- (d) Investment is owned by an entity that is treated as a corporation for U.S. tax purposes, which is owned by the Fund.
- (e) Security is restricted to resale to institutional investors or subject to trading restrictions due to sanctions on foreign issuers. See Restricted Securities table following the Schedules of Investments.

- (h) Security has a variable rate. Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of December 31, 2023. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.
- (i) Security is a step-up bond where the coupon may increase or step up at a future date or as the result of an upgrade or downgrade to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of December 31, 2023.
- (j) Pay-in-kind security. Stated coupon is the pay-in-kind rate. The interest earned by the security may be paid in cash or additional par.
- (k) As of December 31, 2023, issuer was in bankruptcy and/or was in default relating - to principal and/or interest. Partial or no payments were paid on the last interest or dividend date.

- (l) Convertible security.
- (m) Security issued with a zero coupon. Income is recognized through the accretion of discount.
- (n) Treasury inflation indexed note, par amount is adjusted for inflation.
- (o) Investment in affiliate.
- (p) Yield changes daily to reflect current market conditions. Rate was the quoted yield as of December 31, 2023.

- (a) Security has a variable rate. Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of December 31, 2023. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.
- (b) Treasury inflation indexed note, par amount is adjusted for inflation.
- (c) The security is a direct debt of the agency and not collateralized by mortgages.
- (d) Security issued with a zero coupon. Income is recognized through the accretion of discount.
- (e) Security is a step-up bond where the coupon may increase or step up at a future date or as the result of an upgrade or downgrade to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of December 31, 2023.
- (f) Convertible security.
- (g) Security is exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. As of December 31, 2023, the value and the percentage of net assets of these securities was $23,983 and 1.5% of the Fund.
- (h) Investment in affiliate.
- (i) Yield changes daily to reflect current market conditions. Rate was the quoted yield as of December 31, 2023.

- (d) Security is restricted to resale to institutional investors or subject to trading restrictions due to sanctions on foreign issuers. See Restricted Securities table following the Schedules of Investments.
- (e) The interest rate for this security is inversely affected by upgrades or downgrades to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of December 31, 2023.
- (f) Security has a variable rate. Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of December 31, 2023. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.
- (g) Perpetual security. Next contractual call price and date are presented in parentheses, if applicable.
- (h) Security is a step-up bond where the coupon may increase or step up at a future date or as the result of an upgrade or downgrade to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of December 31, 2023.
- (i) Security fair valued in good faith as a Level 3 security in accordance with the procedures approved by the Board of Trustees. Good faith fair valued securities are classified based on the applicable valuation inputs. See "Fair Value Measurement" in the Notes to Financial Statements.
- (j) This senior floating rate interest will settle after December 31, 2023. If a reference rate and spread is presented, it will go into effect upon settlement.
- (k) Treasury inflation indexed note, par amount is adjusted for inflation.
- (l) Investment in affiliate.
- (m) Yield changes daily to reflect current market conditions. Rate was the quoted yield as of December 31, 2023.

- (a) Security has a variable rate. Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of December 31, 2023. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.
- (b) Security is exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. As of December 31, 2023, the value and the percentage of net assets of these securities was $9,208 and 7.6% of the Fund.

- (a) All or a portion of the security was purchased on a delayed delivery basis. As of December 31, 2023, the total payable for investments purchased on a delayed delivery basis was $108,582.
- (b) Security has a variable rate. Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of December 31, 2023. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.
- (c) Security is exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. As of December 31, 2023, the value and the percentage of net assets of these securities was $107,937 and 15.4% of the Fund.
- (d) Non-income producing security.
- (e) As of December 31, 2023, issuer was in bankruptcy and/or was in default relating to principal and/or interest. Partial or no payments were paid on the last interest or dividend date.
- (f) Security is a step-up bond where the coupon may increase or step up at a future date or as the result of an upgrade or downgrade to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of December 31, 2023.
- (g) Security is restricted to resale to institutional investors or subject to trading restrictions due to sanctions on foreign issuers. See Restricted Securities table following the Schedules of Investments.
- (h) Convertible security.
- (i) Perpetual security. Next contractual call price and date are presented in parentheses, if applicable.
- (j) All or a portion of the security was on loan as of December 31, 2023.
- (k) Pay-in-kind security. Stated coupon is the pay-in-kind rate. The interest earned by the security may be paid in cash or additional par.
- (l) The interest rate for this security is inversely affected by upgrades or downgrades to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of December 31, 2023.
- (m) Investment in affiliate.
- (n) Yield changes daily to reflect current market conditions. Rate was the quoted yield as of December 31, 2023.

The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.

- (a) Treasury inflation indexed note, par amount is adjusted for inflation.
- (b) All or a portion of the security was purchased on a delayed delivery basis. As of December 31, 2023, the total payable for investments purchased on a delayed delivery basis was $963,817.
- (c) All or a portion of the security is pledged or segregated as collateral.
- (d) Security has a variable rate. Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of December 31, 2023. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.
- (e) Security is restricted to resale to institutional investors or subject to trading restrictions due to sanctions on foreign issuers. See Restricted Securities table following the Schedules of Investments.
- (f) Treasury inflation indexed note, par amount is not adjusted for inflation.
- (g) Security is a step-up bond where the coupon may increase or step up at a future date or as the result of an upgrade or downgrade to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of December 31, 2023.
- (h) Security is exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. As of December 31, 2023, the value and the percentage of net assets of these securities was $38,841 and 2.8% of the Fund.
- (i) Perpetual security. Next contractual call price and date are presented in parentheses, if applicable.
- (j) Convertible security.
- (k) All or a portion of the security was on loan as of December 31, 2023.
- (l) Investment in affiliate.

(a) Security has a variable rate. Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of December 31, 2023. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation.

- (a) Security is exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. As of December 31, 2023, the value and the percentage of net assets of these securities was $949,354 and 67.3% of the Fund.
- (b) Security is restricted to resale to institutional investors or subject to trading restrictions due to sanctions on foreign issuers. See Restricted Securities table following the Schedules of Investments.
- (c) Perpetual security. Next contractual call price and date are presented in parentheses, if applicable.
- (d) Pay-in-kind security. Stated coupon is the pay-in-kind rate. The interest earned by the security may be paid in cash or additional par.
- (e) Convertible security.
- (f) All or a portion of the security was on loan as of December 31, 2023.
- (g) Non-income producing security.
- (h) As of December 31, 2023, issuer was in bankruptcy and/or was in default relating to principal and/or interest. Partial or no payments were paid on the last interest or dividend date.
- (i) Security is a step-up bond where the coupon may increase or step up at a future date or as the result of an upgrade or downgrade to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of December 31, 2023.
- (j) The interest rate for this security is inversely affected by upgrades or downgrades to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of December 31, 2023.
- (k) Security has a variable rate. Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of December 31, 2023. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable

- rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.
- (l) This senior floating rate interest will settle after December 31, 2023. If a reference rate and spread is presented, it will go into effect upon settlement.
- (m) Security fair valued in good faith as a Level 3 security in accordance with the procedures approved by the Board of Trustees. Good faith fair valued securities are classified based on the applicable valuation inputs. See "Fair Value Measurement" in the Notes to Financial Statements.
- (n) Contingent distributions represent the right to receive additional distributions, if any, during the reorganization of the underlying company.
- (o) Investment in affiliate.
- (p) Yield changes daily to reflect current market conditions. Rate was the quoted yield as of December 31, 2023.

