchange of notional amounts at the start, during or at expiration of the contract, either at the current spot or another specified rate. A Fund's maximum risk of loss from counterparty credit risk is generally the aggregate unrealized gain netted against any collateral pledged by the counterparty.

Credit Default Swap Agreements. Credit default swap agreements involve one party making a stream of payments (referred to as the buyer of protection) to another party (the seller of protection) in exchange for the right to receive a specified return if a credit event occurs for the referenced entity, obligation or index. As a seller of protection, a Fund will generally receive from the buyer of protection a premium in return for such protection and/or a fixed rate of income throughout the term of the swap if there is no credit event. As a buyer of protection, a Fund will generally pay the seller of protection a premium in return for such protection and/or a fixed rate of income throughout the term of the swap if there is no credit event. A credit event is defined under the terms of each swap agreement and may include, but is not limited to, underlying entity default, bankruptcy, restructuring, write-down, principal shortfall or interest shortfall. As a seller, a Fund adds leverage to its portfolio because, in addition to its total net assets, the Fund is subject to investment exposure on the notional amount of the credit default swap. If a Fund is a seller or buyer of protection and a credit event occurs, as defined under the terms of that particular credit default swap agreement, the Fund will either (i) pay or receive an amount equal to the notional amount of the referenced obligation agreement and take delivery or deliver the referenced obligation, other deliverable obligations or underlying securities comprising the referenced index or (ii) pay or receive a net settlement amount in the form of cash or securities equal to the notional amount of the swap agreement less the recovery value of the referenced obligation or underlying securities comprising the referenced index. Until a credit event occurs, recovery values are determined by market makers considering either industry standard recovery rates or entity specific factors and considerations. When a credit event occurs, the recovery value is determined by a facilitated auction, administered by ISDA, whereby a minimum number of allowable broker bids, together with a specified valuation method, are used to calculate the settlement value.

Certain Funds may use credit default swap agreements on corporate or sovereign issues. If a credit event occurs and cash settlement is not elected, a variety of other deliverable obligations may be delivered in lieu of the specific referenced obligation. The ability to deliver other obligations may result in a cheapest-to-deliver option (the buyer of protection's right to choose the deliverable obligation with the lowest value following a credit event). Implied credit spreads, represented in absolute terms, utilized in determining the value of credit default swap agreements on corporate issues and sovereign issues serve as an indicator of the current status of the payment/performance risk and represent the likelihood or risk of default for the credit derivative. The implied credit spread of a particular referenced entity reflects the cost of buying/selling protection and may include upfront payments required to be made to enter into the agreement. Wider credit spreads represent a deterioration of the referenced entity's credit soundness and a greater likelihood or risk of default or other credit event occurring as defined under the terms of the applicable agreement.

Certain Funds may use credit default swap agreements on asset-backed securities. Unlike credit default swaps on corporate or sovereign issues, deliverable obligations in most instances would be limited to the specific referenced obligation because performance for asset-backed securities can vary across deals. Write-downs, such as prepayments and principal pay downs, or loss events on the underlying mortgage loans will reduce the outstanding principal balance of the referenced obligation. These reductions may be temporary or permanent as defined under the terms of the swap agreement and the notional amount for the swap agreement will be adjusted by corresponding amounts.

Certain Funds may use credit default swap agreements on credit indices. A credit index is a basket of credit instruments or exposures designed to represent a portion of the credit market. These indices consist of reference credits that are considered to be the liquid entities in the credit default swap market based on the index sector. Components of the indices may include, but are not limited to, investment grade securities, high yield securities, asset-backed securities and emerging market securities. These components can be determined based upon various credit ratings within each sector. Implied credit spreads, the prices and resulting values for credit default swap agreements on credit indices serve as indicators of the current status of the payment/performance risk and represent the likelihood or risk of default for the credit derivative. Increasing fair values, in absolute terms when compared to the notional amount of the swap, represent a deterioration of the referenced entity's credit soundness and a greater likelihood or risk of default or other credit event occurring as defined under the terms of the agreement. Credit indices are traded using credit default swaps with standardized terms including a fixed spread and standard maturity dates. An index credit default swap references all the issuers in the index, and if there is a credit event, the credit event is settled based on that issuer's weight in the index. The composition of the indices changes periodically, usually every six months, and for most indices, each issuer has an equal weight in the index.

Either as a seller of protection or a buyer of protection of a credit default swap agreement, a Fund's maximum risk of loss from counterparty risk is the fair value of the agreement. The maximum potential amount the Fund could be required to pay as a seller of credit protection or receive as a buyer of credit protection if a credit event occurs is limited to the total notional amount which is defined under the terms of each swap agreement. These potential amounts would be partially offset by any recovery values of the respective referenced obligations, upfront payments received upon entering into the agreement or net amounts received from the settlement of buy protection credit default swap agreements entered into by the Fund for the same referenced entity or entities.

Total Return Swap Agreements. Some total return swap agreements involve a commitment to pay periodic interest payments in exchange for a market linked return based on a security or a basket of securities. To the extent the total return of the security, index or other financial measure underlying the transaction exceeds or falls short of the offsetting interest rate obligation, a Fund will receive a payment from or make a payment to the counterparty. A Fund's maximum risk of loss from counterparty credit risk for this type of total return swap agreement is the discounted net value of the cash flows to be received from or paid to the counterparty over the contract's remaining life, to the extent this amount is positive. Other total return swap agreements involve a right to receive the appreciation in value of a specified security, index, basket of securities or other instrument in return for a fee paid to the counterparty, which will typically be an agreed upon rate. To the extent the underlying asset declines in value over the term of the swap, a Fund may also be required to pay the value of that decline to the counterparty. Additionally, long total return swap agreements on equity securities entitle a Fund to receive from the counterparty dividends paid on an individual security and short total return equity swap agreements obligate a Fund to pay the counterparty dividends paid on an individual security. Total return swap agreements where the reference entity is a futures contract do not pay/receive periodic interest payments. A Fund's maximum risk of loss from counterparty credit risk for this type of total return swap agreement is the value of the underlying security, index, basket of securities or other financial instrument along with any dividends or interest receivable.

Non-Deliverable Bond Forward Contracts. A non-deliverable bond forward contract is a short-term forward agreement between two parties to buy or sell a bond denominated in a non-deliverable foreign currency at a specified price and date. Non-deliverable bond forward contracts are marked-to-market daily and change in value is recorded by a Fund as an unrealized gain or loss. A realized gain or loss is recorded at termination of the contract. Upfront premiums paid or received are recorded as an asset or liability by the Fund and represent payments paid or received upon entering into the contract that correlate to the stated price of the underlying security. These upfront premiums are recorded as realized gain or loss on the Statement of Operations upon termination or maturity of the contract. The use of these instruments involves the risk that the counterparty to the agreements may default on its obligation to perform. These contracts may be illiquid, and changes in their values may not directly correlate with changes in the value of the underlying security. The maximum amount of potential loss for a non-deliverable bond forward contract is the value of the contract.

Contracts for Difference. Contracts for differences ("CFDs") are privately negotiated contracts between a buyer and seller stipulating that the seller will pay to or receive from the buyer the difference between the nominal value of the underlying instrument at the opening of the contract and that instrument's value at the end of the contract. Certain Funds entered into CFDs where the underlying instrument was a specified security. The Fund can take either a short or long position on the underlying instrument. In exchange for exposure to the underlying asset, the buyer pays a financing fee, which depending on market factors, can result in either expense or income for the buyer. The financing fee disclosed reflects the cost of each CFD from the perspective of the Fund and is dependent upon whether the position is long or short. For long positions, the Fund pays the financing fee. For short positions, the financing fee can be positive or negative depending on whether the spread is greater or less than the floating rate. To the extent the floating rate plus or minus the spread is negative, that is the financing fee paid by the Fund. If the rate is positive, the financing fee generates income for the Fund. CFDs are marked-to-market daily and change in value is recorded by a Fund as an unrealized gain or loss. A realized gain or loss is recorded at termination of the contract. There is no expiration date to the contract, but a CFD is typically terminated by the buyer. A Fund's maximum risk of loss from counterparty credit risk for a CFD agreement is the ability for the counterparty to make payments or to otherwise honor its financial obligations under the terms of the contract. If the counterparty is unable to make payments, the value of the contract may be reduced.

NOTE 7. PRINCIPAL RISKS

Market and Volatility Risk. In the normal course of business, certain Funds trade financial instruments and enter into financial transactions where the risk of potential loss exists due to changes in the market (“market risk”). Additionally, prices of financial instruments may fluctuate over short periods or extended periods of time in response to company, market, economic or political news (“volatility risk”). Equity securities generally have more price volatility than fixed-income securities, and long term fixed-income securities normally have more price volatility than short term fixed-income securities. Certain Funds may invest in derivatives to hedge a Fund’s portfolio as well as for investment purposes which may increase volatility. Volatility may cause a Fund’s net asset value per share to experience significant appreciation or depreciation in value over short periods of time.

Sector Risk. Companies with similar characteristics may be grouped together in broad categories called sectors. Sector risk is the risk that securities of companies within specific sectors of the economy can perform differently than the overall market. For example, this may be due to changes in the regulatory or competitive environment or to changes in investor perceptions regarding a sector. Because certain Funds may allocate relatively more assets to certain sectors than others, a Fund’s performance may be more susceptible to any developments which affect those sectors emphasized by a Fund.

Concentration Risk. To the extent that a Fund focuses on particular countries, regions, industries, sectors, issuers, types of investment or a limited number of securities from time to time, including (if applicable) as a result of its investment objective to track the performance of an index, a Fund may be subject to greater risks of adverse economic, business or political developments in such areas of focus than a fund that invests in a wider variety of countries, regions, industries, sectors or investments.

Interest Rate Risk. When interest rates increase, fixed-income securities generally will decline in value. A wide variety of factors can cause interest rates to rise such as central bank monetary policies, inflation rates and general economic conditions. Fixed-income securities with longer durations tend to be more sensitive to changes in interest rates than those with shorter durations. Recently, there have been inflationary price movements, which have caused the fixed income securities markets to experience heightened levels of interest rate volatility and liquidity risk.

Underlying Fund Investment Risk. As it relates to Funds of Funds and Master Feeder Funds, each Fund's prospectus includes a discussion of the principal investment risks of the Master Fund or underlying fund in which it invests, if applicable. Additional risks associated with a Master Fund's or underlying fund's investments are described within the respective Master Fund's or underlying fund's annual shareholder report. The American Funds Insurance Series Master Funds' shareholder reports are also available on the SEC's website at www.sec.gov.

Feeder Funds and Funds of Funds Risks. The value of an investment in a Feeder Fund changes with the value of the corresponding Master Fund and its investments. The value of an investment in a Fund of Funds changes with the values of the corresponding underlying funds and their investments. The Master Fund's and underlying fund's shares may be purchased by other investment companies and shareholders. In some cases, the Master Fund or underlying fund may experience large subscriptions or redemptions due to allocation changes or rebalancing. While it is impossible to predict the overall impact of these transactions over time, there could be adverse effects on Fund performance.

Prepayment Risk. During periods of falling interest rates, there is the risk that a debt security with a high stated interest rate will be prepaid before its expected maturity date and that a Fund may have to reinvest the proceeds in an investment that may have a lower interest rate. In addition, prepayment rates are difficult to predict and the potential impact of prepayment on the price of a debt instrument depends on the terms of the instrument.

Credit and Counterparty Risk. In the normal course of business, the Funds trade financial instruments and enter into financial transactions where the risk of potential loss exists due to failure of the other party to a transaction to perform ("credit risk"). Bonds and other debt securities are subject to credit risk, which is the possibility that the credit strength of an issuer will weaken and/or an issuer of a debt security will fail to make timely payments of principal or interest and the security will go into default. Like credit risk, the Funds may be exposed to counterparty risk, or the risk that an institution or other entity with which the Funds have unsettled, or open transactions will default. Financial assets, which potentially expose the Funds to credit risk, consist principally of investments and cash due from counterparties ("counterparty risk"). The extent of the Funds' exposure to credit and counterparty risks in respect to these financial assets is incorporated within their carrying value as recorded in the Funds' Statements of Assets and Liabilities. For certain derivative contracts (including futures, options on futures and certain swaps), the potential loss could exceed the value of the financial assets recorded in the financial statements for each Fund (or Master Fund or underlying fund, as applicable).

A Master Fund or underlying fund manages credit and counterparty risk by entering into agreements only with counterparties that it believes have the financial resources to honor their obligations and by monitoring the financial stability of those counterparties. A Master Fund's or underlying fund's Adviser(s) and sub-advisers attempt to mitigate credit and counterparty risk by (i) periodically assessing the creditworthiness of its trading partners, (ii) monitoring and/or limiting the amount of its net exposure to each individual counterparty based on its assessment and (iii) requiring collateral from the counterparty for certain transactions. In order to preserve certain safeguards for non-standard settlement trades, the Master Fund and underlying fund restrict their exposure to credit and counterparty losses by entering into master netting agreements with counterparties with whom they undertake a significant volume of transactions. In the event of default, the total fair value exposure would be offset against collateral exchanged to date, which would result in a net receivable/(payable) that would be due from/to the counterparty.

Foreign Securities Risk. Investing in securities of foreign companies or issued by foreign governments generally involves special risks and considerations not typically associated with investing in U.S. companies and the U.S. Government. These risks include the potential for revaluation of currencies, different accounting policies and future adverse political and economic developments. Moreover, securities of many foreign companies and foreign governments and their markets may be less liquid and their prices may be more volatile than those of securities of comparable U.S. companies and the U.S. Government.

Currency Risk. Investing directly in foreign currencies or in securities that trade in, and receive revenues in, foreign currencies, or in financial derivatives that provide exposure to foreign currencies, involves the risk that those currencies will decline in value relative to the base currency of a Fund, or, in the case of hedging positions, that a Fund's base currency will decline in value relative to the currency being hedged. Currency rates in foreign countries may fluctuate significantly over short periods of time or currencies may become illiquid for a number of reasons, including changes in interest rates, general economics of a country, actions (or inaction) of the U.S. Government or banks, foreign governments, central banks or supranational entities such as the International Monetary Fund, or the imposition of currency controls or other political developments in the U.S. or abroad.

Leverage Risk. Certain Funds may enter into a short position through a futures contract, an option or swap agreement or through short sales of any instrument that a Fund may purchase for investment. Taking short positions may involve leverage of a Fund's assets. If the value of the underlying instrument or market in which the Fund has taken a short position increases, then the Fund will incur a loss equal to the increase in value from the time that the short position was entered into plus any related interest payments or other fees. Taking short positions involves the risk that losses may be disproportionate, may exceed the amount invested, and may be unlimited.

Emerging Market Securities Risk. Investing in securities of emerging market countries generally involves greater risk than investing in foreign securities in developed markets. Emerging market countries typically have economic and political systems that are less fully developed and are likely to be less stable than those in more advanced countries. These risks include the potential for government intervention, adverse changes in earnings and business prospects, liquidity, credit and currency risks, and price volatility. The Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, which regulates auditors of U.S. public companies, is unable to inspect audit work papers in certain foreign countries. Investors in foreign countries often have limited rights and few practical remedies to pursue shareholder claims, including class actions or fraud claims, and the ability of the SEC, the U.S. Department of Justice and other authorities to bring and enforce actions against foreign issuers or foreign persons is limited.

Sanction Risk. When sanctions are placed on a country, a Fund may experience limitations on its investments including the inability to dispose of securities in that country, the inability to settle securities transactions in that country and the inability to repatriate currency from that country. Investments in sanctioned countries may be volatile, and the Fund and its pricing agent may have difficulty valuing such sanctioned country securities. Investments in sanctioned countries are subject to several risks, including, but not limited to, liquidity risk, foreign securities risk and currency risk. Russia launched a large-scale invasion of Ukraine in February 2022, which has resulted in the U.S. Government imposing sanctions on Russia. The current and any future sanctions or other government actions against Russia, may result in the decline in the value and liquidity of Russian securities, devaluation of Russian currency, a downgrade in Russia's credit rating, the inability to freely trade sanctioned companies (either due to the sanctions imposed or related operational issues) and/or other adverse consequences to the Russian economy, any of which could negatively impact the Fund's investments in Russian securities. In addition, the U.S. Government has imposed restrictions on U.S. investor participation in publicly traded securities of certain companies with ties to China's military or surveillance industry (each a "CMIC Company"). If the Fund holds securities in a company later deemed to be a CMIC Company, the Fund may be forced to sell such securities and incur a loss. Such restrictions could also adversely affect China's economy.

Convertible Securities Risk. A convertible security tends to perform more like a stock when the underlying stock price is high and more like a debt security when the underlying stock price is low. A convertible security is not as sensitive to interest rate changes as a similar non-convertible debt security, and generally has less potential for gain or loss than the underlying stock.