- (d) Security has a variable rate. Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of December 31, 2023. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.
- (e) All or a portion of the security was on loan as of December 31, 2023.
- (f) Security fair valued in good faith as a Level 3 security in accordance with the procedures approved by the Board of Trustees. Good faith fair valued securities are classified based on the applicable valuation inputs. See "Fair Value Measurement" in the Notes to Financial Statements.
- (g) Security is restricted to resale to institutional investors or subject to trading restrictions due to sanctions on foreign issuers. See Restricted Securities table following the Schedules of Investments.
- (h) The interest rate for this security is inversely affected by upgrades or downgrades to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of December 31, 2023.
- (i) Security is a step-up bond where the coupon may increase or step up at a future date or as the result of an upgrade or downgrade to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of December 31, 2023.
- (j) The security is a direct debt of the agency and not collateralized by mortgages.
- (k) Investment in affiliate.
- (l) Yield changes daily to reflect current market conditions. Rate was the quoted yield as of December 31, 2023.

(c) All or a portion of the security was on loan as of December 31, 2023.
(d) Security fair valued in good faith as a Level 3 security in accordance with the procedures approved by the Board of Trustees. Good faith fair valued securities are classified based on the applicable valuation inputs. See "Fair Value Measurement" in the Notes to Financial Statements.
(e) All or a portion of the security was purchased on a delayed delivery basis. As of December 31, 2023, the total payable for investments purchased on a delayed delivery basis was $2,883.
(f) All or a portion of the security is pledged or segregated as collateral.
(g) Security has a variable rate. Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of December 31, 2023. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.
(h) Treasury inflation indexed note, par amount is adjusted for inflation.
(i) Security is exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. As of December 31, 2023, the value and the percentage of net assets of these securities was $28,277 and 5.5% of the Fund.
(j) Convertible security.
(k) Pay-in-kind security. Stated coupon is the pay-in-kind rate. The interest earned by the security may be paid in cash or additional par.
(l) The interest rate for this security is inversely affected by upgrades or downgrades to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of December 31, 2023.
(m) Security is a step-up bond where the coupon may increase or step up at a future date or as the result of an upgrade or downgrade to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of December 31, 2023.
(n) Perpetual security. Next contractual call price and date are presented in parentheses, if applicable.
(o) This senior floating rate interest will settle after December 31, 2023. If a reference rate and spread is presented, it will go into effect upon settlement.
(p) Investment in affiliate.
(q) Yield changes daily to reflect current market conditions. Rate was the quoted yield as of December 31, 2023.

- (a) All or a portion of the security is subject to a written call option.
(b) Non-income producing security.
(c) All or a portion of the security is pledged or segregated as collateral.
(d) Security has a variable rate. Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of December 31, 2023. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.

- (e) This senior floating rate interest will settle after December 31, 2023. If a reference rate and spread is presented, it will go into effect upon settlement.
(f) Pay-in-kind security. Stated coupon is the pay-in-kind rate. The interest earned by the security may be paid in cash or additional par.
(g) Security is exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. As of December 31, 2023, the value and the percentage of net assets of these securities was $1,066,291 and 8.0% of the Fund.
(h) All or a portion of the security was on loan as of December 31, 2023.
(i) Perpetual security. Next contractual call price and date are presented in parentheses, if applicable.
(j) Investment in affiliate.
(k) Security fair valued in good faith as a Level 3 security in accordance with the procedures approved by the Board of Trustees. Good faith fair valued securities are classified based on the applicable valuation inputs. See "Fair Value Measurement" in the Notes to Financial Statements.
(l) Yield changes daily to reflect current market conditions. Rate was the quoted yield as of December 31, 2023.

Schedules of Investments (in thousands)
December 31, 2023

- (a) Convertible security.
- (b) Security is exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. As of December 31, 2023, the value and the percentage of net assets of these securities was $183,093 and 15.3% of the Fund.
- (c) Security is restricted to resale to institutional investors or subject to trading restrictions due to sanctions on foreign issuers. See Restricted Securities table following the Schedules of Investments.
- (d) Security has a variable rate. Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of December 31, 2023. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.
- (e) The interest rate for this security is inversely affected by upgrades or downgrades to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of December 31, 2023.
- (f) All or a portion of the security was on loan as of December 31, 2023.
- (g) Security is a step-up bond where the coupon may increase or step up at a future date or as the result of an upgrade or downgrade to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of December 31, 2023.
- (h) All or a portion of the security is pledged or segregated as collateral.
- (i) Investment in affiliate.
- (j) Yield changes daily to reflect current market conditions. Rate was the quoted yield as of December 31, 2023.

- (a) Security is exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. As of December 31, 2023, the value and the percentage of net assets of these securities was $331,913 and 82.9% of the Fund.
- (b) All or a portion of the security was on loan as of December 31, 2023.
- (c) Pay-in-kind security. Stated coupon is the pay-in-kind rate. The interest earned by the security may be paid in cash or additional par.
- (d) Perpetual security. Next contractual call price and date are presented in parentheses, if applicable.
- (e) Security has a variable rate. Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of December 31, 2023. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.

- (f) This senior floating rate interest will settle after December 31, 2023. If a reference rate and spread is presented, it will go into effect upon settlement.
- (g) Non-income producing security.
- (h) Security fair valued in good faith as a Level 3 security in accordance with the procedures approved by the Board of Trustees. Good faith fair valued securities are classified based on the applicable valuation inputs. See "Fair Value Measurement" in the Notes to Financial Statements.
- (i) Investment in affiliate.
- (j) Yield changes daily to reflect current market conditions. Rate was the quoted yield as of December 31, 2023.

Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of December 31, 2023. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents. (e) Security is a step-up bond where the coupon may increase or step up at a future date or as the result of an upgrade or downgrade to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of December 31, 2023. (f) The interest rate for this security is inversely affected by upgrades or downgrades to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of December 31, 2023. (g) Security is restricted to resale to institutional investors or subject to trading restrictions due to sanctions on foreign issuers. - (a) Non-income producing security.
(b) All or a portion of the security was on loan as of December 31, 2023.
(c) All or a portion of the security was purchased on a delayed delivery basis. As of December 31, 2023, the total payable for investments purchased on a delayed delivery basis was $34,410.
(d) All or a portion of the security is pledged or segregated as collateral.
(e) Security has a variable rate. Interest rates reset periodically. Rate stated was in effect as of December 31, 2023. For securities based on a published reference rate and spread, the reference rate and spread are presented. Certain variable rate securities do not indicate a reference rate and spread because they are determined by the issuer, remarketing agent, or offering documents and are based on current market conditions. The coupon rate for securities with certain features outlined in the offering documents may vary from the stated reference rate and spread. This includes, but is not limited to, securities with deferred rates, contingent distributions, caps, floors, and fixed-rate to float-rate features. In addition, variable rates for government and agency collateralized mortgage obligations ("CMO") and mortgage-backed securities ("MBS") are determined by tranches of underlying mortgage-backed security pools' cash flows into securities and pass-through rates which reflect the rate earned on the asset pool after management and guarantee fees are paid to the securitizing corporation. CMO and MBS variable rates are determined by a formula set forth in the security's offering documents.
(f) Security is exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. As of December 31, 2023, the value and the percentage of net assets of these securities was $298,226 and 3.3% of the Fund.
(g) Convertible security.
(h) The interest rate for this security is inversely affected by upgrades or downgrades to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of December 31, 2023.
(i) Perpetual security. Next contractual call price and date are presented in parentheses, if applicable.
(j) Security is a step-up bond where the coupon may increase or step up at a future date or as the result of an upgrade or downgrade to the credit rating of the issuer. Rate stated was the coupon as of December 31, 2023.
(k) Investment in affiliate.
(l) Yield changes daily to reflect current market conditions. Rate was the quoted yield as of December 31, 2023.

Financial Highlights
For a Share Outstanding

Net Investment Income (Loss). The net investment income (loss) per share is calculated using the average shares method.

Total Return. Total return assumes reinvestment of all distributions for the period. Total return is not annualized for periods less than one year and does not reflect payment of the expenses that apply to the variable accounts or any annuity charges and if it did performance would be lower.

Portfolio Turnover. Portfolio turnover is not annualized for periods of less than one year. Securities sold short are considered long term investments for purposes of calculating portfolio turnover. Dollar roll and in-kind transactions are excluded for purposes of calculating portfolio turnover. Fixed income securities with maturities greater than one year that are purchased for short term investment are excluded from the portfolio turnover calculation. Portfolio turnover for the Funds of Funds is based on the Funds of Funds' purchases and sales of the Underlying Funds. Portfolio turnover for the Feeder Funds reflects each Master Fund's portfolio purchases and sales. Portfolio turnover is calculated on the basis of the Fund as a whole, without distinguishing between the classes of shares issued.

Income and Expense Ratios. Ratios are annualized for periods less than one year. Ratios of net investment income and expenses to average net assets do not include the impact of underlying funds' expenses. The expenses or expense waivers for certain Funds' Class I shares were $0.00 for one or more days during certain periods and this was a result of the net assets for the respective Class being below a level to generate an expense allocation greater than $0.005 for that day. Additionally, the expenses or expense waivers for certain Funds' Class I shares were $0.01 for one or more days during certain periods and this was a result of the net assets for the respective Class being at a level to generate an expense allocation between $0.005 and $0.01 for that day and rounded to $0.01. As a result, the ratios of net and total expenses to average net assets during the period for Class I shares can be less than or more than the anticipated ratios of net and total expenses to average net assets depending on the net assets that Class I shares acquired during the period.

NOTE 1. ORGANIZATION

JNL Series Trust (“Trust”) is an open-end management investment company organized under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, by a Declaration of Trust, dated June 1, 1994 as amended and restated September 25, 2017. The Trust is registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (“1940 Act”), and its shares are registered under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended (“1933 Act”). The Funds are diversified Funds for purposes of the 1940 Act, with the exception of the following non-diversified Funds: JNL/American Funds Capital World Bond Fund, JNL Multi-Manager U.S. Select Equity Fund, JNL/Baillie Gifford U.S. Equity Growth Fund, JNL/BlackRock Global Natural Resources Fund, JNL/GQG Emerging Markets Equity Fund, JNL/Heitman U.S. Focused Real Estate Fund, JNL/Loomis Sayles Global Growth Fund, JNL/Mellon Communication Services Sector Fund, JNL/Mellon Consumer Discretionary Sector Fund, JNL/Mellon Consumer Staples Sector Fund, JNL/Mellon Dow Index Fund, JNL/Mellon Energy Sector Fund, JNL/Mellon Financial Sector Fund, JNL/Mellon Healthcare Sector Fund, JNL/Mellon Information Technology Sector Fund, JNL/Mellon Materials Sector Fund, JNL/Mellon Nasdaq 100 Index Fund, JNL/Mellon Real Estate Sector Fund, JNL/Mellon Utilities Sector Fund, JNL/Morningstar PitchBook Listed Private Equity Index Fund, JNL/Morningstar U.S. Sustainability Index Fund, JNL/Neuberger Berman Gold Plus Strategy Fund, JNL/T. Rowe Price Established Growth Fund, JNL/WCM China Quality Growth Fund and JNL/Western Asset Global Multi-Sector Bond Fund.

Each Fund offers Class A shares and Class I shares with the exception of JNL Bond Index Fund, JNL Emerging Markets Index Fund, JNL International Index Fund, JNL Mid Cap Index Fund, JNL Small Cap Index Fund and JNL S&P 500 Index Fund, which only offer Class I shares. Class A shares and Class I shares differ primarily due to 12b-1 fees attributable to Class A shares. Shareholders bear the common expenses of each Fund and earn income and realized gains/losses from each Fund pro rata based on the average daily net assets of each class. From time to time, a Fund may have significant subscription and redemption activity which, when executed at the net asset value ("NAV") rounded to two decimals, can impact the NAV per share of either class and cause a divergence in the NAV between each class. Each share class also has different voting rights on matters affecting a single class. No class has preferential dividend rights.

Fund Changes. Effective January 1, 2023, the federal income tax status of JNL/JPMorgan Hedged Equity Fund and JNL/Mellon International Index Fund changed from a Regulated Investment Company ("RIC") to a partnership. As a result of the tax status change, each Fund's income, gains, losses and credits are allocated directly to its partners and retain the same character for federal income tax purposes. In addition, each Fund is not able to realize any future benefit from any unused capital loss carryforward and other losses deferred as a RIC, if any. The investment objectives, policies, restrictions, net asset value per share, service providers, fiscal years, and investment portfolios of the Funds did not change in connection with this tax status change. Such a conversion does not impact the contract holders of the separate accounts which own the Funds. The conversion from a RIC to a partnership provides a number of potential benefits to each affected Fund, including accelerated receipt of foreign tax reclaims under certain conditions, a potential increase in securities lending income, elimination of the risk that the affected Fund will fail to qualify for treatment as a RIC under various tests imposed by the Internal Revenue Code and a reduction in the risk of operational and administrative errors as the complexity of the Fund's tax accounting and financial reporting is reduced. Jackson receives benefits under the federal income tax laws with respect to tax deductions and credits as it relates to the tax structure of the Funds insofar as Jackson is entitled to receive the deduction and credit for any dividends received or foreign tax payments generated by each of the Fund's investment portfolios because the Funds advised by JNAM are owned directly by Jackson's separate accounts. As the Funds' investment adviser, JNAM acts as a fiduciary for the benefit to each affected Fund and in no way seeks to maximize the dividends received deduction or foreign tax credits if there is a potential that it may detrimentally impact a shareholder or contract owner. Any additional benefits related to enhanced dividends received deduction or foreign tax credits to Jackson are not directly shared with the adviser, sub-advisers, Funds, shareholders, or contract owners; however, JNAM is responsible for monitoring that any benefit that Jackson receives from the tax structure of the Funds does not result in a detriment or have a harmful impact to the Funds, shareholders, or contract owners. Effective November 30, 2023, Western Asset Management Company, LLC was removed as a Sub-Adviser and Western Asset Management Company Pte. Ltd. was removed as a Sub-Sub-Adviser to JNL Multi-Manager Alternative Fund. Effective January 1, 2024, T. Rowe Price Australia Limited was added as a Sub-Sub-Adviser to JNL/T. Rowe Price Balanced Fund.