Real Estate Investment Risk. Certain Funds may concentrate their assets in the real estate industry and investments in these Funds will be closely linked to the performance of the real estate markets. Risks of investing in real estate securities include falling property values due to increasing vacancies in rental properties, declining rents resulting from economic, legal, tax, cultural, political or technological developments, lack of liquidity, limited diversification, and sensitivity to certain economic factors such as interest-rate changes and other market conditions.

REIT Investment Risk. The risks of investing in REITs include certain risks associated with the direct ownership of real estate and the real estate industry in general. These include risks related to general, regional and local economic conditions; difficulties in valuing and disposing of real estate; fluctuations in interest rates and property tax rates; shifts in zoning laws; environmental regulations and other governmental action; cash flow dependency; increased operating expenses; lack of availability of mortgage funds; losses due to natural disasters; overbuilding; losses due to casualty or condemnation; changes in property values and rental rates; the management skill and creditworthiness of the REIT manager; and other factors. REITs may have limited financial resources, may trade less frequently and in limited volume, may engage in dilutive offerings of securities and may be more volatile than other securities. REITs could be adversely affected by failure to maintain their exemptions from registration under the 1940 Act or failure to qualify for the "dividends paid deduction" under the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, which allows REITs to reduce their corporate taxable income for dividends paid to their shareholders.

Participation Note Risk. Certain Funds may invest in P-Notes. P-Notes may contain various risks including the potential inability of the counterparty to fulfill its obligations under the terms of the contract. An issuer of P-Notes may fail to make interest payments and repay principal when due, in whole or in part. Changes in an issuer's financial strength or credit rating may affect a security's value. These securities may be more volatile and less liquid than other investments held by the Fund.

Master Limited Partnership Risk. Investment in MLPs involves some risks that differ from an investment in the common stock of a corporation. Holders of MLPs have limited control on matters affecting the partnership. Investing in MLPs involves certain risks related to investing in the underlying assets of the MLPs and risks associated with pooled investment vehicles. MLPs holding credit-related investments are subject to interest rate risk and the risk of default on payment obligations by debt issuers. MLPs that concentrate in a particular industry or a particular geographic region are subject to risks associated with such industry or region.

Senior and Junior Loan Risk. When a Fund invests in a loan or participation, the Fund is subject to the risk that an intermediate participant between the Fund and the borrower will fail to meet its obligations to the Fund, in addition to the risk that the borrower under the loan may default on its obligations. Senior and Junior loans typically are of below investment grade quality and have below investment grade credit ratings, which ratings are associated with securities having high risk and speculative characteristics. The Fund is also subject to the risk that the agent bank administering the loan may fail to meet its obligations.

Cybersecurity Risk. Cyber-attacks could disrupt daily operations related to trading and portfolio management. In addition, technology disruptions and cyber-attacks may impact the operations or securities prices of an issuer or a group of issuers, and thus may have an adverse impact on the value of a Fund's investments. Cyber-attacks on a Fund's Sub-Advisers and service providers could cause business failures or delays in daily processing and a Fund may need to delay transactions, consistent with regulatory requirements, as a result and could impact the performance of a Fund.

Market Disruption and Geopolitical Risk. The Funds are subject to the risk that geopolitical events will disrupt securities markets and adversely affect global economies and markets. Due to the increasing interdependence among global economies and markets, conditions in one country, market, or region might adversely impact markets, issuers and/or foreign exchange rates in other countries, including the U.S. War, terrorism, global health crises and pandemics, and other geopolitical events have led, and in the future may lead, to increased market volatility and may have adverse short- or long-term effects on U.S. and world economies and markets generally. For example, the COVID-19 pandemic resulted in significant market volatility, liquidity constraints, exchange trading suspensions and closures, declines in global financial markets, higher default rates, and a substantial economic downturn in economies throughout the world. Natural and environmental disasters and systemic market dislocations are also highly disruptive to economies and markets. Those events as well as other changes in non-U.S. and domestic economic, social, and political conditions also could adversely affect individual issuers or related groups of issuers, securities markets, interest rates, credit ratings, inflation, investor sentiment, and other factors affecting the value of the Funds' investments and the Funds. Any of these occurrences could disrupt the operations of the Funds and of the Funds' service providers.

NOTE 8. INVESTMENT ADVISORY FEES AND TRANSACTIONS WITH AFFILIATES

Advisory and Administrative Fees. The Trust has an investment advisory and management agreement with JNAM, whereby JNAM provides investment management services. Each Fund pays JNAM an annual fee, accrued daily and paid monthly, based on a specified percentage of the average daily net assets of each Fund. A portion of this fee is paid by JNAM to the Sub-Advisers as compensation for their services.

JNAM also serves as the Administrator to the Funds. The Funds pay an administrative fee based on the average daily net assets of each Fund, accrued daily and paid monthly. In return for the administrative fee, JNAM provides or procures all necessary administrative functions and services for the operation of the Funds. In addition, JNAM, at its own expense, arranges for legal, audit, fund accounting, transfer agency, custody (except overdraft and interest expense), printing and mailing, a portion of the Chief Compliance Officer costs, and all other services necessary for the operation of each Fund. Each Fund is responsible for trading expenses including brokerage commissions, interest and taxes, other non-operating expenses, registration fees, licensing costs, directors and officers insurance, the fees and expenses of the disinterested Trustees ("Independent Trustees") and independent legal counsel to the Independent Trustees, and a portion of the costs associated with the Chief Compliance Officer.

The following schedules indicate the range of the advisory fee at various net asset levels and the administrative fee each Fund was obligated to pay JNAM. For the advisory fee ranges presented, refer to the Trust's Prospectus for the specific percentage of average daily net assets and break points for each Fund.

None of the waived administrative fees can be recaptured by JNAM. The amount of waived expenses for the Funds is recorded as Expense waiver in each Fund's Statement of Operations.

Distribution Fees. The Trust has adopted a Distribution Plan (the "Plan") pursuant to the provisions of Rule 12b-1 under the 1940 Act. Pursuant to the Plan, Class A Shares of the Funds pay a distribution and/or service fee ("Rule 12b-1 fee") to Jackson National Life Distributors LLC ("JNLD"), an affiliate of the Adviser, for the purpose of paying for certain distribution, administrative, or related service expenses from the sale and distribution of each Fund's Class A shares. To the extent consistent with existing law and the Plan, JNLD may use the Rule 12b-1 fees to reimburse or compensate broker-dealers, administrators or others for providing distribution, administrative or other services. The Funds' Plan is structured as a compensation plan. Under a compensation plan, the distributor may receive 12b-1 fees in excess of the allowable distribution and related shareholder servicing expenses, but not exceeding the maximum 12b-1 fee, which may be applied to future periods when distribution and related shareholder servicing expenses are less than the maximum 12b-1 fee set by the Plan. Under the Plan, the maximum annual rate for Rule 12b-1 fees paid by the Class A shares of the Funds is 0.30% of the average daily net assets of the Class A shares of each Fund. Each Fund pays the fee monthly to JNLD. JNLD also is the principal underwriter of the variable insurance products issued by Jackson and its subsidiaries. Amounts charged pursuant to the Plan are reflected as 12b-1 fees (Class A) in each Fund's Statement of Operations.

Affiliated Brokerage Commissions - During the period ended June 30, 2024, the following Funds paid brokerage fees to affiliates for the execution of purchases and sales of portfolio investments (in thousands): JNL/Invesco Global Growth Fund $2 and JNL/Invesco Small Cap Growth Fund $51.

Deferred Compensation Plan. The Funds adopted a Deferred Compensation Plan whereby an Independent Trustee may defer the receipt of all or a portion of their compensation. These deferred amounts, which remain as liabilities of the Funds, are treated as if invested and reinvested in shares of one or more funds at the discretion of the applicable Independent Trustee. These amounts represent general, unsecured liabilities of the Funds and vary according to the total returns of the selected funds. Liabilities related to deferred balances are included in Payable for Board of trustee fees in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities. Increases or decreases related to the changes in value of deferred balances are included in Board of trustee fees set forth in the Statements of Operations.

Directed Brokerage Commissions. A Sub-Adviser may allocate a portion of a Fund's equity security transactions (subject to obtaining best execution of each transaction) through certain designated broker/dealers which will rebate a portion of the brokerage commissions to that Fund. Any amount credited to the Fund is reflected as Brokerage commissions recaptured in the Statements of Operations.

Security Transactions. Security transactions can occur in the Funds where both the buyer and seller of the security are portfolios or accounts for which JNAM serves as the Adviser or the other party to the transaction is another fund advised by the Sub-Adviser. Such transactions occur to eliminate transaction costs normally associated with security trading activity. Such transactions are subject to compliance with Rule 17a-7 under the 1940 Act ("Rule 17a-7 transactions"), and are reviewed by the Chief Compliance Officer and reported quarterly to the Board. Rule 17a-7 transactions are executed at current market price at the time of the transaction. Realized gain/(loss) (in thousands) on Rule 17a-7 transactions is included in Net realized gain (loss) on Investments - unaffiliated on the Statements of Operations. The following Funds have Rule 17a-7 transactions (in thousands) during the period ended June 30, 2024:

	Purchase of Securities($)	Proceeds from Sales of Securities($)	Realized Gain/Loss on Securities ($)

Other Transactions with Affiliates. Funds with partnership status for federal income tax purposes may not be eligible for beneficial withholding rates, available to RICs, in certain foreign jurisdictions. JNAM has agreed to reimburse these Funds for an amount equal to the additional tax withheld. These amounts are included in Foreign taxes withheld on the Statements of Operations. The Funds could also experience delays in receipt of tax reclaim payments due to their partnership status, as compared to the timing experienced by funds with RIC status for federal income tax purposes. JNAM has agreed to contribute to these Funds an amount equal to the outstanding tax reclaims, within the timeframe the Funds would have received payment under RIC status. The Funds will then reimburse JNAM once the reclaim payments are received from the foreign tax authorities. Amounts paid to the Funds by JNAM due to delayed tax reclaim receipts are included in Payable to affiliates on the Statements of Assets and Liabilities.

For the period ended June 30, 2024, transactions between the Funds and JNAM, related to foreign tax reclaims, due to the Funds' partnership status for federal income tax purposes, are as follows (in thousands):

NOTE 9. BORROWING ARRANGEMENTS

The Trust is party to a Syndicated Credit Agreement (“SCA”) with a group of lenders. The Funds, with the exception of JNL/WMC Government Money Market Fund, participate in the SCA with other funds managed by JNAM (“Participating Funds”) in a credit facility which is available solely to finance shareholder redemptions or for other temporary or emergency purposes. The Participating Funds may borrow up to $180,000,000, the amount available under the facility; the limits set for borrowing by the Participating Funds’ prospectuses and the 1940 Act; or an amount prescribed within the SCA. JNL/PPM America Floating Rate Income Fund has priority to utilize $100,000,000 of the SCA under an InterFund Allocation Agreement. The Participating Funds pay an annual fee of 0.15% of the available commitments. These fees are allocated pro-rata based on the allocated commitment as well as the Participating Funds’ total net assets. During the period, the Participating Funds, with the exception of the JNL/Mellon Feeder Funds, paid an annual administration fee to JPM Chase which is allocated based on the weighted average of net assets. The fees related to the SCA are included in Other expenses in each Fund’s Statement of Operations. No amounts were borrowed by the Funds under the facility during the period.

Pursuant to an Exemptive Order issued by the SEC, the Funds, with the exception of JNL/WMC Government Money Market Fund, may participate in an InterFund Lending Program (“Program”). The Program provides an alternative credit facility allowing a Fund to borrow from, or lend money to, other participating affiliated funds. Any open loans at period end are included in Receivable for Interfund lending or Payable for Interfund lending, as appropriate, in the respective Fund’s Statement of Assets and Liabilities. No amounts were borrowed through the Program during the period.

Each Fund, except those that are treated as a partnership for federal income tax purposes, is treated as a separate tax payer for federal income tax purposes. Each of these Funds intends to continue to qualify as a RIC and to distribute substantially all net investment income and net capital gains, if any, to its shareholders and otherwise comply with Subchapter M of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, applicable to RICs. Therefore, no federal income tax provision is required. Each of these Funds may also fully or partially satisfy their distribution requirements by using consent dividends rather than cash dividends. Consent dividends are authorized by Jackson, and the distributions are treated as if they were paid in cash for tax purposes only. Under current tax law, interest, dividends and capital gains paid by these Funds are not currently taxable to shareholders when left to accumulate within a variable annuity contract or variable life insurance policies.

The following information for Funds treated as RICs is presented on an income tax basis (in thousands). Differences between amounts for financial statements and federal income tax purposes are primarily due to timing and character differences in recognizing certain gains and losses on investment transactions. Permanent differences between financial statement and federal income tax reporting are reclassified within the capital accounts based on their federal income tax treatment. Temporary differences do not require reclassification. Permanent differences may include but are not limited to the following: foreign currency reclassifications, premium amortization or paydown reclassifications, reclassifications on the sale of passive foreign investment company ("PFIC") or REIT securities, net operating losses, accounting treatment of notional principal contracts and partnerships, equalization, consent dividends and other distribution adjustments. These reclassifications have no impact on net assets.

At December 31, 2023, the following Funds treated as RICs had capital loss carryforwards (in thousands) available for U.S. federal income tax purposes to offset future net realized capital gains. The amount and character of the capital loss carryforwards are listed in the table below.

Effective April 29, 2024, in the section, “Summary Overview of Each Fund,” under “Principal Risks of Investing in the Fund,” for the JNL/PPM America Investment Grade Credit Fund, please add the following after the last bulleted paragraph:

Foreign securities risk – Investments in, or exposure to, foreign securities involve risks not typically associated with U.S. investments. These risks include, among others, adverse fluctuations in foreign currency values, possible imposition of foreign withholding or other taxes on income payable on the securities, as well as adverse political, social and economic developments, such as political upheaval, acts of terrorism, financial troubles, sanctions or the threat of new or modified sanctions, or natural disasters. Many foreign securities markets, especially those in emerging market countries, are less stable, smaller, less liquid, and less regulated than U.S. securities markets, and the costs of trading in those markets is often higher than in U.S. securities markets. There may also be less publicly available information about issuers of foreign securities compared to issuers of U.S. securities. In addition, the economies of certain foreign markets may not compare favorably with the economy of the United States with respect to issues such as growth of gross national product, reinvestment of capital, resources and balance of payments position.

Company risk – Investments in U.S. and/or foreign-traded equity securities may fluctuate more than the values of other types of securities in response to changes in a particular company’s financial condition.

ITEM 11: STATEMENT REGARDING BASIS FOR APPROVAL OF INVESTMENT ADVISORY CONTRACT:

JNL Series Trust (the “Trust”)

APPROVAL OF INVESTMENT SUB-ADVISORY AND SUB-SUB-ADVISORY AGREEMENTS

The Board of Trustees of the Trust (the “Board”) oversees the management of the Trust and its separate series (each, a “Fund” and collectively, the “Funds”) and, as required by law, determines whether to approve the Trust’s advisory agreements (“Advisory Agreements”) with Jackson National Asset Management, LLC (“JNAM” or the “Adviser”) and each Fund’s Sub-Adviser(s) (“Sub-Advisory Agreement” or “Sub-Advisory Agreements,” as applicable) and Sub-Sub-Adviser(s) (“Sub-Sub-Advisory Agreement” or “Sub-Sub-Advisory Agreements,” as applicable, and, collectively with the Advisory Agreement and Sub-Advisory Agreements, the “Agreements”).

At a meeting on February 28 – February 29, 2024, the Board, including all of the independent trustees, who are not interested persons of the Funds (as defined in the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended) (the “Independent Trustees”), considered information relating to Sub-Adviser and Sub-Sub-Adviser replacements and additions for the following existing Funds:

1. JNL Multi-Manager Emerging Markets Equity Fund
  - a. An amendment to the Trust’s existing Sub-Advisory Agreement with GQG Partners LLC (“GQG”), whereby GQG would replace Wellington Management Company, LLP (“Wellington”) as Sub-Adviser.
2. JNL/T. Rowe Price Balanced Fund
  - a. An amendment to the existing Sub-Sub-Advisory Agreement between T. Rowe Price Associates, Inc. (“TRPA”) and T. Rowe Price International Ltd. (“TRPIL”), whereby TRPIL is appointed as a Sub-Sub-Adviser.
3. JNL/BlackRock Global Allocation Fund
  - a. A new Sub-Sub-Advisory Agreement between BlackRock Investment Management, LLC (“BIM”) and BlackRock International Limited (“BIL”), whereby BIL is appointed as a Sub-Sub-Adviser.