NOTE 2. SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The Funds are investment companies and follow accounting and reporting guidance under Financial Accounting Standards Board ("FASB") Accounting Standards Codification ("ASC") Topic 946, "Financial Services-Investment Companies". The following is a summary of significant accounting policies consistently followed by the Funds in the preparation of their financial statements in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP").

Security Valuation. Under the Trust's valuation policy and procedures ("Valuation Policies and Procedures"), the Trust's Board of Trustees ("Board" or "Trustees") has designated to the Adviser the responsibility for carrying out certain functions relating to the valuation of portfolio securities for the purpose of determining the NAV of each Fund. The Adviser has established a Valuation Committee (the "Valuation Committee") that is charged with the responsibilities set forth in the Valuation Policies and Procedures. The Valuation Committee is responsible for determining fair valuations for any security for which market quotations are not readily available. For those securities fair valued under procedures approved by the Board, the Valuation Committee reviews and affirms the reasonableness of the fair valuation determinations after considering all relevant information that is reasonably available. The Valuation Committee's fair valuation determinations are subject to review by the Board.

Notes to Financial Statements
December 31, 2023

The NAV of a Fund's shares is generally determined once each day on which the New York Stock Exchange ("NYSE") is open, at the close of the regular trading session of the NYSE (normally, 4:00 PM Eastern Time, Monday through Friday). The NAV of a Fund's shares may also not be determined on days designated by the Board or on days designated by the SEC. However, consistent with legal requirements, calculation of the Fund's NAV may be suspended on days determined by the Board during times of NYSE market closure, which may include times during which the SEC issues policies or protocols associated with such closure pursuant to Section 22(e) of the 1940 Act. In the event that the NYSE is closed unexpectedly or opens for trading but closes earlier than scheduled, the Fund's Valuation Committee will evaluate if trading activity on other U.S. exchanges and markets for equity securities is considered reflective of normal market activity. To the extent an NYSE closure is determined to be accompanied by a disruption of normal market activity, the Valuation Committee may utilize the time the NYSE closed for purposes of measuring and calculating the Funds' NAVs. To the extent an NYSE closure is determined to not have resulted in a disruption of normal market activity, the valuation committee may utilize the time the NYSE was scheduled to close for purposes of measuring and calculating the Funds' NAVs. The Funds of Funds' investments in the underlying funds are valued at the daily NAV of the applicable underlying fund determined as of the close of the NYSE on each valuation date. Valuation of investments by the underlying funds is discussed in the underlying funds' shareholder report, which are filed with the SEC and are available on the SEC's website at www.sec.gov. Each Feeder Fund's investment in its corresponding Master Fund is valued at the daily NAV per share of the applicable Master Fund determined as of the close of the NYSE on each valuation date. Valuation of the investments by the Master Fund is discussed in each Master Fund's shareholder report, which is available on the SEC's website at www.sec.gov. Equity securities are generally valued at the official closing price of the exchange where the security is principally traded. If there is no official closing price for the security on the valuation date, the security may be valued at the most recent sale or quoted bid price prior to close. Stocks not listed on a national or foreign stock exchange may be valued at the closing bid price on the over the counter ("OTC") market. Investments in mutual funds are valued at the NAV per share determined as of the close of the NYSE on each valuation date. The Adviser has retained an independent statistical fair value pricing service to assist in the fair valuation process for equities traded in foreign markets in order to adjust for possible changes in value that may occur between the close of the foreign exchange and the time at which the NAVs are determined. When fair valuing foreign equity securities, the Adviser adjusts the closing prices of foreign portfolio equity securities (except foreign equity securities traded in North America and South America) based upon pricing models provided by a third-party vendor in order to reflect the "fair value" of such securities for purposes of determining a Fund's NAV. Foreign equity securities traded in North America and South America may be fair valued utilizing international adjustment factors in response to local market holidays, exchange closures, or other events as deemed necessary in order to reflect the "fair value" of such securities for purposes of determining a Fund's NAV. All securities in the JNL/WMC Government Money Market Fund, as permitted by compliance with applicable provisions under Rule 2a-7 under the 1940 Act, are valued at amortized cost, unless it is determined that such practice does not approximate fair value. If a valuation from a third party pricing service is unavailable or it is determined that such valuation does not approximate fair value, debt obligations with remaining maturities of sixty (60) days or less may be valued at their amortized cost, unless it is determined that such practice also does not approximate fair value. Debt and derivative securities are generally valued by independent pricing services approved by the Board. Pricing services utilized to value debt and derivative instruments may use various pricing techniques which take into account appropriate factors such as: yield; credit quality; coupon rate; maturity; type of issue; trading characteristics; call features; credit ratings; broker quotes; and other relevant data. Term loans are generally valued at the composite bid prices provided by approved pricing services. Commodity-linked structured notes and credit-linked notes are valued by approved pricing services. Futures contracts traded on an exchange are generally valued at the exchange's settlement price. If the settlement price is not available, exchange traded futures are valued at the last sales price as of the close of business on the primary exchange. Options traded on an exchange are generally valued at the last traded price as of the close of business on the local exchange. If the last trade is determined to not be representative of fair value, exchange traded options are valued at the current day's mid-price. Forward foreign currency contracts are generally valued at the foreign currency exchange rate as of the close of the NYSE. If pricing services are unable to provide valuations, OTC derivatives are valued at the most recent bid quotation or evaluated price, as applicable, obtained from a broker/dealer or by pricing models using observable inputs. Swap agreements that clear on exchanges are valued at the most recent bid quotation or evaluated price, as applicable, obtained from pricing models or by the clearing exchange using observable inputs.

Market quotations may not be readily available for certain investments or it may be determined that a quotation of an investment does not represent fair value. In such instances, the investment is valued as determined in good faith using procedures approved by the Board. Situations that may require an investment to be fair valued may include instances where a security is thinly traded, halted or restricted as to resale. In addition, investments may be fair valued based on the occurrence of a significant event. Significant events may be specific to a particular issuer, such as mergers, restructurings or defaults. Alternatively, significant events may affect an entire market, such as natural disasters, government actions, and significant changes in the value of U.S. securities markets. Securities are fair valued based on observable and unobservable inputs, including the Adviser's or Valuation Committee's own assumptions in determining the fair value of an investment. Under the procedures approved by the Board, the Adviser may utilize pricing services or other sources, including each Fund's Sub-Adviser(s), to assist in determining the fair value of an investment. Factors considered to determine fair value may include fundamental analytical data relating to the security; the nature and duration of restrictions, if any, on the disposition of the security; trading volume on markets, exchanges, or among dealers; evaluation of the forces which influence the market in which the security is traded; the type of security; the financial statements of the issuer, or other financial information about the issuer; the cost of the security at its date of purchase; the size of the Fund's holding; the discount from market value of unrestricted securities of the same class, if applicable, at the time of purchase or at a later date; reports prepared by analysts; information as to any transactions in or offers for the security; the existence of any merger proposal, tender offer or other extraordinary event relating to the security; the price and extent of public or dealer trading in similar securities or derivatives of the issuer or of comparable companies; trading in depositary receipts; foreign currency exchange activity; changes in the interest rate environment; trading prices of financial products that are tied to baskets of foreign securities; and any other matters considered relevant.