In advance of the meeting, independent legal counsel for the Independent Trustees requested that certain information be provided to the Board relating to the Agreements. The Board received, and had the opportunity to review, this and other materials, ask questions and request further information in connection with its consideration of the Agreements. With respect to its approval of an amendment to the Sub-Advisory Agreement with GQG, the Board noted that the Sub-Advisory Agreement was with a Sub-Adviser that already provides services to one or more existing Funds in the Trust. With respect to its approval of an amendment to the Sub-Sub-Advisory Agreement with TRPIL, the Board noted that the Sub-Sub-Advisory Agreement was with a Sub-Sub-Adviser that already provides services to one or more existing Funds in the Trust. With respect to its approval of a new Sub-Sub-Advisory Agreement with BIL, the Board noted that the Sub-Sub-Advisory Agreement was with a Sub-Sub-Adviser that already provides services to one or more existing Funds in the Trust. Thus, with respect to this Sub-Adviser and these Sub-Sub-Advisers, the Board also considered relevant information provided at previous Board meetings. At the conclusion of the Board’s discussions, the Board approved the Agreements.

In reviewing the Agreements and considering the information, the Board was advised by independent legal counsel. The Board considered the factors it deemed relevant and the information provided by the Adviser, Sub-Advisers and Sub-Sub-Advisers for this meeting and for previous meetings, as applicable, including: (1) the nature, quality and extent of the services to be provided; (2) the investment performance of the Funds; (3) cost of services of the Funds; (4) profitability data; (5) whether economies of scale may be realized and shared, in some measure, with investors as the Funds grow; and (6) other benefits that may accrue to the Sub-Advisers and the Sub-Sub-Advisers through their relationships with the Trust. In its deliberations, the Board, in exercising its business judgment did not identify any single factor that alone was responsible for the Board’s decision to approve the Agreements. Certain of the factors considered in the Board's deliberations are described below, although individual Trustees may have evaluated the information presented differently from one another, attributing different weights to various factors.

Before approving the Agreements, the Independent Trustees met in executive session with their independent legal counsel to consider the materials provided by JNAM, the Sub-Advisers and the Sub-Sub-Advisers and to consider the terms of the Agreements. Based on its evaluation of those materials and the information the Board received throughout the year at its regular meetings, the Board, including the interested and Independent Trustees, concluded that the Agreements are in the best interests of the shareholders of each Fund. In reaching its conclusions, the Board considered numerous factors, including the following:

Nature, Quality and Extent of Services

The Board examined the nature, quality and extent of the services provided and to be provided by the Sub-Advisers and the Sub-Sub-Advisers.

The Board considered the investment sub-advisory services to be provided by each Sub-Adviser and Sub-Sub-Adviser. The Board noted JNAM's evaluation of each Sub-Adviser and Sub-Sub-Adviser, as well as JNAM's recommendations, based on its review of each Sub-Adviser and Sub-Sub-Adviser, in connection with its approval of the Sub-Advisory Agreements and Sub-Sub-Advisory Agreements. The Board also considered the various business-related risks JNAM faces as a result of managing the series of the Trust, including entrepreneurial, legal and litigation risks, some of which may be significant.

The Board reviewed the qualifications, backgrounds and responsibilities of JNAM's senior management that would be responsible for oversight of each Sub-Adviser and Sub-Sub-Adviser, and also reviewed the qualifications, backgrounds and responsibilities of the Sub-Advisers' and Sub-Sub-Advisers' portfolio managers who are and would be responsible for the day-to-day management of each Fund. The Board reviewed information pertaining to each Sub-Adviser's organizational structure, senior management, financial condition, investment operations, and other relevant information pertaining to each Sub-Adviser and Sub-Sub-Adviser. The Board considered compliance reports about JNAM, the Sub-Advisers and the Sub-Sub-Advisers from the Trust's Chief Compliance Officer.

Based on the foregoing, the Board concluded for each Fund that the Fund is likely to benefit from the nature, extent and quality of the services provided and to be provided, as applicable, by each Sub-Adviser and Sub-Sub-Adviser under the applicable Sub-Advisory Agreement and Sub-Sub-Advisory Agreement.

Investment Performance of the Funds

JNL Multi-Manager Emerging Markets Equity Fund. The Board reviewed the performance of the Fund's proposed Sub-Adviser's investment mandate with a similar investment strategy as compared to the Fund, the Fund's benchmark index and the Fund's peer group returns.

JNL/T. Rowe Price Balanced Fund. The Board considered the Sub-Adviser's proposal regarding the transfer of investment responsibilities to the Sub-Sub-Adviser for the Fund. The Board considered that there will be no change to the investment strategy or portfolio manager(s) of the Fund due to the appointment of the Sub-Sub-Adviser.

JNL/BlackRock Global Allocation Fund. The Board considered the Sub-Adviser's proposal regarding the transfer of investment responsibilities to the Sub-Sub-Adviser for the Fund. The Board considered that there will be no change to the investment strategy or portfolio manager(s) of the Fund due to the appointment of the Sub-Sub-Adviser.

Costs of Services

The Board reviewed the fees to be paid to the Adviser, each Sub-Adviser and Sub-Sub-Adviser, as applicable. The Board noted that the Funds' sub-advisory fees would be paid by JNAM (not the Fund) and that for each of JNL/T. Rowe Price Balanced Fund and JNL/BlackRock Global Allocation Fund, sub-sub-advisory fees would be paid by the Fund's Sub-

Adviser, and, therefore, would be neither a direct shareholder expense nor a direct influence on the Fund's total expense ratio.

Further detail considered by the Board regarding the advisory and sub-advisory fees of each Fund, as applicable, is set forth below:

JNL Multi-Manager Emerging Markets Equity Fund. Referring to materials previously provided by the Adviser, the Board considered that the Fund's proposed sub-advisory fee is higher than the current sub-advisory fee and the peer group average. The Board noted that the Fund's advisory fee is lower than the peer group average and is not proposed to change. The Board also noted that the total expense ratio is lower than the peer group average and is not proposed to change. The Board noted that the sub-advisory fee is paid by JNAM (not the Fund). The Board concluded that the fees are in the best interests of the Fund and its shareholders in light of the services to be provided.

JNL/T. Rowe Price Balanced Fund. Referring to materials previously provided by the Adviser, the Board considered that the Fund's advisory fee is equal to its peer group average and its sub-advisory fee and total expense ratio are within five basis points and three basis points of their respective group averages. The Board took into account that JNAM, in conversations with the Board, implemented a contractual advisory fee reduction, effective May 1, 2023, and a voluntary advisory fee waiver effective September 1, 2023, which will convert to a contractual advisory fee reduction in April 2024. The Board noted that the Fund's sub-sub-advisory fees would be paid by the Fund's Sub-Adviser (not the Fund). The Board concluded that the fees are in the best interests of the Fund and its shareholders in light of the services provided.

JNL/BlackRock Global Allocation Fund. Referring to materials previously provided by the Adviser, the Board considered that the Fund's advisory fee is lower than the peer group average, while the sub-advisory fee is equal to its peer group and total expense ratio is within six basis points of its peer group average. The Board noted that the Fund's sub-sub-advisory fees would be paid by the Fund's Sub-Adviser (not the Fund). The Board concluded that the fees are in the best interests of the Fund and its shareholders in light of the services provided.

Profitability

The Board considered information concerning the costs to be incurred and profits expected to be realized by JNAM and each Sub-Adviser. The Board determined that profits expected to be realized by JNAM and each existing Sub-Adviser were not unreasonable.

Economies of Scale

The Board considered whether each Fund's proposed fees reflect the potential for economies of scale for the benefit of Fund shareholders. Based on information provided by JNAM and the Sub-Advisers, the Board noted that the advisory fee arrangements for each Fund contain breakpoints that decrease the fee rate as assets increase. The Board also noted that each Sub-Adviser has agreed to breakpoints in the sub-advisory fee rates. The Board also noted that the sub-advisory fee for each Fund will be paid by JNAM (not the Fund) and that, for each of JNL/T. Rowe Price Balanced Fund and JNL/BlackRock Global Allocation Fund, the sub-sub-advisory fees will be paid by each Fund's Sub-Adviser (not the Fund).

The Board concluded that the Funds' fee schedules in some measure share economies of scale with shareholders.

Other Benefits to the Adviser, the Sub-Advisers and the Sub-Sub-Advisers

In evaluating the benefits that may accrue to the Sub-Advisers and Sub-Sub-Advisers through their relationships with the Funds, the Board noted that the Sub-Advisers and Sub-Sub-Advisers may receive indirect benefits in the form of soft dollar arrangements for portfolio securities trades placed with the Funds' assets and may also develop additional investment advisory business with JNAM, the Funds or other clients of the Sub-Advisers or Sub-Sub-Advisers as a result of their relationship with the Funds.

JNL Series Trust
(the “Trust”)

APPROVAL OF INVESTMENT ADVISORY, SUB-ADVISORY AND SUB-SUB-ADVISORY AGREEMENTS

The Board of Trustees of the Trust (the “Board”) oversees the management of the Trust and its separate series (each, a “Fund” and collectively, the “Funds”) and, as required by law, determines whether to approve the Trust’s advisory agreements (“Advisory Agreements”) with Jackson National Asset Management, LLC (“JNAM” or the “Adviser”) and each Fund’s Sub-Adviser(s) (“Sub-Advisory Agreement” or “Sub-Advisory Agreements,” as applicable) and Sub-Sub-Adviser(s) (“Sub-Sub-Advisory Agreement” or “Sub-Sub-Advisory Agreements,” as applicable, and, collectively with the Advisory Agreement and Sub-Advisory Agreements, the “Agreements”).

At a meeting on May 30 – May 31, 2024, the Board, including all of the independent trustees, who are not interested persons of the Funds (as defined in the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended) (the “Independent Trustees”), considered information relating to the addition of the following three new Funds (the “New Funds”) to the existing Advisory Agreement and corresponding amended Sub-Advisory Agreements and Sub-Sub-Advisory Agreement noted below:

4. JNL/American Funds® Moderate Allocation Fund
5. JNL/JPMorgan Nasdaq® Hedged Equity Fund
  - a. An amendment to the Trust’s existing Sub-Advisory Agreement with J.P. Morgan Investment Management Inc. (“JPM”).
6. JNL/T. Rowe Price Capital Appreciation Equity Fund
  - a. An amendment to the Trust’s existing Sub-Advisory Agreement with T. Rowe Price Associates, Inc. (“TRP”).
  - b. An amendment to the existing Sub-Sub-Advisory Agreement between TRP and T. Rowe Price Investment Management, Inc. (“TRPIM”), whereby TRPIM is appointed as a Sub-Sub-Adviser.

The Board further considered information relating to Sub-Adviser replacements and additions for the following existing Funds:

1. JNL Multi-Manager Small Cap Growth Fund
  - a. A new Sub-Advisory Agreement with Driehaus Capital Management LLC (“Driehaus”), whereby Driehaus is appointed as a Sub-Adviser.
2. JNL/Heitman U.S. Focused Real Estate Fund
  - a. A new Sub-Advisory Agreement with Cohen & Steers Capital Management Inc. (“Cohen”), whereby Cohen would replace Heitman Real Estate Securities LLC (“Heitman”) as Sub-Adviser, and the Fund is renamed the JNL/Cohen & Steers U.S. Realty Fund.
3. JNL/WMC Government Money Market Fund
  - a. An amendment to the Trust’s existing Sub-Advisory Agreement with Mellon Investments Corporation (“Mellon”), whereby Mellon would replace Wellington Management Company LLP (“Wellington”) as Sub-Adviser, and the Fund is renamed the JNL/Dreyfus Government Money Market Fund.
4. JNL/Goldman Sachs Managed Aggressive Growth Fund

  - a. A new Sub-Advisory Agreement with JPM, whereby JPM would replace Goldman as Sub-Adviser, and the Fund is renamed the JNL/JPMorgan Managed Moderate Growth Fund.
7. JNL/Goldman Sachs Managed Moderate Fund
  - a. A new Sub-Advisory Agreement with JPM, whereby JPM would replace Goldman as Sub-Adviser, and the Fund is renamed the JNL/JPMorgan Managed Moderate Fund.

8. JNL/Goldman Sachs Managed Conservative Fund

- a. A new Sub-Advisory Agreement with JPM, whereby JPM would replace Goldman as Sub-Adviser, and the Fund is renamed the JNL/JPMorgan Managed Conservative Fund.

In advance of the meeting, independent legal counsel for the Independent Trustees requested that certain information be provided to the Board relating to the Agreements. The Board received, and had the opportunity to review, this and other materials, ask questions and request further information in connection with its consideration of the Agreements. With respect to its approval of an amendment to the Sub-Advisory Agreement with each of TRP and Mellon, the Board noted that these Sub-Advisory Agreements were with Sub-Advisers that already provide services to one or more existing Funds in the Trust. With respect to its approval of an amendment to the Sub-Sub-Advisory Agreement with TRPIM, the Board noted that the Sub-Sub-Advisory Agreement was with a Sub-Sub-Adviser that already provides services to one or more existing Funds in the Trust. Thus, with respect to these Sub-Advisers and Sub-Sub-Advisers, the Board also considered relevant information provided at previous Board meetings. At the conclusion of the Board's discussions, the Board approved the Agreements.

In reviewing the Agreements and considering the information, the Board was advised by independent legal counsel. The Board considered the factors it deemed relevant and the information provided by the Adviser, Sub-Advisers and Sub-Sub-Advisers for this meeting and for previous meetings, as applicable, including: (1) the nature, quality and extent of the services to be provided; (2) the investment performance of the Funds; (3) cost of services of the Funds; (4) profitability data; (5) whether economies of scale may be realized and shared, in some measure, with investors as the Funds grow; and (6) other benefits that may accrue to the Sub-Advisers and the Sub-Sub-Adviser through their relationships with the Trust. In its deliberations, the Board, in exercising its business judgment, did not identify any single factor that alone was responsible for the Board's decision to approve the Agreements. Certain of the factors considered in the Board's deliberations are described below, although individual Trustees may have evaluated the information presented differently from one another, attributing different weights to various factors.

Before approving the Agreements, the Independent Trustees met in executive session with their independent legal counsel to consider the materials provided by JNAM, the Sub-Advisers and the Sub-Sub-Adviser and to consider the terms of the Agreements. Based on its evaluation of those materials and the information the Board received throughout the year at its regular meetings, the Board, including the interested and Independent Trustees, concluded that the Agreements are in the best interests of the shareholders of each Fund. In reaching its conclusions, the Board considered numerous factors, including the following:

Nature, Quality and Extent of Services

The Board examined the nature, quality and extent of the services provided and to be provided by JNAM, the Sub-Advisers and the Sub-Sub-Adviser.

For each New Fund, the Board considered the services to be provided by JNAM, including, but not limited to, the oversight of each Sub-Adviser, as applicable, pursuant to the Trust's "Manager of Managers" exemptive relief, as well as the provision of recordkeeping and compliance services to the Funds. The Board also took into account that JNAM would monitor the performance of the various organizations that would provide services to the Funds, including the Funds' distributor and custodian. With respect to JNAM's oversight of the Sub-Advisers, the Board noted that JNAM would be responsible for screening and recommending new sub-advisers when appropriate, as well as monitoring and reporting to the Board on a regular basis as to the performance and operations of the Funds' existing Sub-Advisers.

The Board also considered the investment sub-advisory services to be provided by each Sub-Adviser and Sub-Sub-Adviser. The Board noted JNAM's evaluation of each Sub-Adviser and Sub-Sub-Adviser, as well as JNAM's recommendations, based on its review of each Sub-Adviser and Sub-Sub-Adviser, in connection with its approval of the Sub-Advisory Agreements and Sub-Sub-Advisory Agreement. The Board also considered the various business-related risks JNAM faces as a result of managing the series of the Trust, including entrepreneurial, legal and litigation risks, some of which may be significant.

The Board reviewed the qualifications, backgrounds and responsibilities of JNAM's senior management that would be responsible for oversight of the New Funds and each Sub-Adviser and Sub-Sub-Adviser, and also reviewed the qualifications, backgrounds and responsibilities of the Sub-Advisers' and Sub-Sub-Adviser's portfolio managers who are and would be responsible for the day-to-day management of each Fund. The Board reviewed information pertaining to each Sub-Adviser's organizational structure, senior management, financial condition, investment operations, and other relevant information pertaining to each Sub-Adviser and Sub-Sub-Adviser. The Board considered compliance reports about JNAM, the Sub-Advisers and the Sub-Sub-Adviser from the Trust's Chief Compliance Officer.

Based on the foregoing, the Board concluded for each Fund that the Fund is likely to benefit from the nature, extent and quality of the services provided and to be provided, as applicable, by JNAM under the Advisory Agreement and each Sub-Adviser and Sub-Sub-Adviser under the applicable Sub-Advisory Agreement and Sub-Sub-Advisory Agreement.

Investment Performance of the Funds

New Funds:

JNL/American Funds® Moderate Allocation Fund. The Board took into account that the Fund had not commenced operations and there was no Fund performance data to review. The Board reviewed the performance of other Funds managed by the proposed Adviser with investment strategies similar to that of the Fund.

JNL/JPMorgan Nasdaq® Hedged Equity Fund. The Board took into account that the Fund had not commenced operations and there was no Fund performance data to review. The Board further noted that the proposed Sub-Adviser's investment mandate is a custom strategy for the Fund. Accordingly, the Board considered backtested performance results for the Sub-Adviser's proposed investment mandate.

JNL/T. Rowe Price Capital Appreciation Equity Fund. The Board took into account that the Fund had not commenced operations and there was no Fund performance data to review. The Board reviewed the performance of the proposed Sub-Adviser's investment mandate with a similar investment strategy as compared to the Fund's proposed benchmark index. The Board also considered the proposed Sub-Sub-Advisory Agreement pursuant to which it is proposed that TRPIM serve as Sub-Sub-Adviser.

Sub-Adviser and Sub-Sub-Adviser Replacements and Additions for Existing Funds:

JNL Multi-Manager Small Cap Growth Fund. The Board reviewed the performance of the Fund's proposed Sub-Adviser's investment mandate with a similar investment strategy as compared to the Fund's benchmark index and the Fund's peer group returns.

JNL/Heitman U.S. Focused Real Estate Fund (to be renamed JNL/Cohen & Steers U.S. Realty Fund). The Board reviewed the performance of the Fund's proposed Sub-Adviser's investment mandate with similar investment strategies as compared to the Fund, the Fund's benchmark index and the Fund's peer group returns.

JNL/WMC Government Money Market Fund (to be renamed JNL/Dreyfus Government Money Market Fund). The Board reviewed the performance of other funds managed by the proposed Sub-Adviser with investment strategies similar to that of the Fund, the benchmark index, and a peer group.

JNL/Goldman Sachs Managed Aggressive Growth Fund (to be renamed JNL/JPMorgan Managed Aggressive Growth Fund), JNL/Goldman Sachs Managed Growth Fund (to be renamed JNL/JPMorgan Managed Growth Fund), JNL/Goldman Sachs Managed Moderate Growth Fund (to be renamed JNL/JPMorgan Managed Moderate Growth Fund), JNL/Goldman Sachs Managed Moderate Fund (to be renamed JNL/JPMorgan Managed Moderate Fund) and JNL/Goldman Sachs Managed Conservative Fund (to be renamed JNL/JPMorgan Managed Conservative Fund). The Board reviewed the performance of each Fund's proposed Sub-Adviser's investment mandate with similar investment strategies.

Costs of Services

The Board reviewed the fees to be paid to the Adviser, each Sub-Adviser and Sub-Sub-Adviser, as applicable. The Board noted that the Funds' sub-advisory fees would be paid by JNAM (not the Fund) and that for JNL/T. Rowe Price Capital Appreciation Equity Fund, sub-sub-advisory fees would be paid by the Fund's Sub-Adviser, and, therefore, would be neither a direct shareholder expense nor a direct influence on the Fund's total expense ratio.

Further detail considered by the Board regarding the advisory and sub-advisory fees of each Fund, as applicable, is set forth below:

New Funds:

JNL/American Funds® Moderate Allocation Fund. The Board considered that the Fund's advisory fee is within six basis points of its peer group average and the Fund's total expense ratio (including underlying fund expenses) is within one basis point of its peer group average. The Board also considered that the Fund has no sub-advisory fee. The Board concluded that the fees are in the best interests of the Fund and its shareholders in light of the services provided.

JNL/JPMorgan Nasdaq® Hedged Equity Fund. The Board considered that the Fund's advisory fee is lower than its peer group average and the Fund's total expense ratio is higher than its peer group average. The Board concluded that the fees are in the best interests of the Fund and its shareholders in light of the services provided.

JNL/T. Rowe Price Capital Appreciation Equity Fund. The Board took into account that the Fund's advisory and sub-advisory fees are lower than their respective peer group averages and that the Fund's total expense ratio is within two basis points of its peer group average. The Board concluded that the fees are in the best interests of the Fund and its shareholders in light of the services provided.

Sub-Adviser and Sub-Sub-Adviser Replacements and Additions for Existing Funds:

JNL Multi-Manager Small Cap Growth Fund. The Board considered that the Fund's advisory fee and total expense ratio are lower than their respective peer group averages, though its sub-advisory fee is higher than its peer group average. The Board noted that the sub-advisory fee is paid by JNAM (not the Fund). The Board concluded that the fees are in the best interests of the Fund and its shareholders in light of the services provided.

JNL/Heitman U.S. Focused Real Estate Fund (to be renamed JNL/Cohen & Steers U.S. Realty Fund). The Board considered that the Fund's proposed sub-advisory fee is lower than the current sub-advisory fee and the peer group average, respectively. The Board noted that in conjunction with the Fund's proposed Sub-Adviser change, the Fund's advisory fee is proposed to change. In this regard, the Board noted that the Fund's proposed advisory fee is lower than the current advisory fee and the peer group average, respectively. The Board also noted that the Fund's total expense ratio, after taking account of the proposed advisory and sub-advisory fee changes, will be lower than both the current total expense ratio and the peer group average, respectively. The Board concluded that the fees are in the best interests of the Fund and its shareholders in light of the services to be provided.

JNL/WMC Government Money Market Fund (to be renamed JNL/Dreyfus Government Money Market Fund). The Board considered that the Fund's proposed sub-advisory fee is lower than the current sub-advisory fee and the peer group average, respectively. The Board further considered that the Fund's current advisory fee and total expense ratio are lower than their respective peer group averages. The Board further noted that in conjunction with the Sub-Adviser change, the Fund's advisory fee and total expense ratio are not proposed to change. The Board concluded that the fees are in the best interests of the Fund and its shareholders in light of the services to be provided.

JNL/Goldman Sachs Managed Aggressive Growth Fund (to be renamed JNL/JPMorgan Managed Aggressive Growth Fund) and JNL/Goldman Sachs Managed Conservative Fund (to be renamed JNL/JPMorgan Managed Conservative Fund). The Board considered that each Fund's advisory and sub-advisory fees are lower than the respective peer group averages. The Board further considered that each Fund's total expense ratio (including underlying fund expenses) is higher than its peer group average, though each Fund's total expense ratio (excluding underlying fund expenses) is within three basis points of its peer group average. The Board noted that in conjunction with each Fund's proposed Sub-Adviser change, the Fund's proposed sub-advisory fee is lower than the current sub-advisory fee and the peer group average. The Board further noted that in conjunction with each Fund's Sub-Adviser change, the Fund's advisory fee and total expense ratio are not proposed to change. The Board concluded that the sub-advisory fee is in the best interests of each Fund and its shareholders in light of the services to be provided.

JNL/Goldman Sachs Managed Growth Fund (to be renamed JNL/JPMorgan Managed Growth Fund), JNL/Goldman Sachs Managed Moderate Growth Fund (to be renamed JNL/JPMorgan Managed Moderate Growth Fund) and JNL/Goldman Sachs Managed Moderate Fund (to be renamed JNL/JPMorgan Managed Moderate Fund). The Board considered that each Fund's advisory and sub-advisory fees are lower than the respective peer group averages. The Board further considered that each Fund's total expense ratio (including underlying fund expenses) is higher than its peer group average, though each Fund's total expense ratio (excluding underlying fund expenses) is within five basis points of its peer group average. The Board noted that in conjunction with each Fund's proposed Sub-Adviser change, the Fund's proposed sub-advisory fee is lower than the current sub-advisory fee and the peer group average. The Board further noted that in conjunction with each Fund's Sub-Adviser change, the Fund's advisory fee and total expense ratio are not proposed to change. The Board concluded that the sub-advisory fee is in the best interests of the Fund and its shareholders in light of the services to be provided.

Profitability

The Board considered information concerning the costs to be incurred and profits expected to be realized by JNAM and each Sub-Adviser. The Board determined that profits expected to be realized by JNAM and each existing Sub-Adviser were not unreasonable.

Economies of Scale

The Board considered whether each Fund's proposed fees reflect the potential for economies of scale for the benefit of Fund shareholders. Based on information provided by JNAM and the Sub-Advisers, the Board noted that the advisory fee arrangements for each Fund contain breakpoints that decrease the fee rate as assets increase. The Board also noted that each Sub-Adviser has agreed to breakpoints in the sub-advisory fee rates, with the exception of Mellon for JNL/WMC Government Money Market Fund (to be renamed the JNL/Dreyfus Government Money Market Fund) and JPM for each of JNL/Goldman Sachs Managed Aggressive Growth Fund (to be renamed the JNL/JPMorgan Managed Aggressive Growth Fund), JNL/Goldman Sachs Managed Growth Fund (to be renamed the JNL/JPMorgan Managed Growth Fund), JNL/Goldman Sachs Managed Moderate Growth Fund (to be renamed the JNL/JPMorgan Managed Moderate Growth Fund), the JNL/Goldman Sachs Managed Moderate Fund (to be renamed the JNL/JPMorgan Managed Moderate Fund), and the JNL/Goldman Sachs Managed Conservative Fund (to be renamed the JNL/JPMorgan Managed Conservative Fund). The Board also noted that the sub-advisory fee for each Fund will be paid by JNAM (not the Fund) and that, for JNL/T. Rowe Price Capital Appreciation Equity Fund, the sub-sub-advisory fees will be paid by the Fund's Sub-Adviser (not the Fund).

The Board concluded that the Funds' fee schedules in some measure share economies of scale with shareholders.

Other Benefits to the Adviser, the Sub-Advisers and the Sub-Sub-Adviser

In evaluating the benefits that may accrue to JNAM through its relationship with the Funds, the Board noted that JNAM and certain of its affiliates would serve the Funds in various capacities, including as adviser, administrator, transfer agent, and distributor, and receive compensation from the Funds in connection with providing services to the Funds. The Board noted that each service to be provided to the Funds by JNAM or one of its affiliates would be pursuant to a written agreement, which the Board would evaluate periodically as required by law. In its periodic evaluation of the benefits to the Sub-Advisers, the Board also noted that certain Sub-Advisers may from time to time pay for portions of meetings organized by the Funds' distributor to educate wholesalers about the Fund(s) that each of those Sub-Advisers manage. The Board considered JNAM's assertion that those meetings do not yield a profit to the distributor that a sub-adviser is not required to participate in the meetings and that recommendations to hire or fire sub-advisers are not influenced by the sub-adviser's willingness to participate in the meetings. Lastly, the Board noted that certain affiliates of JNAM may receive benefits under the federal income tax laws with respect to tax deductions and credits.

In evaluating the benefits that may accrue to the Sub-Advisers and Sub-Sub-Adviser through their relationships with the Funds, the Board noted that the Sub-Advisers and Sub-Sub-Adviser may receive indirect benefits in the form of soft dollar arrangements for portfolio securities trades placed with the Funds' assets and may also develop additional investment advisory business with JNAM, the Funds or other clients of the Sub-Advisers or Sub-Sub-Adviser as a result of their relationship with the Funds.

1. Organization

American Funds Insurance Series (the “series”) is registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (the “1940 Act”), as an open-end, diversified management investment company with 40 different funds (“the funds”), including 23 funds in the series covered in this report. The other 17 funds in the series are covered in separate reports. Twelve funds in the series are covered in the American Funds Insurance Series - Target Date Series report and five funds in the series are covered in the American Funds Insurance Series - Portfolio Series report. The assets of each fund are segregated, with each fund accounted for separately. Capital Research and Management Company (“CRMC”) is the series’ investment adviser. Milliman Financial Risk Management LLC (“Milliman FRM”) is the subadviser for the risk management strategy for eight of the funds (the “managed risk funds”), five of which are covered in this report.

The managed risk funds covered in this report are Managed Risk Growth Fund, Managed Risk International Fund, Managed Risk Washington Mutual Investors Fund, Managed Risk Growth-Income Fund and Managed Risk Asset Allocation Fund. The managed risk funds invest in other funds within the series (the “underlying funds”) and employ Milliman FRM to implement the risk management strategy, which consists of using hedging instruments – primarily exchange-traded options and futures contracts – to attempt to stabilize the volatility of the funds around target volatility levels and reduce the downside exposure of the funds during periods of significant market declines.

Shareholders approved a proposal to reorganize the series from a Massachusetts business trust to a Delaware statutory trust. The series reserved the right to delay implementing the reorganization and has elected to do so.

The investment objective(s) for each fund covered in this report are as follows:

Global Growth Fund – To provide long-term growth of capital.

Global Small Capitalization Fund – To provide long-term growth of capital.

Growth Fund – To provide growth of capital.

International Fund – To provide long-term growth of capital.

New World Fund – To provide long-term capital appreciation.

Washington Mutual Investors Fund – To produce income exceeding the average yield on U.S. stocks generally and to provide an opportunity for growth of principal consistent with sound common stock investing.

Capital World Growth and Income Fund – To provide long-term growth of capital while providing current income.

Growth-Income Fund – To achieve long-term growth of capital and income.

International Growth and Income Fund – To provide long-term growth of capital while providing current income.

Capital Income Builder – The two primary objectives are (1) to provide a level of current income that exceeds the average yield on U.S. stocks generally and (2) to provide a growing stream of income over the years. The secondary objective is to provide growth of capital.

Asset Allocation Fund – To provide high total return (including income and capital gains) consistent with preservation of capital over the long term.

American Funds Global Balanced Fund – Seeks the balanced accomplishment of three objectives: long-term growth of capital, conservation of principal and current income.

The Bond Fund of America – To provide as high a level of current income as is consistent with the preservation of capital.

Capital World Bond Fund – To provide, over the long term, a high level of total return consistent with prudent investment management.

American High-Income Trust – The primary objective is to provide a high level of current income. The secondary objective is capital appreciation.

American Funds Mortgage Fund – To provide current income and preservation of capital.

Ultra-Short Bond Fund – To provide current income, consistent with the maturity and quality standards applicable to the fund, and preservation of capital and liquidity.

U.S. Government Securities Fund – To provide a high level of current income consistent with prudent investment risk and preservation of capital.

Managed Risk Growth Fund – To provide growth of capital while seeking to manage volatility and provide downside protection.

Managed Risk International Fund – To provide long-term growth of capital while seeking to manage volatility and provide downside protection.

Managed Risk Washington Mutual Investors Fund – To produce income exceeding the average yield on U.S. stocks generally and to provide an opportunity for growth of principal consistent with sound common stock investing, in each case while seeking to manage volatility and provide downside protection.

Managed Risk Growth-Income Fund – To achieve long-term growth of capital and income while seeking to manage volatility and provide downside protection.

Managed Risk Asset Allocation Fund – To provide high total return (including income and capital gains) consistent with preservation of capital over the long term while seeking to manage volatility and provide downside protection.

Each fund in the series, except the managed risk funds, offers either four or five share classes (Classes 1, 1A, 2, 3 or 4); the managed risk funds offer two share classes (Classes P1 and P2). Holders of all share classes of each fund have equal pro rata rights to assets, dividends and liquidation proceeds of each fund held. Each share class of each fund has identical voting rights, except for the exclusive right to vote on matters affecting only its class. Share classes have different fees and expenses (“class-specific fees and expenses”), primarily due to different arrangements for certain distribution expenses. Differences in class-specific fees and expenses will result in differences in net investment income and, therefore, the payment of different per-share dividends by each class of each fund.

2. Significant accounting policies

Each fund is an investment company that applies the accounting and reporting guidance issued in Topic 946 by the U.S. Financial Accounting Standards Board. Each fund’s financial statements have been prepared to comply with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles (“U.S. GAAP”). These principles require the series’ investment adviser to make estimates and assumptions that affect reported amounts and disclosures. Actual results could differ from those estimates. Subsequent events, if any, have been evaluated through the date of issuance in the preparation of the financial statements. The funds follow the significant accounting policies described in this section, as well as the valuation policies described in the next section on valuation.

Cash – Cash may include amounts held in an interest bearing deposit facility.

Security transactions and related investment income – Security transactions are recorded by each fund as of the date the trades are executed with brokers. Realized gains and losses from security transactions are determined based on the specific identified cost of the securities. In the event a security is purchased with a delayed payment date, each fund will segregate liquid assets sufficient to meet their payment obligations. Dividend income is recognized on the ex-dividend date and interest income is recognized on an accrual basis. Market discounts, premiums and original issue discounts on fixed-income securities are amortized daily over the expected life of the security.

Fees and expenses – The fees and expenses of the underlying funds held by the managed risk funds are not included in the fees and expenses reported for each of the managed risk funds; however, they are indirectly reflected in the valuation of each of the underlying funds. These fees are included in the unaudited net effective expense ratios that are provided as additional information in the financial highlights tables.