If an investment is valued at a fair value for purposes of calculating a Fund's NAV, the value may be different from the last quoted price for the investment depending on the source and method used to determine the value. Although there can be no assurance, in general, the fair value of the investment is the amount the owner of such investment might reasonably expect to receive in an orderly transaction between market participants upon its current sale.

Notes to Financial Statements

Distributions to Shareholders. The amount and timing of distributions for the RIC Funds (as discussed in Note 10) are determined in accordance with federal income tax regulations, which may differ from GAAP. Dividends from net investment income are generally declared and paid annually by the RIC Funds, but may be paid more frequently to avoid excise tax. Distributions of net realized capital gains by the RIC Funds, if any, are distributed at least annually, to the extent they exceed available capital loss carryforwards. The JNL/WMC Government Money Market Fund declares dividends from net investment income daily and pays dividends monthly. No distributions of net investment income or realized capital gains are required for Funds that are not RICs, therefore, undistributed net investment income and accumulated net realized gain/loss are reclassified to paid-in capital on a semi-annual basis. Capital gains distributions received from the Master Funds and underlying funds are recorded as Net realized gain on Distributions from Affiliated or Unaffiliated investment companies, as applicable, in the Statements of Operations.

Security Transactions and Investment Income. Security transactions are recorded on the trade date for financial reporting purposes. Realized gains and losses are determined on the specific identification basis. Dividend income, net of applicable withholding taxes, is recorded on the ex-dividend date. Corporate actions involving foreign securities, including dividends, are recorded when the information becomes available. Income received in lieu of dividends for securities loaned is included in Dividends in the Statements of Operations. Interest income, including effective-yield amortization of discounts and premiums on debt securities and convertible bonds, is accrued daily. A Fund may place a debt obligation on non-accrual status and reduce related interest income, and value, by ceasing current accruals and writing off interest receivables when the collection of all or a portion of interest has become uncollectible. A debt obligation is removed from non-accrual status when the issuer resumes interest payments or when collectability of interest is reasonably assured. Following Russia's invasion of Ukraine on February 24, 2022, economic sanctions and other restrictive measures have limited the ability of the Funds to receive and record dividend, interest and maturity payments from certain Russian securities or to repatriate Russian currency.

Expenses. Expenses are recorded on an accrual basis. Expenses of the Trust that are directly attributable to a specific Fund are charged to that Fund. Expenses attributable to a specific class of shares are charged to that class and any other expenses are allocated to the classes on a pro rata basis using the daily net assets of each class. Other Trust level expenses are allocated to the Funds based on the average daily net assets of each Fund. As it relates to expenses in Master Funds, the Feeder Fund's shareholders bear the fees and expenses of each respective Master Fund in which the Feeder Fund invests because each Feeder Fund invests all of its assets in its respective Master Fund. Such expenses are not included in the Statements of Operations but are incurred indirectly in the calculation of the NAV of the respective Master Fund. As a result, the Feeder Funds' actual expenses may be higher than those of other mutual funds that invest directly in securities. A similar situation exists for the Funds of Funds as it relates to the expenses associated with the investments in underlying funds.

Foreign Taxes. The Funds may be subject to foreign taxes on income, gains on investments or foreign currency purchases and repatriation, a portion of which may be recoverable. The Funds will accrue such taxes and recoveries as applicable, based upon the current interpretations of tax rules and regulations that exist in the markets in which the Funds invest. When a capital gains tax is determined to apply, a Fund will record an estimated tax liability in an amount that may be payable if the securities were disposed of on the valuation date. The estimated liability is recorded as Deferred foreign capital gains tax liability in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities. Foreign capital gains tax paid and the current period's change in deferred foreign capital gains tax liability are recorded in Net realized gain (loss) on Investments - unaffiliated and Net change in unrealized appreciation (depreciation) on Investments - unaffiliated, respectively, in the Statements of Operations.

Foreign Currency Translations. The accounting records of each Fund are maintained in U.S. dollars. Each business day, the fair values of foreign securities, currency holdings and other assets and liabilities denominated in a foreign currency are translated into U.S. dollars based on current exchange rates. Purchases and sales of investment securities, income receipts and expense payments are translated into U.S. dollars based on the respective exchange rates prevailing on the dates of such transactions. The Funds do not isolate that portion of the results of operations resulting from changes in foreign exchange rates on investments from the fluctuations arising from changes in market prices of foreign securities. Such fluctuations are included in Net realized gain (loss) on Investments - unaffiliated and Net change in unrealized appreciation (depreciation) on Investments - unaffiliated, respectively, in the Statements of Operations.

Net realized gains and losses on foreign currency related items are considered ordinary income for tax purposes and arise from sales of foreign currencies; currency gains or losses realized between the trade and settlement dates on securities transactions; the difference between the amounts of dividends, interest and foreign withholding taxes recorded and the U.S. dollar amounts actually received or paid; and the realized gains or losses resulting from portfolio and transaction hedges. Net unrealized gain or loss on foreign currency related items include gains and losses from changes in the value of assets and liabilities, other than investments in securities, resulting from changes in currency exchange rates.

Guarantees and Indemnifications. In the normal course of business, the Trust may enter into contracts that contain a variety of representations which provide general indemnifications for certain liabilities. Under the Trust's organizational documents, its officers and Trustees are indemnified against certain liabilities arising out of the performance of their duties to the Funds. However, since their commencement of operations, the Funds have not had claims or losses pursuant to their contracts and expect the risk of loss to be remote. The Funds' maximum exposure under these arrangements is unknown since the amount of any future claims that may be made against the Funds cannot be determined and the Funds have no historical basis for predicting the likelihood of any such claims.

Use of Estimates. The preparation of financial statements in conformity with GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of increases and decreases in net assets from operations during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Recent Accounting Pronouncements. In March 2020, FASB issued Accounting Standards Update ("ASU") 2020-04, Reference Rate Reform (Topic 848): Facilitation of the Effects of Reference Rate Reform on Financial Reporting. The guidance provides optional expedients and exceptions for applying

GAAP to contract modifications and hedging relationships, subject to meeting certain criteria, that reference the London Interbank Offered Rate (LIBOR) or another reference rate expected to be discontinued due to reference rate reform. The amendments in this update are elective and may be applied through December 31, 2024. Management has evaluated the amendments and determined that they will not have a significant impact on the Funds' financial statements.

In June 2022, FASB issued ASU 2022-03, Fair Value Measurement (Topic 820): Fair Value Measurement of Equity Securities Subject to Contractual Sale Restrictions. The amendments in the ASU clarify guidance in Topic 820 when measuring the fair value of equity securities subject to contractual restrictions prohibiting their sale and introduce new disclosure requirements for these securities. The amendments in this update are effective for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2023. Management has evaluated the amendments and determined that they will not have a significant impact on the Funds' financial statements.

NOTE 3. FAIR VALUE MEASUREMENT

FASB ASC Topic 820 establishes a single authoritative definition of fair value, sets out a framework for measuring fair value and requires additional disclosures about fair value measurements. Various inputs are used in determining the value of a Fund's investments under this guidance. The inputs are summarized into three broad categories:

Level 1 includes valuations based on quoted prices of identical securities in active markets, including valuations for securities listed on national or foreign stock exchanges, futures and options contracts listed on derivatives exchanges or investments in mutual funds. Level 1 valuations include investments in the underlying funds and Master Funds.