Class allocations – Income, fees and expenses (other than class-specific fees and expenses), realized gains and losses and unrealized appreciation and depreciation are allocated daily among the various share classes of each fund based on their relative net assets. Class-specific fees and expenses, such as distribution expenses, are accrued daily and charged directly to the respective share class of each fund.

Distributions paid to shareholders – Income dividends and capital gain distributions are recorded on each fund’s ex-dividend date.

Currency translation – Assets and liabilities, including investment securities, denominated in currencies other than U.S. dollars are translated into U.S. dollars at the exchange rates supplied by one or more pricing vendors on the valuation date. Purchases and sales of investment securities and income and expenses are translated into U.S. dollars at the exchange rates on the dates of such transactions. The effects of changes in exchange rates on investment securities are included with the net realized gain or loss and net unrealized appreciation or depreciation on investments in the funds’ statements of operations. The realized gain or loss and unrealized appreciation or depreciation resulting from all other transactions denominated in currencies other than U.S. dollars are disclosed separately.

3. Valuation

CRMC, the series’ investment adviser, values the funds’ investments at fair value as defined by U.S. GAAP. The net asset value per share is calculated once daily as of the close of regular trading on the New York Stock Exchange, normally 4 p.m. New York time, each day the New York Stock Exchange is open.

Methods and inputs – The series’ investment adviser uses the following methods and inputs to establish the fair value of each fund’s assets and liabilities. Use of particular methods and inputs may vary over time based on availability and relevance as market and economic conditions evolve.

Equity securities, including depositary receipts, are generally valued at the official closing price of, or the last reported sale price on, the exchange or market on which such securities are traded, as of the close of business on the day the securities are being valued or, lacking any sales, at the last available bid price. Prices for each security are taken from the principal exchange or market on which the security trades. The value of an underlying fund is based on its reported net asset value.

Fixed-income securities, including short-term securities, are generally valued at evaluated prices obtained from third-party pricing vendors. Vendors value such securities based on one or more of the inputs described in the following table. The table provides examples of inputs that are commonly relevant for valuing particular classes of fixed-income securities in which the funds are authorized to invest. However, these classifications are not exclusive and any of the inputs may be used to value any other class of fixed-income security.

Fixed-income class	Examples of standard inputs
All	Benchmark yields, transactions, bids, offers, quotations from dealers and trading systems, new issues, spreads and other relationships observed in the markets among comparable securities; and proprietary pricing models such as yield measures calculated using factors such as cash flows, financial or collateral performance and other reference data (collectively referred to as “standard inputs”)
Corporate bonds, notes & loans; convertible securities	Standard inputs and underlying equity of the issuer
Bonds & notes of governments & government agencies	Standard inputs and interest rate volatilities
Mortgage-backed; asset-backed obligations	Standard inputs and cash flows, prepayment information, default rates, delinquency and loss assumptions, collateral characteristics, credit enhancements and specific deal information
Municipal securities	Standard inputs and, for certain distressed securities, cash flows or liquidation values using a net present value calculation based on inputs that include, but are not limited to, financial statements and debt contracts

Securities with both fixed-income and equity characteristics, or equity securities traded principally among fixed-income dealers, are generally valued in the manner described for either equity or fixed-income securities, depending on which method is deemed most appropriate by the series' investment adviser. The Capital Group Central Corporate Bond Fund ("CCBF"), a fund within the Capital Group Central Fund Series II, and Capital Group Central Cash Fund ("CCF"), a fund within the Capital Group Central Fund Series (collectively the "Central Funds"), are each valued based upon a floating net asset value, which fluctuates with changes in the value of each fund's portfolio securities. The underlying securities are valued based on the policies and procedures in the Central Funds' statements of additional information. The State Street Institutional U.S. Government Money Market Fund held by the managed risk funds is managed to maintain a $1.00 net asset value per share. The net asset value of each share class of each managed risk fund is calculated based on the reported net asset values of the underlying funds in which each fund invests.

Exchange-traded options and futures are generally valued at the official closing price for options and official settlement price for futures of the exchange or market on which such instruments are traded, as of the close of business on the day such instruments are being valued. Forward currency contracts are valued based on the spot and forward exchange rates obtained from a third-party pricing vendor. Swaps and over-the-counter (OTC) options are generally valued using evaluated prices obtained from third-party pricing vendors who calculate these values based on market inputs that may include the yields of the indices referenced in the instrument and the relevant curve, dealer quotes, default probabilities and recovery rates, exchange rates, implied option volatilities, and terms of the contract.

Securities and other assets for which representative market quotations are not readily available or are considered unreliable by the series' investment adviser are fair valued as determined in good faith under fair value guidelines adopted by the series' investment adviser and approved by the board of trustees as further described. The investment adviser follows fair valuation guidelines, consistent with U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission rules and guidance, to consider relevant principles and factors when making fair value determinations. The investment adviser considers relevant indications of value that are reasonably and timely available to it in determining the fair value to be assigned to a particular security, such as the type and cost of the security, restrictions on resale of the security, relevant financial or business developments of the issuer, actively traded similar or related securities, dealer or broker quotes, conversion or exchange rights on the security, related corporate actions, significant events occurring after the close of trading in the security, and changes in overall market conditions. In addition, the closing prices of equity securities and futures that trade in markets outside U.S. time zones may be adjusted to reflect significant events that occur after the close of local trading but before the net asset value of each share class of each fund is determined. Fair valuations of investments that are not actively trading involve judgment and may differ materially from valuations that would have been used had greater market activity occurred.

Processes and structure – The series' board of trustees has designated the series' investment adviser to make fair value determinations, subject to board oversight. The investment adviser has established a Joint Fair Valuation Committee (the "Committee") to administer, implement and oversee the fair valuation process, and to make fair value decisions. The Committee regularly reviews its own fair value decisions, as well as decisions made under its standing instructions to the investment adviser's valuation team. The Committee reviews changes in fair value measurements from period to period, pricing vendor information and market data, and may, as deemed appropriate, update the fair valuation guidelines to better reflect the results of back testing and address new or evolving issues. Pricing decisions, processes and controls over security valuation are also subject to additional internal reviews facilitated by the investment adviser's global risk management group. The Committee reports changes to the fair valuation guidelines to the board of trustees. The series' board and audit committee also regularly review reports that describe fair value determinations and methods.

Classifications – The series' investment adviser classifies the funds' assets and liabilities into three levels based on the inputs used to value the assets or liabilities. Level 1 values are based on quoted prices in active markets for identical securities. Level 2 values are based on significant observable market inputs, such as quoted prices for similar securities and quoted prices in inactive markets. Certain securities trading outside the U.S. may transfer between Level 1 and Level 2 due to valuation adjustments resulting from significant market movements following the close of local trading. Level 3 values are based on significant unobservable inputs that reflect the investment adviser's determination of assumptions that market participants might reasonably use in valuing the securities.

The valuation levels are not necessarily an indication of the risk or liquidity associated with the underlying investment. For example, U.S. government securities are reflected as Level 2 because the inputs used to determine fair value may not always be quoted prices in an active market. The tables on the following pages present the funds' valuation levels as of June 30, 2024 (dollars in thousands):

4. Risk factors

Investing in the funds may involve certain risks including, but not limited to, those described below.

Market conditions – The prices of, and the income generated by, the common stocks, bonds and other securities held by a fund may decline – sometimes rapidly or unpredictably – due to various factors, including events or conditions affecting the general economy or particular industries or companies; overall market changes; local, regional or global political, social or economic instability; governmental, governmental agency or central bank responses to economic conditions; changes in inflation rates; and currency exchange rate, interest rate and commodity price fluctuations. These risks may be heightened in the case of smaller capitalization stocks.

Economies and financial markets throughout the world are highly interconnected. Economic, financial or political events, trading and tariff arrangements, wars, terrorism, cybersecurity events, natural disasters, public health emergencies (such as the spread of infectious disease), bank failures and other circumstances in one country or region, including actions taken by governmental or quasi-governmental authorities in response to any of the foregoing, could have impacts on global economies or markets. As a result, whether or not a fund invests in securities of issuers located in or with significant exposure to the countries affected, the value and liquidity of a fund's investments may be negatively affected by developments in other countries and regions.

Issuer risks – The prices of, and the income generated by, securities held by a fund may decline in response to various factors directly related to the issuers of such securities, including reduced demand for an issuer's goods or services, poor management performance, major litigation, investigations or other controversies related to the issuer, changes in the issuer's financial condition or credit rating, changes in government regulations affecting the issuer or its competitive environment and strategic initiatives such as mergers, acquisitions or dispositions and the market response to any such initiatives. An individual security may also be affected by factors relating to the industry or sector of the issuer or the securities markets as a whole, and conversely an industry or sector or the securities markets may be affected by a change in financial condition or other event affecting a single issuer.

Investing in income-oriented stocks – The value of a fund's securities and income provided by a fund may be reduced by changes in the dividend policies of, and the capital resources available for dividend payments at, the companies in which the fund invests.

Investing in growth-oriented stocks – Growth-oriented common stocks and other equity-type securities (such as preferred stocks, convertible preferred stocks and convertible bonds) may involve larger price swings and greater potential for loss than other types of investments. These risks may be even greater in the case of smaller capitalization stocks.

Investing in small companies – Investing in smaller companies may pose additional risks. For example, it is often more difficult to value or dispose of small company stocks and more difficult to obtain information about smaller companies than about larger companies. Furthermore, smaller companies often have limited product lines, operating histories, markets and/or financial resources, may be dependent on one or a few key persons for management, and can be more susceptible to losses. Moreover, the prices of their stocks may be more volatile than stocks of larger, more established companies, particularly during times of market turmoil.

Investing outside the U.S. – Securities of issuers domiciled outside the U.S. or with significant operations or revenues outside the U.S., and securities tied economically to countries outside the U.S., may lose value because of adverse political, social, economic or market developments (including social instability, regional conflicts, terrorism and war) in the countries or regions in which the issuers are domiciled, operate or generate revenue or to which the securities are tied economically. These securities may also lose value due to changes in foreign currency exchange rates against the U.S. dollar and/or currencies of other countries. Issuers of these securities may be more susceptible to actions of foreign governments, such as nationalization, currency blockage or the imposition of price controls, sanctions, or punitive taxes, each of which could adversely impact the value of these securities. Securities markets in certain countries may be more volatile and/or less liquid than those in the U.S. Investments outside the U.S. may also be subject to different regulatory, legal, accounting, auditing, financial reporting and recordkeeping requirements, and may be more difficult to value, than those in the U.S. In addition, the value of investments outside the U.S. may be reduced by foreign taxes, including foreign withholding taxes on interest and dividends. Further, there may be increased risks of delayed settlement of securities purchased or sold by the fund, which could impact the liquidity of the fund's portfolio. The risks of investing outside the U.S. may be heightened in connection with investments in emerging markets.

Investing in developing countries – Investing in countries with developing economies and/or markets may involve risks in addition to and greater than those generally associated with investing in developed countries. For instance, developing countries tend to have less developed political, economic and legal systems than those in developed countries. Accordingly, the governments of these countries may be less stable and more likely to intervene in the market economy, for example, by imposing capital controls, nationalizing a company or industry, placing restrictions on foreign ownership and on withdrawing sale proceeds of securities from the country, and/or imposing punitive taxes that could adversely affect the prices of securities. Information regarding issuers in developing countries may be limited, incomplete or inaccurate, and such issuers may not be subject to regulatory, accounting, auditing, and financial reporting and recordkeeping standards comparable to those to which issuers in developed countries are subject. A fund's rights with respect to its investments in developing countries, if any, will generally be governed by local law, which may make it difficult or impossible for the fund to pursue legal remedies or to obtain and enforce judgments in local courts. In addition, the economies of these countries may be dependent on relatively few industries, may have limited access to capital and may be more susceptible to changes in local and global trade conditions and downturns in the world economy. Securities markets in these countries can also be relatively small and have substantially lower trading volumes. As a result, securities issued in these countries may be more volatile and less liquid, more vulnerable to market manipulation, and more difficult to value, than securities issued in countries with more developed economies and/or markets. Less certainty with respect to security valuations may lead to additional challenges and risks in calculating a fund's net asset value. Additionally, developing countries are more likely to experience problems with the clearing and settling of trades and the holding of securities by banks, agents and depositories that are less established than those in developed countries.

Investing in emerging markets – Investing in emerging markets may involve risks in addition to and greater than those generally associated with investing in the securities markets of developed countries. For instance, emerging market countries tend to have less developed political, economic and legal systems than those in developed countries. Accordingly, the governments of these countries may be less stable and more likely to intervene in the market economy, for example, by imposing capital controls, nationalizing a company or industry, placing restrictions on foreign ownership and on withdrawing sale proceeds of securities from the country, and/or imposing punitive taxes that could adversely affect the prices of securities. Information regarding issuers in emerging markets may be limited, incomplete or inaccurate, and such issuers may not be subject to regulatory, accounting, auditing, and financial reporting and recordkeeping standards comparable to those to which issuers in more developed markets are subject. A fund's rights with respect to its investments in emerging markets, if any, will generally be governed by local law, which may make it difficult or impossible for the fund to pursue legal remedies or to obtain and enforce judgments in local courts. In addition, the economies of these countries may be dependent on relatively few industries, may have limited access to capital and may be more susceptible to changes in local and global trade conditions and downturns in the world economy. Securities markets in these countries can also be relatively small and have substantially lower trading volumes. As a result, securities issued in these countries may be more volatile and less liquid, more vulnerable to market manipulation, and more difficult to value, than securities issued in countries with more developed economies and/or markets. Less certainty with respect to security valuations may lead to additional challenges and risks in calculating a fund's net asset value. Additionally, emerging markets are more likely to experience problems with the clearing and settling of trades and the holding of securities by banks, agents and depositories that are less established than those in developed countries.

Investing in debt instruments – The prices of, and the income generated by, bonds and other debt securities held by a fund may be affected by factors such as the interest rates, maturities and credit quality of these securities.

Rising interest rates will generally cause the prices of bonds and other debt securities to fall. Also, when interest rates rise, issuers of debt securities that may be prepaid at any time, such as mortgage-or other asset-backed securities, are less likely to refinance existing debt securities, causing the average life of such securities to extend. A general change in interest rates may cause investors to sell debt securities on a large scale, which could also adversely affect the price and liquidity of debt securities and could also result in increased redemptions from a fund. Falling interest rates may cause an issuer to redeem, call or refinance a debt security before its stated maturity, which may result in a fund having to reinvest the proceeds in lower yielding securities. Longer maturity debt securities generally have greater sensitivity to changes in interest rates and may be subject to greater price fluctuations than shorter maturity debt securities.

Bonds and other debt securities are also subject to credit risk, which is the possibility that the credit strength of an issuer or guarantor will weaken or be perceived to be weaker, and/or an issuer of a debt security will fail to make timely payments of principal or interest and the security will go into default. Changes in actual or perceived creditworthiness may occur quickly. A downgrade or default affecting any of a fund's securities could cause the value of a fund's shares to decrease. Lower quality debt securities generally have higher rates of interest and may be subject to greater price fluctuations than higher quality debt securities. Credit risk is gauged, in part, by the credit ratings of the debt securities in which a fund invests. However, ratings are only the opinions of the rating agencies issuing them and are not guarantees as to credit quality or an evaluation of market risk. The fund's investment adviser relies on its own credit analysts to research issuers and issues in assessing credit and default risks.

Investing in lower rated debt instruments – Lower rated bonds and other lower rated debt securities generally have higher rates of interest and involve greater risk of default or price declines due to changes in the issuer’s creditworthiness than those of higher quality debt securities. The market prices of these securities may fluctuate more than the prices of higher quality debt securities and may decline significantly in periods of general economic difficulty. These risks may be increased with respect to investments in junk bonds.

Investing in derivatives – The use of derivatives involves a variety of risks, which may be different from, or greater than, the risks associated with investing in traditional securities, such as stocks and bonds. Changes in the value of a derivative may not correlate perfectly with, and may be more sensitive to market events than, the underlying asset, rate or index, and a derivative instrument may cause a fund to lose significantly more than its initial investment. Derivatives may be difficult to value, difficult for a fund to buy or sell at an opportune time or price and difficult, or even impossible, to terminate or otherwise offset. A fund’s use of derivatives may result in losses to the fund, and investing in derivatives may reduce a fund’s returns and increase a fund’s price volatility. A fund’s counterparty to a derivative transaction (including, if applicable, the fund’s clearing broker, the derivatives exchange or the clearinghouse) may be unable or unwilling to honor its financial obligations in respect of the transaction. In certain cases, the fund may be hindered or delayed in exercising remedies against or closing out derivative instruments with a counterparty, which may result in additional losses. Derivatives are also subject to operational risk (such as documentation issues, settlement issues and systems failures) and legal risk (such as insufficient documentation, insufficient capacity or authority of a counterparty, and issues with the legality or enforceability of a contract).