Level 2 includes valuations determined from significant direct or indirect observable inputs. Direct observable inputs include broker quotes, third-party prices, closing prices of similar securities in active markets, closing prices for identical or similar securities in non-active markets or corporate action or reorganization entitlement values. Indirect significant observable inputs include factors such as interest rates, yield curves, prepayment speeds or credit ratings. Level 2 includes valuations for fixed income securities, including certain term loans, OTC derivatives, centrally cleared swap agreements, broker quotes in active markets, securities subject to corporate actions, securities valued at amortized cost, international equity securities priced by an independent statistical fair value pricing service, swap agreements valued by pricing services, ADRs and GDRs for which quoted prices in active markets are not available or securities limited by foreign ownership.

Level 3 includes valuations determined from significant unobservable inputs including the Adviser's own assumptions in determining the fair value of the investment. Inputs used to determine the fair value of Level 3 securities include security specific inputs such as: credit quality, credit rating spreads, issuer news, trading characteristics, call features, maturity or anticipated cash flows; or industry specific inputs such as: trading activity of similar markets or securities, changes in the security's underlying index or changes in comparable securities' models. Level 3 valuations include securities, currency exchange rates and forward foreign currency contracts where forward rates are not available; term loans that do not meet certain liquidity thresholds; securities where prices may be unavailable due to halted trading, restricted to resale due to market events, or newly issued; private placements; or investments for which reliable quotes are otherwise not available.

Inputs used in the determination of the fair value level of Level 3 securities, which were deemed to be material, are disclosed within the notes below and are not necessarily an indication of the risk associated with investing in those securities.

The following table is a rollforward of individually significant securities Level 3 valuations (in thousands) and transfers by category for which significant unobservable inputs were used to determine fair value during the year ended December 31, 2023:

NOTE 4. SECURITIES AND OTHER INVESTMENTS

Securities Lending and Securities Lending Collateral. All Funds, except JNL/PPM America Floating Rate Income Fund, JNL/WMC Government Money Market Fund, the Funds of Funds and the Feeder Funds, participate in agency based securities lending programs. JPMorgan Chase Bank, N.A. ("JPM Chase") and State Street Bank and Trust Company ("State Street") (each a "Custodian" and together the "Custodians") each serve as securities lending agent to the eligible Funds for which they are Custodian. Per the securities lending agreements, the securities lending agent is authorized to loan securities on behalf of the Funds to approved borrowers and is required to maintain collateral. Each Fund receives either cash or non-cash collateral against the loaned securities in an amount equal to at least 100% of the market value of the loaned securities. Generally, cash and non-cash collateral received for the following types of securities on loan are as follows: U.S. Government fixed income – 102%; U.S. equities – 102%; U.S. corporate fixed income – 102%; international equities – 105%; international corporate fixed income – 105%; sovereign fixed income – 102%; and asset backed investments – 102%. Collateral is maintained over the life of the loan as determined at the close of Fund business each day; any additional collateral required due to changes in security values is typically delivered to the Fund on the next business day. The duration of each loan is determined by the agent and borrower and generally may be terminated at any time. Certain loans may be negotiated to mature on a specified date. The securities lending agents have agreed to indemnify the Fund in the event of default by a third-party borrower. A Fund may experience a delay in the recovery of its securities or incur a loss if the borrower breaches its agreement with the Fund or becomes insolvent. For cash collateral, the Fund receives income from the investment of cash collateral, which is shared with the borrower through negotiated rebates. The Fund bears the risk that the agent may default on its obligations to the Fund. Non-cash collateral which a Fund receives may include U.S. Government securities; U.S. Government agencies' debt securities; and U.S. Government-sponsored agencies' debt securities and mortgage-backed securities. For non-cash collateral, the Fund receives lending fees negotiated with the borrower. The securities lending agents have agreed to indemnify the Fund with respect to the market risk related to the non-cash collateral investments. The Fund also bears the market risk with respect to the collateral received and securities loaned. JPM Chase and State Street receive a portion of the earnings from the Funds' securities lending program.

Except as described below, cash collateral received is invested in the JNL Government Money Market Fund – Class SL, a registered government money market fund under the 1940 Act and series of the JNL Investors Series Trust. JNAM serves as the Adviser and Administrator for the JNL Government Money Market Fund. The JNL Government Money Market Fund is offered to the Funds and their affiliates and is not available for direct purchase by members of the public. The JNL Government Money Market Fund pays JNAM annual fees, accrued daily and payable monthly, for investment advisory and administrative services. In addition to investing cash collateral in the JNL Government Money Market Fund – Class SL, JNL/Mellon S&P 500 Index Fund may invest cash collateral in repurchase agreements collateralized by equity and U.S. Government or agency securities. JPM Chase has agreed to bear the risk of any deficiency in the amount of collateral available for return to a borrower due to a decline in value of the repurchase agreements collateralized by equity and U.S. Government or agency securities. Reinvestments in repurchase agreements will not exceed 10% of a Fund's net assets, shall be collateralized by equity and U.S. Government or agency securities equal to not less than 110% of the cash collateral reinvested in such transactions, and shall be marked-to-market daily.

Cash collateral received from the borrower is recorded in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities as Payable for Return of securities loaned. Investments acquired with such cash collateral are reported in a manner consistent with other portfolio investments held by each Fund as Investments - affiliated, at value or Investments - unaffiliated, at value, as applicable, on the Statements of Assets and Liabilities. Each Fund's net exposure to a borrower is determined by the amount of any shortfall in collateral received compared to the value of securities on loan. Certain Funds receive non-cash collateral in the form of securities received, which the Funds may not sell or re-pledge and accordingly are not reflected in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities. The value of securities on loan and collateral received (in thousands) at December 31, 2023 was as follows:

U.S. Government Agencies or Government Sponsored Enterprises. Certain Funds may invest in U.S. Government agencies or government sponsored enterprises. U.S. Government securities are obligations of, and in certain cases, guaranteed by, the U.S. Government, its agencies or instrumentalities. Some U.S. Government securities, such as Treasury bills, notes and bonds, and securities guaranteed by the Government National Mortgage Association, are supported by the full faith and credit of the U.S. Government; others, such as those of the Federal Home Loan Bank, are supported by the right of the issuer to borrow from the U.S. Department of the Treasury ("U.S. Treasury"); others, such as those of the Federal National Mortgage Association ("FNMA" or "Fannie Mae"), are supported by the discretionary authority of the U.S. Government to purchase the agency's obligations; and still others, such as those of the Student Loan Marketing Association, are supported only by the credit of the instrumentality. U.S. Government securities may include zero coupon securities, which do not distribute interest on a current basis and tend to be subject to greater risk than interest paying securities of similar maturities.

Government-related guarantors (i.e., guarantors that are not backed by the full faith and credit of the U.S. Government) include FNMA and the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation ("FHLMC" or "Freddie Mac"). FNMA purchases conventional (i.e., not insured or guaranteed by any government agency) residential mortgages from a list of approved seller/servicers, which include state and federally chartered savings and loan associations, mutual savings banks, commercial banks and credit unions and mortgage bankers. Pass-through securities issued by FNMA are guaranteed as to timely payment of principal and interest by FNMA, but are not backed by the full faith and credit of the U.S. Government. FHLMC issues Participation Certificates ("PCs"), which are pass-through securities, each representing an undivided interest in a pool of residential mortgages. FHLMC guarantees the timely payment of interest and ultimate collection of principal, but PCs are not backed by the full faith and credit of the U.S. Government.