Currency – The prices of, and the income generated by, many debt securities held by a fund may also be affected by changes in relative currency values. If the U.S. dollar appreciates against foreign currencies, the value in U.S. dollars of a fund’s securities denominated in such currencies would generally fall and vice versa.

Investing in mortgage-related and other asset-backed securities – Mortgage-related securities, such as mortgage-backed securities, and other asset-backed securities, include debt obligations that represent interests in pools of mortgages or other income-bearing assets, such as residential mortgage loans, home equity loans, mortgages on commercial buildings, consumer loans or receivables and equipment leases. While such securities are subject to the risks associated with investments in debt instruments generally (for example, credit, extension and interest rate risks), they are also subject to other and different risks. Mortgage-backed and other asset-backed securities are subject to changes in the payment patterns of borrowers of the underlying debt, potentially increasing the volatility of the securities and a fund’s net asset value. When interest rates fall, borrowers are more likely to refinance or prepay their debt before its stated maturity. This may result in a fund having to reinvest the proceeds in lower yielding securities, effectively reducing a fund’s income. Conversely, if interest rates rise and borrowers repay their debt more slowly than expected, the time in which the mortgage-backed and other asset-backed securities are paid off could be extended, reducing a fund’s cash available for reinvestment in higher yielding securities. Mortgage-backed securities are also subject to the risk that underlying borrowers will be unable to meet their obligations and the value of property that secures the mortgages may decline in value and be insufficient, upon foreclosure, to repay the associated loans. Investments in asset-backed securities are subject to similar risks.

Investing in future delivery contracts – A fund may enter into contracts, such as to-be-announced contracts and mortgage dollar rolls, that involve a fund selling mortgage-related securities and simultaneously contracting to repurchase similar securities for delivery at a future date at a predetermined price. This can increase a fund’s market exposure, and the market price of the securities that the fund contracts to repurchase could drop below their purchase price. While a fund can preserve and generate capital through the use of such contracts by, for example, realizing the difference between the sale price and the future purchase price, the income generated by the fund may be reduced by engaging in such transactions. In addition, these transactions increase the turnover rate of a fund.

Investing in inflation-linked bonds – The values of inflation-linked bonds generally fluctuate in response to changes in real interest rates – i.e., rates of interest after factoring in inflation. A rise in real interest rates may cause the prices of inflation-linked securities to fall, while a decline in real interest rates may cause the prices to increase. Inflation-linked bonds may experience greater losses than other debt securities with similar durations when real interest rates rise faster than nominal interest rates. There can be no assurance that the value of an inflation-linked security will be directly correlated to changes in interest rates; for example, if interest rates rise for reasons other than inflation, the increase may not be reflected in the security’s inflation measure.

Investing in inflation-linked bonds may also reduce a fund’s distributable income during periods of deflation. If prices for goods and services decline throughout the economy, the principal and income on inflation-linked securities may decline and result in losses to a fund.

Investing in securities backed by the U.S. government – Securities backed by the U.S. Treasury or the full faith and credit of the U.S. government are guaranteed only as to the timely payment of interest and principal when held to maturity. Accordingly, the current market values for these securities will fluctuate with changes in interest rates and the credit rating of the U.S. government. Notwithstanding that these securities are backed by the full faith and credit of the U.S. government, circumstances could arise that would prevent or delay the payment of interest or principal on these securities, which could adversely affect their value and cause the fund to suffer losses. Such an event could lead to significant disruptions in U.S. and global markets. Securities issued by U.S. government-sponsored entities and federal agencies and instrumentalities that are not backed by the full faith and credit of the U.S. government are neither issued nor guaranteed by the U.S. government. U.S. government securities are subject to market risk, interest rate risk and credit risk.

Investing in repurchase agreements – Upon entering into a repurchase agreement, a fund purchases a security from a bank or broker-dealer, which simultaneously commits to repurchase the security within a specified time at the fund's cost with interest. The security purchased by the fund constitutes collateral for the seller's repurchase obligation. If the party agreeing to repurchase should default, the fund may seek to sell the security it holds as collateral. The fund may incur a loss if the value of the collateral securing the repurchase obligation falls below the repurchase price. The fund may also incur disposition costs and encounter procedural delays in connection with liquidating the collateral.

Interest rate risk – The values and liquidity of the securities held by a fund may be affected by changing interest rates. For example, the values of these securities may decline when interest rates rise and increase when interest rates fall. Longer maturity debt securities generally have greater sensitivity to changes in interest rates and may be subject to greater price fluctuations than shorter maturity debt securities. A fund may invest in variable and floating rate securities. When a fund holds variable or floating rate securities, a decrease in market interest rates will adversely affect the income received from such securities and the net asset value of a fund's shares. Although the values of such securities are generally less sensitive to interest rate changes than those of other debt securities, the value of variable and floating rate securities may decline if their interest rates do not rise as quickly, or as much, as market interest rates. Conversely, floating rate securities will not generally increase in value if interest rates decline. During periods of extremely low short-term interest rates, a fund may not be able to maintain a positive yield or total return and, in relatively low interest rate environments, there are heightened risks associated with rising interest rates.

Credit and liquidity support – Changes in the credit quality of banks and financial institutions providing credit and liquidity support features with respect to securities held by a fund could cause the values of these securities to decline.

Asset allocation – A fund's percentage allocation to equity securities, debt securities and money market instruments could cause the fund to underperform relative to relevant benchmarks and other funds with similar investment objectives.

Liquidity risk – Certain fund holdings may be or may become difficult or impossible to sell, particularly during times of market turmoil. Liquidity may be impacted by the lack of an active market for a holding, legal or contractual restrictions on resale, or the reduced number and capacity of market participants to make a market in such holding. Market prices for less liquid or illiquid holdings may be volatile or difficult to determine, and reduced liquidity may have an adverse impact on the market price of such holdings. Additionally, the sale of less liquid or illiquid holdings may involve substantial delays (including delays in settlement) and additional costs and the fund may be unable to sell such holdings when necessary to meet its liquidity needs, or to try to limit losses, or may be forced to sell at a loss.

Management – The investment adviser to the funds actively manages the funds' investments. Consequently, the funds are subject to the risk that the methods and analyses, including models, tools and data, employed by the investment adviser in this process may be flawed or incorrect and may not produce the desired results. This could cause the funds to lose value or their investment results to lag relevant benchmarks or other funds with similar objectives.

Investing in the managed risk funds may involve additional risks including, but not limited to, those described below.

Fund structure – The managed risk funds invest in underlying funds and incur expenses related to those underlying funds. In addition, investors in the managed risk funds will incur fees to pay for certain expenses related to the operations of the managed risk funds. An investor holding the underlying fund directly would incur lower overall expenses but would not receive the benefit of the managed risk strategy. Additionally, in accordance with an exemption under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended, the investment adviser considers only proprietary funds when selecting underlying investment options and allocations. This means that the fund's investment adviser does not, nor does it expect to, consider any unaffiliated funds as underlying investment options for the fund. This strategy could raise certain conflicts of interest when determining the overall asset allocation of the fund or choosing underlying investments for the fund, including the selection of funds that result in greater compensation to the adviser or funds with relatively lower historical investment results. The investment adviser has policies and procedures designed to mitigate material conflicts of interest that may arise in connection with its management of the fund.

Management – The managed risk funds are subject to the risk that the managed risk strategy or the methods employed by the subadviser in implementing the managed risk strategy may not produce the desired results. This could cause the managed risk funds to lose value or their investment results to lag relevant benchmarks or other funds with similar objectives.

Underlying fund risks – Because the managed risk funds' investments consist of investments in underlying funds, the managed risk funds' risks are directly related to the risks of the respective underlying fund in which each managed risk fund invests. For this reason, it is important to understand the risks associated with investing both in the managed risk fund and in each of the underlying funds.

Investing in options and futures contracts – In addition to the risks generally associated with investing in derivative instruments, options and futures contracts are subject to the creditworthiness of the clearing organizations, exchanges and, in the case of futures, futures commission merchants with which a fund transacts. While both options and futures contracts are generally liquid instruments, under certain market conditions, options and futures may be deemed to be illiquid. For example, a fund may be temporarily prohibited from closing out its position in an options or futures contract if intraday price change limits or limits on trading volume imposed by the applicable exchange are triggered. If a fund is unable to close out a position on an options or futures contract, the fund would remain subject to the risk of adverse price movements until the fund is able to close out the position in question. The ability of a fund to successfully utilize options and futures contracts may depend in part upon the ability of the fund's investment adviser or subadviser to accurately forecast interest rates and other economic factors and to assess and predict the impact of such economic factors on the options and futures in which the fund invests. If the investment adviser or subadviser incorrectly forecasts economic developments or incorrectly predicts the impact of such developments on the options and futures in which it invests, a fund could suffer losses. Whereas the risk of loss on a put option purchased by the fund is limited to the initial cost of the option, the amount of a potential loss on a futures contract could greatly exceed the relatively small initial amount invested in entering the futures position.

Hedging – There may be imperfect or even negative correlation between the prices of the options and futures contracts in which a fund invests and the prices of the underlying securities or indexes which the fund seeks to hedge. For example, options and futures contracts may not provide an effective hedge because changes in options and futures contract prices may not track those of the underlying securities or indexes they are intended to hedge. In addition, there are significant differences between the securities market, on the one hand, and the options and futures markets, on the other, that could result in an imperfect correlation between the markets, causing a given hedge not to achieve its objectives. The degree of imperfection of correlation depends on circumstances such as variations in speculative market demand for options and futures, including technical influences in options and futures trading, and differences between the financial instruments being hedged and the instruments underlying the standard contracts available for trading. A decision as to whether, when and how to hedge involves the exercise of skill and judgment, and even a well-conceived hedge may be unsuccessful to some degree because of market behavior or unexpected interest rate trends. In addition, the fund's investment in exchange-traded options and futures and their resulting costs could limit the fund's gains in rising markets relative to those of the underlying funds, or to those of unhedged funds in general.

Short positions – The fund may suffer losses from short positions in futures contracts. Losses from short positions in futures contracts occur when the underlying index increases in value. As the underlying index increases in value, the holder of the short position in the corresponding futures contract is required to pay the difference in value of the futures contract resulting from the increase in the index on a daily basis. Losses from a short position in an index futures contract could potentially be very large if the value of the underlying index rises dramatically in a short period of time.

Nondiversification risk – As nondiversified funds, the managed risk funds have the ability to invest a larger percentage of their assets in the securities of a smaller number of issuers than diversified funds. To the extent that a managed risk fund invests a larger percentage of its assets in securities of one or more issuers, poor performance by these securities could have a greater adverse impact on the fund's investment results.

5. Certain investment techniques

Securities lending – Some of the funds have entered into securities lending transactions in which the funds earn income by lending investment securities to brokers, dealers or other institutions. Each transaction involves three parties: the fund, acting as the lender of the securities, a borrower, and a lending agent that acts as an intermediary.

Securities lending transactions are entered into by the fund under the securities lending agreement with the lending agent. The lending agent facilitates the exchange of securities between the lender and the borrower, generally provides protection from borrower default, marks to market the value of collateral daily, secures additional collateral from the borrower if it falls below preset terms, and may reinvest the collateral on behalf of the fund according to agreed parameters. The lending agent has indemnified the fund against losses resulting from borrower default. Although risk is mitigated by the collateral and indemnification, the fund could experience a delay in recovering its securities and a potential loss of income or value if the borrower fails to return the securities, collateral investments decline in value or the lending agent fails to perform.

The borrower is required to post highly liquid assets, such as cash or U.S. government securities, as collateral for the loan in an amount at least equal to the value of the securities loaned. Investments made with cash collateral are recognized as assets in the fund's investment portfolio. The same amount is recorded as a liability in the fund's statement of assets and liabilities. While securities are on loan, the fund will continue to receive the equivalent of the interest, dividends or other distributions paid by the issuer, as well as a portion of the interest on the investment of the collateral. Additionally, although the fund does not have the right to vote on securities while they are on loan, the fund has a right to consent on corporate actions and a right to recall loaned securities to vote on proposals affecting them. The borrower is obligated to return the loaned security at the conclusion of the loan or, during the pendency of the loan, on demand from the fund.

The following table presents the value of the securities on loan, the type and value of collateral received and the value of the investment securities purchased, if any, from the cash collateral received by each fund (dollars in thousands):

Funds	Value of investment securities on loan	Collateral received		Value of investment securities purchased
		Cash	U.S. government securities
Global Growth Fund	$ 4,457	$ 4,789	$ 10	$ 4,310
Global Small Capitalization Fund	41,131	17,225	26,164	15,503
Growth Fund	38,162	39,028	–	35,125
International Fund	9,093	–	9,548	–
New World Fund	14,933	7,477	8,154	6,729
Capital World Growth and Income Fund	10,543	9,661	1,447	8,695
Growth-Income Fund	114,087	119,835	–	107,852
International Growth and Income Fund	715	–	776	–
Capital Income Builder	20,164	16,497	4,730	14,847
Asset Allocation Fund	19,113	19,914	–	17,923
American Funds Global Balanced Fund	143	147	–	132

Investment securities purchased from cash collateral are disclosed in the investment portfolio as short-term securities. Securities received as collateral, if any, are not recognized as fund assets. The contractual maturity of collateral received under the securities lending agreement is classified as overnight and continuous.

Index-linked bonds – Some of the funds have invested in index-linked bonds, which are fixed-income securities whose principal value is periodically adjusted to a government price index. Over the life of an index-linked bond, interest is paid on the adjusted principal value. Increases or decreases in the principal value of index-linked bonds are recorded as interest income in the fund's statement of operations.

Mortgage dollar rolls – Some of the funds have entered into mortgage dollar roll transactions of TBA securities in which the fund sells a TBA mortgage-backed security to a counterparty and simultaneously enters into an agreement with the same counterparty to buy back a similar TBA security on a specific future date at a predetermined price. Mortgage dollar rolls are accounted for as purchase and sale transactions and may result in an increase to the fund's portfolio turnover rate. Portfolio turnover rates excluding and including mortgage dollar rolls are presented at the end of the financial highlights tables.

Loan transactions – Some of the funds have entered into loan transactions in which the fund acquires a loan either through an agent, by assignment from another holder, or as a participation interest in another holder's portion of a loan. The loan is often administered by a financial institution that acts as agent for the holders of the loan, and the fund may be required to receive approval from the agent and/or borrower prior to the sale of the investment. The loan's interest rate and maturity date may change based on the terms of the loan, including potential early payments of principal.

Short-term securities – The managed risk funds hold shares of State Street Institutional U.S. Government Money Market Fund, a cash management vehicle offered and managed by State Street Bank and Trust Company.

Unfunded commitments – Asset Allocation Fund, Capital World Bond Fund and American High-Income Trust have participated in transactions that involve unfunded commitments, which may obligate each fund to purchase new or additional bonds and/or purchase additional shares of the applicable issuer if certain contingencies are met. As of June 30, 2024, the maximum exposure from these unfunded commitments for Asset Allocation Fund, Capital World Bond Fund and American High-Income Trust was $447,000, $31,000 and $462,000, respectively, which would represent less than 0.01% for Asset Allocation Fund and Capital World Bond Fund and 0.05% for American High-Income Trust, respectively, of the net assets of each fund should such commitments become due. Unrealized appreciation on these unfunded commitments for Asset Allocation Fund, Capital World Bond Fund and American High-Income Trust of $1,000, less than $1,000 and $2,000, respectively, is disclosed as unrealized appreciation on unfunded commitments in each fund's statement of assets and liabilities. Unrealized appreciation is included in net unrealized appreciation (depreciation) on investments in unaffiliated issuers in each fund's statement of operations.

Option contracts – Some of the funds have entered into option contracts, which give the purchaser of the option, in return for a premium payment, the right to buy from (in the case of a call) or sell to (in the case of a put) the writer of the option the reference instrument underlying the option (or the cash value of the instrument or index underlying the option) at a specified exercise price. The writer of an option has the obligation, upon exercise of the option, to cash settle or deliver the underlying instrument or index upon payment of the exercise price (in the case of a call) or to cash settle or take delivery of the underlying instrument or index and pay the exercise price (in the case of a put).

By purchasing a put option, the fund obtains the right (but not the obligation) to sell the instrument underlying the option (or to deliver the cash value of the instrument or index underlying the option) at a specified exercise price. In return for this right, the fund pays the current market price, or the option premium, for the option. The fund may terminate its position in a put option by allowing the option to expire or by exercising the option. If the option is allowed to expire, the fund will lose the entire amount of the premium paid. If the option is exercised, the fund completes the sale of the underlying instrument (or delivers the cash value of the index underlying the option) at the exercise price. The fund may also terminate a put option position by entering into opposing close-out transactions in advance of the option expiration date.

The features of call options are essentially the same as those of put options, except that the purchaser of a call option obtains the right (but not the obligation) to purchase, rather than sell, the underlying instrument (or the cash value of the index underlying the option) at the specified exercise price. The buyer of a call option typically attempts to participate in potential price increases of the underlying instrument or index with risk limited to the cost of the option if the price of the underlying instrument or index falls. At the same time, the call option buyer can expect to suffer a loss if the price of the underlying instrument or index does not rise sufficiently to offset the cost of the option.

The writer of a put or call option takes the opposite side of the transaction from the option purchaser. In return for receipt of the option premium, the writer assumes the obligation to pay or receive the exercise price for the option's underlying instrument or index if the other party to the option chooses to exercise it. The writer may seek to terminate a position in a put option before exercise by entering into opposing close-out transactions in advance of the option expiration date. If the market for the relevant put option is not liquid, however, the writer must be prepared to pay the exercise price while the option is outstanding, regardless of price changes. Writing a call option obligates the writer to, upon exercise of the option, deliver the option's underlying instrument in return for the exercise price or to make a net cash settlement payment, as applicable. The characteristics of writing call options are similar to those of writing put options, except that writing call options is generally a profitable strategy if prices remain the same or fall. The potential gain for the option seller in such a transaction would be capped at the premium received.

Option contracts can be either equity style (premium is paid in full when the option is opened) or futures style (premium moves as part of variation margin over the life of the option, and is paid in full when the option is closed). For equity style options, premiums paid on options purchased, as well as the daily fluctuation in market value, are included in investment securities from unaffiliated issuers in each fund's statement of asset and liabilities, and premiums received on options written, as well as the daily fluctuation in market value, are included in options written at value in each fund's statement of assets and liabilities. The net realized gains or losses and net unrealized appreciation or depreciation from equity style options are recorded in investments for purchased options and in options written for written options in the fund's statement of operations and statement of changes in net assets.

For futures style options, on a daily basis for both purchased and written options, the fund pays or receives variation margin based on the premium paid and the daily fluctuation in market value, and records variation margin in the statement of assets and liabilities. Realized gains or losses are recorded at the time the option contract is closed or expires. The net realized gains or losses and net unrealized appreciation or depreciation from futures style options are recorded in options purchased (futures style) in the fund's statement of operations and statement of changes in net assets.

Option contracts can take different forms. Some of the funds have entered into the following types of options contracts:

Options on equity indexes – As part of their managed risk strategy, the managed risk funds will at times purchase put options on equity indexes in standardized contracts traded on foreign or domestic securities exchanges, boards of trade, or similar entities.

Options on futures – One of the funds has entered into options on future contracts to seek to manage the fund's interest rate sensitivity by increasing or decreasing the duration of the fund or a portion of the fund's portfolio. An option on a futures contract gives the purchaser of the option the right to buy or sell a position in a futures contract from or to the writer of the option, at a specified price on or before the specified expiration date.

Futures contracts – Some of the funds have entered into futures contracts, which provide for the future sale by one party and purchase by another party of a specified amount of a specific financial instrument for a specified price, date, time and place designated at the time the contract is made. Futures contracts are used to strategically manage the fund's interest rate sensitivity by increasing or decreasing the duration of the fund or a portion of the fund's portfolio. For the managed risk funds, futures contracts are used to strategically manage portfolio volatility and downside equity risk.

Upon entering into futures contracts, and to maintain the fund's open positions in futures contracts, the fund is required to deposit with a futures broker, known as a futures commission merchant ("FCM"), in a segregated account in the name of the FCM an amount of cash, U.S. government securities or other liquid securities, known as initial margin. The margin required for a particular futures contract is set by the exchange on which the contract is traded to serve as collateral, and may be significantly modified from time to time by the exchange during the term of the contract.

On a daily basis, each fund pays or receives variation margin based on the increase or decrease in the value of the futures contracts and records variation margin on futures contracts in each fund's statement of assets and liabilities. Futures contracts may involve a risk of loss in excess of the variation margin shown on each fund's statement of assets and liabilities. Each fund records realized gains or losses at the time the futures contract is closed or expires. Net realized gains or losses and net unrealized appreciation or depreciation from futures contracts are recorded in each fund's statement of operations.

Forward currency contracts – Some of the funds have entered into forward currency contracts, which represent agreements to exchange currencies on specific future dates at predetermined rates. The series' investment adviser uses forward currency contracts to manage the fund's exposure to changes in exchange rates. Upon entering into these contracts, risks may arise from the potential inability of counterparties to meet the terms of their contracts and from possible movements in exchange rates.

On a daily basis, the series' investment adviser values forward currency contracts based on the applicable exchange rates and records unrealized appreciation or depreciation for open forward currency contracts in each fund's statement of assets and liabilities. Realized gains or losses are recorded at the time the forward contract is closed or offset by another contract with the same broker for the same settlement date and currency. Closed forward currency contracts that have not reached their settlement date are included in the respective receivables or payables for closed forward currency contracts in each fund's statement of assets and liabilities. Net realized gains or losses from closed forward currency contracts and net unrealized appreciation or depreciation from open forward currency contracts are recorded in each fund's statement of operations.

Swap contracts – Some of the funds have entered into swap agreements, which are two-party contracts entered into primarily by institutional investors for a specified time period. In a typical swap transaction, two parties agree to exchange the returns earned or realized from one or more underlying assets or rates of return. Swap agreements can be traded on a swap execution facility (SEF) and cleared through a central clearinghouse (cleared), traded over-the-counter (OTC) and cleared, or traded bilaterally and not cleared. Because clearing interposes a central clearinghouse as the ultimate counterparty to each participant's swap, and margin is required to be exchanged under the rules of the clearinghouse, central clearing is intended to decrease (but not eliminate) counterparty risk relative to uncleared bilateral swaps. To the extent the funds enter into bilaterally negotiated swap transactions, the funds will enter into swap agreements only with counterparties that meet certain credit standards and subject to agreed collateralized procedures. The term of a swap can be days, months or years and certain swaps may be less liquid than others.

Upon entering into a centrally cleared swap contract, the funds are required to deposit cash, U.S. government securities or other liquid securities, which is known as initial margin. Generally, the initial margin required for a particular swap is set and held as collateral by the clearinghouse on which the contract is cleared. The amount of initial margin required may be significantly modified from time to time by the clearinghouse during the term of the contract.

On a daily basis, interest accruals related to the exchange of future payments are recorded as a receivable and payable in the funds' statement of assets and liabilities for centrally cleared swaps and as unrealized appreciation or depreciation in the funds' statement of assets and liabilities for bilateral swaps. For centrally cleared swaps, the fund also pays or receives a variation margin based on the increase or decrease in the value of the swaps, including accrued interest as applicable, and records variation margin in the statement of assets and liabilities. The funds record realized gains and losses on both the net accrued interest and any gain or loss recognized at the time the swap is closed or expires. Net realized gains or losses, as well as any net unrealized appreciation or depreciation, from swaps are recorded in the funds' statement of operations.

Swap agreements can take different forms. Some of the funds have entered into the following types of swap agreements:

Interest rate swaps – Some of the funds have entered into interest rate swaps, which seek to manage the interest rate sensitivity of the fund by increasing or decreasing the duration of the funds or a portion of the funds' portfolio. An interest rate swap is an agreement between two parties to exchange or swap payments based on changes in an interest rate or rates. Typically, one interest rate is fixed and the other is variable based on a designated short-term interest rate such as the Secured Overnight Financing Rate (SOFR), prime rate or other benchmark. In other types of interest rate swaps, known as basis swaps, the parties agree to swap variable interest rates based on different designated short-term interest rates. Interest rate swaps generally do not involve the delivery of securities or other principal amounts. Rather, cash payments are exchanged by the parties based on the application of the designated interest rates to a notional amount, which is the predetermined dollar principal of the trade upon which payment obligations are computed. Accordingly, the funds' current obligation or right under the swap agreement is generally equal to the net amount to be paid or received under the swap agreement based on the relative value of the position held by each party.

Credit default swap indices – Some of the funds have entered into centrally cleared credit default swap indices, including CDX and iTraxx indices (collectively referred to as "CDSIs"), in order to assume exposure to a diversified portfolio of credits or to hedge against existing credit risks. A CDSI is based on a portfolio of credit default swaps with similar characteristics, such as credit default swaps on high-yield bonds. In a typical CDSI transaction, one party (the protection buyer) is obligated to pay the other party (the protection seller) a stream of periodic payments over the term of the contract. If a credit event, such as a default or restructuring, occurs with respect to any of the underlying reference obligations, the protection seller must pay the protection buyer the loss on those credits.

The funds may enter into a CDSI transaction as either protection buyer or protection seller. If the funds are protection buyers, they would pay the counterparty a periodic stream of payments over the term of the contract and would not recover any of those payments if no credit events were to occur with respect to any of the underlying reference obligations. However, if a credit event did occur, the funds, as protection buyers, would have the right to deliver the referenced debt obligations or a specified amount of cash, depending on the terms of the applicable agreement, and to receive the par value of such debt obligations from the counterparty protection seller. As protection sellers, the funds would receive fixed payments throughout the term of the contract if no credit events were to occur with respect to any of the underlying reference obligations. If a credit event were to occur, however, the value of any deliverable obligation received by the funds, coupled with the periodic payments previously received by the funds, may be less than the full notional value that the funds, as a protection seller, pays to the counterparty protection buyer, effectively resulting in a loss of value to the funds. Furthermore, as protection sellers, the funds would effectively add leverage to their portfolio because it would have investment exposure to the notional amount of the swap transaction.

The following table presents the average month-end notional amounts of options contracts purchased, futures contracts, forward currency contracts, interest rate swaps and credit default swaps while held for each fund (dollars in thousands):

<sup>2</sup>Includes cumulative appreciation/depreciation on futures contracts, centrally cleared interest rate swaps and/or centrally cleared credit default swaps as reported in the applicable table following each fund's investment portfolio. Only current day's variation margin is reported within each fund's statement of assets and liabilities.

Collateral – Some funds either receive or pledge highly liquid assets, such as cash or U.S. government securities, as collateral due to securities lending and/or their use of option contracts, futures contracts, forward currency contracts, interest rate swaps, credit default swaps and/or future delivery contracts. For securities lending, each participating fund receives collateral in exchange for lending investment securities. The lending agent may reinvest collateral from securities lending transactions according to agreed parameters. For options on equity indexes, options on futures, futures contracts, centrally cleared interest rate swaps and centrally cleared credit default swaps, the program calls for each participating fund to pledge collateral for initial and variation margin by contract. For options on foreign currencies, forward currency contracts and bilateral swaps, the program calls for each participating fund to either receive or pledge collateral based on the net gain or loss on unsettled contracts by counterparty. For future delivery contracts, the program calls for each participating fund to either receive or pledge collateral based on the net gain or loss on unsettled contracts by certain counterparties. The purpose of the collateral is to cover potential losses that could occur in the event that either party cannot meet its contractual obligation. Non-cash collateral pledged by each participating fund, if any, is disclosed in each fund's investment portfolio, and cash collateral pledged by each participating fund, if any, is held in a segregated account with the fund's custodian, which is reflected as pledged cash collateral in each fund's statement of assets and liabilities.

Rights of offset – Funds that hold forward currency contracts, options on foreign currencies and bilateral swaps have enforceable master netting agreements with certain counterparties, where amounts payable by each party to the other in the same currency (with the same settlement date and with the same counterparty) are settled net of each party's payment obligation. If an early termination date occurs under these agreements following an event of default or termination event, all obligations of each party to its counterparty are settled net through a single payment in a single currency ("close-out netting"). For financial reporting purposes, the funds do not offset financial assets and financial liabilities that are subject to these master netting arrangements in the statements of assets and liabilities.

The tables on the following pages present each fund's forward currency contracts, options on foreign currencies and bilateral swaps by counterparty that are subject to master netting agreements but that are not offset in the funds' statements of assets and liabilities. The net amount column shows the impact of offsetting on the funds' statement of assets and liabilities as of June 30, 2024, if close-out netting was exercised (dollars in thousands):

6. Taxation and distributions

Federal income taxation – Each fund complies with the requirements under Subchapter M of the Internal Revenue Code applicable to regulated investment companies and intends to distribute substantially all of its net taxable income and net capital gains each year. The funds are not subject to income taxes to the extent such distributions are made. Therefore, no federal income tax provision is required.

As of and during the period ended June 30, 2024, none of the funds had a liability for any unrecognized tax benefits. Each fund recognizes interest and penalties, if any, related to unrecognized tax benefits as income tax expense in their respective statements of operations. During the period, none of the funds incurred any significant interest or penalties.

Each fund's tax returns are generally not subject to examination by federal, state and, if applicable, non-U.S. tax authorities after the expiration of each jurisdiction's statute of limitations, which is typically three years after the date of filing but can be extended in certain jurisdictions.

Non-U.S. taxation – Dividend and interest income, if any, are recorded net of non-U.S. taxes paid. The funds may file withholding tax reclaims in certain jurisdictions to recover a portion of amounts previously withheld. As a result of rulings from European courts, the funds filed for additional reclaims related to prior years. These reclaims are recorded when the amount is known and there are no significant uncertainties on collectability. During the six months ended June 30, 2024, some of the funds recognized reclaims (net of fees and the effect of realized gain or loss from currency translations) and interest related to European court rulings as follows (dollars in thousands):

Fund	Reclaims	Fees	Interest
Global Growth Fund	$2,478	$26	$935
Growth Fund	1,938	2	147
New World Fund	717	3	88
Washington Mutual Investors Fund	31	1	2
Growth-Income Fund	119	12	2
International Growth and Income Fund	10	2	1

The reclaims and interest are included in dividend income and interest income, respectively, in each fund's statements of operations. Gains realized by the funds on the sale of securities in certain countries, if any, may be subject to non-U.S. taxes. The funds generally record an estimated deferred tax liability based on unrealized gains to provide for potential non-U.S. taxes payable upon the sale of these securities.

Distributions – Distributions determined on a tax basis may differ from net investment income and net realized gains for financial reporting purposes. These differences are due primarily to different treatment for items such as currency gains and losses; short-term capital gains and losses; capital losses related to sales of certain securities within 30 days of purchase; unrealized appreciation of certain investments in securities outside the U.S.; deferred expenses; cost of investments sold; paydowns on fixed-income securities; net capital losses; non-U.S. taxes on capital gains; amortization of premiums and discounts and income on certain investments. The fiscal year in which amounts are distributed may differ from the year in which the net investment income and net realized gains are recorded by the funds for financial reporting purposes.

7. Fees and transactions

CRMC, the series' investment adviser, is the parent company of American Funds Distributors®, Inc. ("AFD"), the distributor of the series' shares, and American Funds Service Company® ("AFS"), the series' transfer agent. CRMC, AFD and AFS are considered related parties to the series.

Investment advisory services – The series has an investment advisory and service agreement with CRMC that provides for monthly fees accrued daily. These fees are based on annual rates that generally decrease as net asset levels increase. CRMC receives investment advisory fees from the underlying funds held by the managed risk funds, which are included in the unaudited net effective expense ratios that are provided as additional information in the financial highlights tables. Subadvisory fees for the managed risk funds are paid by CRMC to Milliman FRM. The managed risk funds are not responsible for paying any subadvisory fees.

Investment advisory services waivers – CRMC is waiving a portion of its investment advisory services fees for some of the funds. For the six months ended June 30, 2024, total investment advisory services fees waived by CRMC were $26,277,000. CRMC does not intend to recoup these waivers. Investment advisory fees in each fund's statement of operations are presented gross of any waivers from CRMC.

The range of rates, net asset levels and the current annualized rates of average daily net assets for each fund before and after any investment advisory services waivers, if applicable, are as follows:

Class-specific fees and expenses – Expenses that are specific to individual share classes are accrued directly to the respective share class. The principal class-specific fees and expenses are further described below:

Distribution services – The series has plans of distribution for all share classes except Class 1. Under the plans, the board of trustees approves certain categories of expenses that are used to finance activities primarily intended to sell fund shares. The plans provide for payments to pay service fees to firms that have entered into agreements with the series. These payments, based on an annualized percentage of average daily net assets, range from 0.18% to 0.50% as noted in the table below. In some cases, the board of trustees has limited the amounts that may be paid to less than the maximum allowed by the plans.

Share class	Currently approved limits	Plan limits
Class 1A	0.00%	0.25%
Class 2	0.25	0.25
Class 3	0.18	0.18
Class 4	0.25	0.25
Class P1	0.00	0.25
Class P2	0.25	0.50

Insurance administrative services – The series has an insurance administrative services plan for Class 1A, 4, P1 and P2 shares. Under the plan, these share classes pay 0.25% of each insurance company's respective average daily net assets in each share class to compensate the insurance companies for services provided to their separate accounts and contractholders for which the shares of the fund are beneficially owned as underlying investments of such contractholders' annuities. These services include, but are not limited to, maintenance, shareholder communications and transactional services. The insurance companies are not related parties to the series.