FNMA and FHMLC have been operating as going concerns in a conservatorship overseen by the Federal Housing Finance Agency ("FHFA") since 2008. As the conservator, FHFA succeeded to all rights, titles, powers and privileges of FNMA and FHMLC and of any stockholder, officer or director of FNMA and FHMLC with respect to FNMA and FHMLC and each enterprise's assets. However, each remains liable for all of its obligations, including its guarantees, associated with its mortgage-backed securities. In connection with the conservatorship, the U.S. Treasury entered into a Senior Preferred Stock Purchase Agreement with FNMA and FHMLC. This agreement contains various covenants that severely limit each enterprise's operations. In exchange for entering into these agreements, the U.S. Treasury received senior preferred stock in each enterprise and warrants to purchase each enterprise's common stock.

Unregistered Securities. Certain Funds may own certain investment securities that are unregistered and thus restricted to resale. These securities may also be referred to as "private placements". Unregistered securities may be classified as "illiquid" because there is no readily available market for sale of the securities. Where future dispositions of the securities require registration under the 1933 Act, the Funds have the right to include those securities in such registration generally without cost to the Funds. The Funds have no right to require registration of unregistered securities.

Repurchase Agreements. Certain Funds may invest in repurchase agreements. In a repurchase agreement a Fund receives debt securities (collateral) subject to an obligation of the seller to repurchase, and the Fund to resell, the securities at an agreed upon price and date. The underlying securities used as collateral for repurchase agreements may be held in safekeeping by the Fund's Custodian or designated sub-custodians under triparty repurchase agreements. Earnings on collateral and compensation to the seller are based on agreed upon rates between the seller and the Fund. Interest earned on repurchase agreements is recorded as interest income to the Fund. When a repurchase agreement is entered into, a Fund typically receives securities with a value that approximates or exceeds the repurchase price, including any accrued interest earned on the repurchase agreement. The value of such securities will be marked to market daily, and cash or additional securities will be exchanged between the parties with a frequency and in amounts prescribed in the repurchase agreement. In the event of a default by the counterparty, realization of the collateral proceeds could be delayed, during which time the value of such collateral may decline.

Reverse Repurchase Agreements. Certain Funds may enter into reverse repurchase agreements. In a reverse repurchase agreement, a Fund delivers to a counterparty a security in exchange for cash with a simultaneous agreement to repurchase the same or substantially the same security at an agreed upon price and date. Cash received in exchange for securities delivered plus accrued interest to be paid by the Fund are reflected as Payable for Reverse repurchase agreements on the Statements of Assets and Liabilities. Interest paid is recorded as interest expense to the Fund. The Fund receives principal and interest payments, if any, made on the security delivered to the counterparty during the term of the agreement. In periods of increased demand of the security, the Fund may receive a fee for use of the security by the counterparty, which may result in interest income to the Fund. A reverse repurchase agreement involves the risk that the value of the security delivered by the Fund may decline below the repurchase price of the security.

The average daily balance (in thousands) and the weighted average interest rate for reverse repurchase agreements, for the year ended December 31, 2023, were as follows: JNL Multi-Manager Alternative Fund, $24,980 and 5.23%, respectively, for 365 days outstanding; JNL/PIMCO Income Fund, $48,078 and 5.26%, respectively, for 104 days outstanding; JNL/PIMCO Real Return Fund, $2,376 and 4.66%, respectively, for 4 days outstanding. The value of reverse repurchase agreements and collateral pledged (in thousands) at December 31, 2023 was as follows:

Forward Sales Commitments. Certain Funds may purchase or sell forward sales commitments. A forward sales commitment involves a Fund entering into a contract to purchase or sell securities for a fixed price at a future date beyond the customary settlement period. The purchase of a forward sales commitment involves the risk of loss if the value of the security to be purchased declines before the settlement date while the sale of a forward sales commitment involves the risk that the value of the securities to be sold may increase before the settlement date. A Fund may dispose of or renegotiate forward sales commitments after they are entered into, and may close these positions before they are delivered, which may result in realized gain or loss.

Delayed-Delivery Securities. Certain Funds may purchase or sell securities on a delayed-delivery basis, including To Be Announced ("TBA") or "To Be Acquired" securities. These transactions involve a commitment by a Fund to purchase or sell securities for a predetermined price or yield, with payment and delivery taking place beyond the customary settlement period. In TBA transactions, the Fund commits to purchasing or selling securities for which all specific information is not yet known at the time of the trade, particularly the face amount and maturity date of the underlying securities. When delayed-delivery purchases are outstanding, the Fund is required to have sufficient cash and/or liquid securities to cover its commitments on these transactions. When purchasing a security on a delayed-delivery basis, the Fund assumes the rights of ownership of the security, including the risk of price and yield fluctuations, and considers such fluctuations when determining its NAV. A Fund may dispose of or renegotiate a delayed-delivery transaction after it is entered into, and the Fund may sell delayed-delivery securities before they are delivered, which may result in a realized gain or loss. When a Fund has sold a security on a delayed-delivery basis, the Fund does not participate in future gains or losses with respect to the security. Securities purchased on a TBA basis are not settled until they are delivered to the Fund. In connection with TBA transactions, Funds may maintain a short position related to certain securities. In connection with these transactions, the Fund owns an equal amount of the securities or holds securities convertible (or exchangeable) into an equal amount of the securities, of the same issuer, as the position held short.

Mortgage-Backed Dollar and Treasury Roll Transactions. Certain Funds may purchase or sell mortgage-backed or Treasury securities and simultaneously contract to sell or repurchase securities at a future date at an agreed upon price. The Funds may only enter into covered rolls. A “covered roll” is a type of dollar or Treasury roll for which a Fund maintains offsetting positions in cash, U.S. Government securities, or other liquid assets which mature on or before the forward sale or repurchase settlement date of the dollar or Treasury roll transaction. During the period between the purchase or sale and subsequent sale or repurchase, a Fund foregoes interest and principal paid on the mortgage-backed or Treasury securities. A Fund is compensated by the interest earned on the cash proceeds of the sale and from negotiated fees paid by brokers offered as an inducement to the Fund to “roll over” its purchase commitments. A Fund may dispose of “covered roll” securities after they are entered into and close these positions before their maturity, which may result in a realized gain or loss.

Dollar or Treasury roll transactions involve the risk that the fair value of the securities sold by a Fund may decline below the repurchase price of those securities which the Fund is obligated to purchase or that the return earned by the Fund with the proceeds of a dollar roll may not exceed transaction costs.

In a mortgage-backed or Treasury securities roll transaction, if the repurchased security is determined to be similar, but not substantially the same, the transaction is accounted for as a purchase and sale. Any gains, losses and any income or fees earned are recorded to realized gain or loss. If the repurchased security is determined to be substantially the same, the transaction is accounted for as a secured borrowing, rather than as a purchase and sales transaction. For Funds with significant transactions characterized as secured borrowing transactions, any income or fees earned are recorded to investment income and financing costs associated with the transaction are recorded to interest expense.