Transfer agent services – The series has a shareholder services agreement with AFS under which the funds compensate AFS for providing transfer agent services to all of the funds’ share classes. These services include recordkeeping, shareholder communications and transaction processing. Under this agreement, the managed risk funds also pays sub-transfer agency fees to AFS. These fees are paid by AFS to third parties for performing transfer agent services on behalf of fund shareholders.

Administrative services – The series has an administrative services agreement with CRMC under which each fund compensates CRMC for providing administrative services to all of the funds’ share classes except Class P1 and P2 shares. Administrative services are provided by CRMC and its affiliates to help assist third parties providing non-distribution services to fund shareholders. These services include providing in-depth information on each fund and market developments that impact fund investments. Administrative services also include, but are not limited to, coordinating, monitoring and overseeing third parties that provide services to fund shareholders. The agreement provides each fund, other than the managed risk funds, the ability to charge an administrative services fee at the annual rate of 0.05% of average daily net assets attributable to each share class. Currently each fund, other than the managed-risk funds, pays CRMC an administrative services fee at the annual rate of 0.03% of average daily net assets of each share class for CRMC’s provision of administrative services. For the managed risk funds, CRMC receives administrative services fees at an annual rate of 0.03% of average daily net assets from Class 1 shares of the underlying funds for administrative services provided to the series.

Accounting and administrative services – The managed risk funds have a subadministration agreement with Bank of New York Mellon (“BNY Mellon”) under which the fund compensates BNY Mellon for providing accounting and administrative services to each of the managed risk funds’ share classes. These services include, but are not limited to, fund accounting (including calculation of net asset value), financial reporting and tax services. BNY Mellon is not a related party to the managed risk funds.

Miscellaneous fee reimbursements – CRMC reimbursed a portion of miscellaneous fees and expenses for Managed Risk International Fund and Managed Risk Washington Mutual Investors Fund. This reimbursement may be adjusted or discontinued by CRMC, subject to any restrictions in the series' prospectus. For the six months ended June 30, 2024, total fees and expenses reimbursed by CRMC were $14,000. CRMC may recoup all or a portion of these reimbursements during the current fiscal year. Fees and expenses in each fund's statement of operations are presented gross of any reimbursements from CRMC.

Trustees' deferred compensation – Trustees who are unaffiliated with CRMC may elect to defer the cash payment of part or all of their compensation. These deferred amounts, which remain as liabilities of the funds, are treated as if invested in one or more of the American Funds. These amounts represent general, unsecured liabilities of the funds and vary according to the total returns of the selected funds. Affiliated officers and trustees – Officers and certain trustees of the series are or may be considered to be affiliated with CRMC, AFD and AFS. No affiliated officers or trustees received any compensation directly from any fund in the series.

Investments in CCBF and CCF – Some of the funds hold shares of CCBF, a corporate bond fund, and/or CCF, an institutional prime money market fund, which are both managed by CRMC. CCBF seeks to provide maximum total return consistent with capital preservation and prudent risk management by investing primarily in corporate debt instruments. CCBF is used as an investment vehicle for some of the funds' corporate bond investments. CCF invests in high-quality, short-term money market instruments. CCF is used as the primary investment vehicle for some of the funds' short-term investments. Both CCBF and CCF shares are only available for purchase by CRMC, its affiliates, and other funds managed by CRMC or its affiliates, and are not available to the public. CRMC does not receive an investment advisory services fee from either CCBF or CCF.

Security transactions with related funds – The funds may purchase from, or sell securities to, other CRMC-managed funds (or funds managed by certain affiliates of CRMC) under procedures adopted by the fund's board of trustees. The funds involved in such transactions are considered related by virtue of having a common investment adviser (or affiliated investment advisers), common trustees and/or common officers. When such transactions occur, each transaction is executed at the current market price of the security and no brokerage commissions or fees are paid in accordance with Rule 17a-7 of the 1940 Act.

8. Indemnifications

The series' organizational documents provide board members and officers with indemnification against certain liabilities or expenses in connection with the performance of their duties to the series. In the normal course of business, the series may also enter into contracts that provide general indemnifications. Each fund's maximum exposure under these arrangements is unknown since it is dependent on future claims that may be made against the series. The risk of material loss from such claims is considered remote. Insurance policies are also available to the series' board members and officers.

9. Committed line of credit

Global Small Capitalization Fund, New World Fund and American High-Income Trust participate with other funds managed by CRMC in a $1.5 billion credit facility (the "line of credit") to be utilized for temporary purposes to fund shareholder redemptions. Each fund has agreed to pay commitment fees on its pro-rata portion of the line of credit, which are reflected in other expenses in each fund's statement of operations. None of the funds borrowed on this line of credit at any time during the six months ended June 30, 2024.

Approval of Investment Advisory and Service Agreement – American Funds Insurance Series

The series' board has approved the continuation of the series' Investment Advisory and Service Agreement (the "agreement") with Capital Research and Management Company ("CRMC") for an additional one-year term through April 30, 2025. The board approved the agreement following the recommendation of the series' Contracts Committee (the "committee"), which is composed of all the series' independent board members. The board and the committee determined in the exercise of their business judgment that the advisory fee structure for each fund within the series was fair and reasonable in relation to the services provided, and that approving the agreement was in the best interests of each fund and its shareholders.

In reaching this decision, the board and the committee took into account their interactions with CRMC and information furnished to them throughout the year and otherwise provided to them, as well as information prepared specifically in connection with their review of the agreement, and they were advised by their independent counsel with respect to the matters considered. They considered the following factors, among others, but did not identify any single issue or particular piece of information that, in isolation, was the controlling factor, and each board and committee member did not necessarily attribute the same weight to each factor.

1. Nature, extent and quality of services

The board and the committee considered the depth and quality of CRMC's investment management process, including its global research capabilities; the experience, capability and integrity of its senior management and other personnel; the low turnover rates of its key personnel; the overall financial strength and stability of CRMC and the Capital Group organization; the resources and systems CRMC devotes to investment management (the manner in which each fund's assets are managed, including liquidity management), financial, investment operations, compliance, trading, proxy voting, shareholder communications, and other services; and the ongoing evolution of CRMC's organizational structure designed to maintain and strengthen these qualities. The board and the committee also considered the nature, extent and quality of administrative and shareholder services provided by CRMC to the funds under the agreement and other agreements, as well as the benefits to each fund's shareholders from investing in a fund that is part of a large family of funds. The board and the committee considered the risks assumed by CRMC in providing services to the funds, including operational, business, financial, reputational, regulatory and litigation risks. The board and the committee concluded that the nature, extent and quality of the services provided by CRMC have benefited and should continue to benefit each fund and its shareholders.

2. Investment results

The board and the committee considered the investment results of each fund in light of its objectives. They compared each fund's investment results with those of other funds (including funds that currently form the basis of the Lipper index for the category in which each fund is included) and data such as publicly disclosed benchmarks, including applicable market and fund indexes over various periods (including each fund's lifetime) through September 30, 2023. They generally placed greater emphasis on investment results over longer term periods and relative to benchmarks consistent with each fund's objective. On the basis of this evaluation and the board's and the committee's ongoing review of investment results, and considering the relative market conditions during certain reporting periods, the board and the committee concluded that each fund's investment results have been satisfactory for renewal of the agreement, and that CRMC's record in managing the funds indicated that its continued management should benefit each fund and its shareholders.

3. Advisory fees and total expenses

The board and the committee compared the advisory fees and total expense levels of each fund to those of other relevant funds. They observed that the advisory fees and total expenses of each fund generally compared favorably to those of other similar funds included in the comparable Lipper category. The board and the committee also considered the breakpoint discounts in each fund's advisory fee structure that reduce the level of fees charged by CRMC to the fund as fund assets increase. The board also considered and approved the amended fee schedule to the agreement that lowered the current fee schedule and resulted in an overall lower advisory fee. The board noted that there would be no diminution in services provided as a result of the lower advisory fee for certain funds.

In addition, the board and committee reviewed information regarding the effective advisory fees charged to non-mutual fund clients by CRMC and its affiliates. They noted that, to the extent there were differences between the advisory fees paid by each fund and the advisory fees paid by those clients, the differences appropriately reflected the investment, operational, regulatory and market differences between advising the funds and the other clients. The board and the committee concluded that each fund's cost structure was fair and reasonable in relation to the services provided, as well as in relation to the risks assumed by the adviser in sponsoring and managing each fund, and that each fund's shareholders receive reasonable value in return for the advisory fees and other amounts paid to CRMC by the funds.

4. Ancillary benefits

The board and the committee considered a variety of other benefits that CRMC and its affiliates receive as a result of CRMC's relationship with the series and other American Funds, including fees for administrative services provided to certain share classes; fees paid to CRMC's affiliated transfer agent; sales charges and distribution fees received and retained by the series' principal underwriter, an affiliate of CRMC; and possible ancillary benefits to CRMC and its institutional management affiliates in managing other investment vehicles. The board and the committee reviewed CRMC's portfolio trading practices, noting that CRMC bears the cost of third-party research. The board and committee also noted that CRMC benefited from the use of commissions from portfolio transactions made on behalf of each fund to facilitate payment to certain broker-dealers for research to comply with regulatory requirements applicable to these firms, with all such amounts reimbursed by CRMC. The board and the committee took these ancillary benefits into account in evaluating the reasonableness of the other amounts paid to CRMC by the funds.

5. Adviser financial information

The board and the committee reviewed information regarding CRMC's costs of providing services to the American Funds, including personnel, systems and resources of investment, compliance, trading, accounting and other administrative operations. They considered CRMC's costs and related cost allocation methodology, as well as its track record of investing in technology, infrastructure and staff to maintain and expand services and capabilities, respond to industry and regulatory developments, and attract and retain qualified personnel. They noted information regarding the compensation structure for CRMC's investment professionals. They reviewed information on the profitability of the investment adviser and its affiliates. The board and the committee also compared CRMC's profitability and compensation data to the reported results and data of a number of large, publicly held investment management companies. The board and the committee noted the competitiveness and cyclicity of both the mutual fund industry and the capital markets, and the importance in that environment of CRMC's long-term profitability for maintaining its independence, company culture and management continuity. They further considered the breakpoint discounts in the funds' advisory fee structure and CRMC's sharing of potential economies of scale, or efficiencies, through breakpoints and other fee reductions and costs voluntarily absorbed. The board and the committee concluded that each fund's advisory fee structure reflected a reasonable sharing of benefits between CRMC and the funds' shareholders.

Approval of Investment Advisory and Service Agreement and Subadvisory Agreement – American Funds Insurance Series Managed Risk Funds

The series' board has approved the continuation of the series' Investment Advisory and Service Agreement (the "advisory agreement") with Capital Research and Management Company ("CRMC") with respect to the Managed Risk Funds for an additional one-year term through April 30, 2024. The board has also approved the series' Subadvisory Agreement (the "subadvisory agreement") with CRMC and Milliman Financial Risk Management LLC ("Milliman FRM") with respect to these funds for the same term. The advisory and subadvisory agreements are jointly referred to below as the "agreements." The board approved the agreement following the recommendation of the series' Contracts Committee (the "committee"), which is composed of all the series' independent board members. The board and the committee determined in the exercise of their business judgment that the advisory fee structure for each fund within the series was fair and reasonable in relation to the services provided, and that approving the agreement was in the best interests of each fund and its shareholders.

In reaching this decision, the board and the committee took into account their interactions with CRMC and Milliman FRM and information furnished to them throughout the year and otherwise provided to them, as well as information prepared specifically in connection with their review of the agreements, and they were advised by their independent counsel with respect to the matters considered. They considered the following factors, among others, but did not identify any single issue or particular piece of information that, in isolation, was the controlling factor, and each board and committee member did not necessarily attribute the same weight to each factor.

1. Nature, extent and quality of services

The board and the committee considered the depth and quality of CRMC's investment management process, including its global research capabilities; the experience, capability and integrity of its senior management and other personnel; the low turnover rates of its key personnel; the overall financial strength and stability of CRMC and the Capital Group organization; the resources and systems CRMC devotes to investment management (the manner in which each fund's assets are managed, including liquidity management), financial, investment operations, compliance, trading, proxy voting, shareholder communications, and other services; and the ongoing evolution of CRMC's organizational structure designed to maintain and strengthen these qualities. The board and the committee also considered the nature, extent and quality of the oversight of Milliman FRM's services provided by CRMC, administrative and shareholder services provided by CRMC to the funds under the advisory agreement and other agreements, as well as the benefits to each fund's shareholders from investing in a fund that is part of a large family of funds. The board and the committee considered the risks assumed by CRMC in providing services to the funds, including operational, business, financial, reputational, regulatory and litigation risks. The board and the committee concluded that the nature, extent and quality of the services provided by CRMC have benefited and should continue to benefit each fund and its shareholders.

The board and the committee also considered the depth and quality of Milliman FRM's investment management process, including its experience in applying the Milliman Managed Risk Strategy to other funds in the series and risk management services for other clients; the experience, capability and integrity of its senior management and other personnel; and the services provided to each fund under the subadvisory agreement. The board and the committee concluded that the nature, extent and quality of the services provided by Milliman FRM have benefited and should continue to benefit each fund and its shareholders.

2. Investment results

The board and the committee considered the investment results of each fund in light of its objectives. They compared each fund's investment results with those of other funds (including funds that currently form the basis of the Lipper index for the category in which each fund is included), and data such as publicly disclosed benchmarks, including applicable market and fund indexes over various periods (including each fund's lifetime) through September 30, 2023. They generally placed greater emphasis on investment results over longer term periods and relative to benchmarks consistent with each fund's objective. The board and the committee also considered the volatility of the funds compared with the S&P 500 Managed Risk indexes and those of a group of funds with volatility management strategies identified by management over various periods (including each fund's lifetime) through September 30, 2023. On the basis of this evaluation and the board's and the committee's ongoing review of investment results, and considering the relative market conditions during certain reporting periods, the board and the committee concluded that each fund's investment results and the results of the services provided by CRMC and Milliman FRM have been satisfactory for renewal of the agreements, and that CRMC's and Milliman FRM's record in managing the funds indicated that their continued management should benefit each fund and its shareholders.

3. Advisory fees and total expenses

The board and the committee compared the advisory fees and total expense levels of each fund to those of other relevant funds. The board and the committee noted CRMC's waiver of a portion of the advisory fee payable by each fund under the advisory agreement, CRMC's commitment not to remove the waiver without board approval and CRMC's agreement to pay the fees due to Milliman FRM under the subadvisory agreement. They observed that each fund's advisory fees and total expenses generally compared favorably to those of other similar funds included in the comparable Lipper category.

The board and the committee also considered the breakpoint discounts in each underlying fund's advisory fee structure that reduce the level of fees charged by CRMC to the underlying fund as its assets increase. In addition, they reviewed information regarding the effective advisory fees charged to non-mutual fund clients by CRMC and its affiliates. They noted that, to the extent there were differences between the advisory fees paid by each fund and the advisory fees paid by those clients, the differences appropriately reflected the investment, operational, regulatory and market differences between advising the funds and the other clients. They also reviewed the fees paid to Milliman FRM by other funds which it advised or subadvised. The board and the committee concluded that each fund's cost structure was fair and reasonable in relation to the services that CRMC provided, directly and through Milliman FRM, as well as in relation to the risks assumed by the adviser in sponsoring and managing each fund, and that each fund's shareholders receive reasonable value in return for the advisory fees and other amounts paid to CRMC (and indirectly to Milliman FRM) by the funds.

4. Ancillary benefits

The board and the committee considered a variety of other benefits that CRMC and its affiliates receive as a result of CRMC's relationship with the series and the other American Funds, including fees for administrative services provided to certain share classes; fees paid to CRMC's affiliated transfer agent; sales charges and distribution fees received and retained by the series' principal underwriter, an affiliate of CRMC; and possible ancillary benefits to CRMC and its institutional management affiliates in managing other investment vehicles. The board and the committee reviewed CRMC's portfolio trading practices, noting that CRMC bears the cost of third-party research. The board and committee also noted that CRMC benefited from the use of commissions from portfolio transactions made on behalf of each fund to facilitate payment to certain broker-dealers for research to comply with regulatory requirements applicable to these firms, with all such amounts reimbursed by CRMC. The board and the committee also reviewed similar ancillary benefits received by Milliman FRM as a result of its relationship with the series. The board and the committee took these ancillary benefits into account in evaluating the reasonableness of the advisory fees and other amounts paid to CRMC (and indirectly to Milliman FRM) by each fund.