The average daily balance (in thousands) and the weighted average interest rate for Treasury roll transactions accounted for as secured borrowing transactions, for the year ended December 31, 2023, were as follows: JNL/PIMCO Income Fund, $43,449 and 4.58%, respectively, for 94 days outstanding; JNL/PIMCO Investment Grade Credit Bond Fund, $16,562 and 4.76%, respectively, for 356 days outstanding; and JNL/PIMCO Real Return Fund, $156,909 and 2.53%, respectively, for 365 days outstanding. At December 31, 2023, JNL/PIMCO Income Fund, JNL/PIMCO Investment Grade Credit Bond Fund and JNL/PIMCO Real Return Fund had $37, $88 and $88, respectively, of deferred income (in thousands) included in Payable for Treasury roll transactions on the Statements of Assets and Liabilities.

The following table details Treasury roll transactions (in thousands) outstanding accounted for as secured borrowings as of December 31, 2023:

Inflation-Indexed Bonds. Certain Funds may invest in inflation-indexed bonds which are fixed income securities whose principal value is periodically adjusted to the rate of inflation. The interest rate on these bonds is generally fixed at issuance at a rate lower than typical bonds. Over the life of an inflation-indexed bond, however, interest will be paid based on a principal value which is adjusted for inflation. Any increase in the principal amount of an inflation-indexed bond will be considered interest income, even though investors do not receive principal payments until maturity.

Senior and Junior Loans. Certain Funds may invest in Senior loans or secured and unsecured subordinated loans, second lien loans and subordinated bridge loans (“Junior loans”) which are purchased or sold on a when-issued or delayed-delivery basis and may be settled a month or more after the trade date. Interest income on these loans is accrued based on the terms of the securities. Senior and Junior loans can be acquired through an agent, by assignment from another holder of the loan, or as a participation interest in another holder’s portion of the loan.

Securities Sold Short. Certain Funds may enter into short sales transactions whereby the Fund sells a security it does not own in anticipation of a decline in the market price of the security or to engage in arbitrage transactions. When a Fund engages in a short sale, the Fund borrows the security sold short to make delivery to the buyer. The Fund may have to pay a fee to borrow securities and is often obligated to repay the lender of the securities for any interest or dividends that accrues on the borrowed securities during the period of the loan. Until the Fund closes its short position, the lending broker or lending agent requires assets in the form of securities or cash to be segregated as collateral, which is marked-to-market daily, to the extent necessary to meet margin requirements or cover the short sale obligation. A Fund is obligated to deliver securities at the market price at the time the short position is closed. If the price of the security sold short increases between the time of the short sale and the time that the Fund replaces the borrowed security, the Fund will incur a capital loss; conversely, if the price declines, the Fund will realize a capital gain. A Fund’s loss on a short sale could theoretically be unlimited in cases where the Fund is unable, for whatever reason, to close out its short position.

Convertible Securities. Certain Funds may invest in fixed-income securities which are convertible into common stock. Convertible securities may be converted either at a stated price or rate within a specified period of time into a specified number of shares of common stock. Typically, convertible securities pay dividends or interest greater than on the related common stocks, but less than fixed income non-convertible securities. By investing in a convertible security, a Fund may participate in any capital appreciation or depreciation of a company’s stock, but to a lesser degree than if it had invested in that company’s common stock. Convertible securities rank senior to common stock in a corporation’s capital structure and, therefore, entail less risk than the corporation’s common stock. A Fund may attempt to hedge certain of their investments in convertible debt securities by selling short the issuer’s common stock.

Credit-Linked Structured Notes. Certain Funds may use credit-linked notes to take positions or manage equity price risk in the normal course of pursuing its investment objective. The value of a credit-linked note is based on the price movements of a particular credit, known as a reference credit. Credit-linked notes that the Funds invest in are typically listed instruments that typically provide the same return as the underlying reference credit. Credit-linked notes are intended to replicate the economic effects that would apply had a Fund directly purchased the underlying reference credit. The Fund generally will receive a fixed or floating coupon and the note’s par value upon maturity. If a specified credit event occurs, such as default or bankruptcy, the Fund may experience a delay in payment or forego interest. The maximum potential risk of loss is limited to the par amount of the credit-linked note plus any accrued interest. The reference credit and its credit rating, for each credit-linked note, are presented parenthetically in the Schedules of Investments.

Equity-Linked Structured Notes. Certain Funds may invest in equity-linked notes. Equity-linked notes are financial instruments that combine debt and equity characteristics. These notes typically pay interest that is linked to the performance of the underlying equity. Equity-linked notes may be more volatile and less liquid than the underlying equity. In addition to fluctuating price movements in the underlying equity, these notes are debt securities of the issuer and will be subject to credit and interest rate risks that typically affect debt instruments.

Master Limited Partnerships. Certain Funds may invest in Master Limited Partnerships (“MLPs”). An MLP is a publicly traded company organized as a limited partnership or limited liability company and treated as a partnership for federal income tax purposes. The benefit derived from the Fund’s investment in MLPs is largely dependent on the MLPs being treated as partnerships for federal income tax purposes. MLPs may derive income and gains from the exploration, development, mining or production, processing, refining, transportation (including pipelines transporting gas, oil, or products thereof), or the marketing of any mineral or natural resources.

Real Estate Investment Trusts. Certain Funds may invest in Real Estate Investment Trusts (“REITs”). REITs are traded as a stock on major stock exchanges and invests in real estate directly, either through properties or mortgages. REITs typically concentrate on a specific geographic region or property type, receive special tax considerations and are a liquid method of investing in real estate.

Participation Note Securities. Certain Funds may invest in Participation Notes (“P-Notes”). P-Notes are promissory notes that are designed to offer a return linked to the performance of a particular underlying equity security or market. P-Notes are issued by banks or broker-dealers and allow a Fund to gain exposure to common stocks in markets where direct investment by the Fund may not be allowed or efficient. A Fund may tender a P-Note for cash payment in an amount that reflects the current fair value of the underlying equity investments or market, reduced by program fees.

Unfunded Commitments. Certain Funds may enter into certain credit agreements, all or a portion of which may be unfunded. The Fund is obligated to fund these loan commitments at the borrowers’ discretion. Unfunded loan commitments and funded portions of credit agreements are marked-to-market daily. Net unrealized appreciation/depreciation on unfunded commitments is reflected in Other assets and Payable for Investment securities purchased in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities and Net change in unrealized appreciation (depreciation) on Investments - unaffiliated in the Statements of Operations.

NOTE 5. INVESTMENT TRANSACTION AGREEMENTS AND COLLATERAL

Under various agreements, certain investment transactions require collateral to be pledged to or from a Fund and a counterparty or segregated at the custodian and the collateral is managed pursuant to the terms of the agreement. U.S. Treasury Bills and U.S. dollars are generally the preferred forms of collateral, although other forms of high quality or sovereign securities may be used. Securities held by a Fund that are used as collateral are identified as such within the Schedules of Investments. Collateral for OTC financial derivative transactions paid to or received from brokers and counterparties is included in Receivable from Deposits with brokers and counterparties and Payable for Deposits from counterparties in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities.

Master Netting Agreements (“Master Agreements”). Certain Funds are subject to various Master Agreements, which govern the terms of certain transactions and mitigate the counterparty risk associated with relevant transactions by specifying credit protection mechanisms and providing standardization that improves legal certainty. Because different types of financial transactions have different mechanics and are sometimes traded out of different legal entities of a particular counterparty organization, each type of transaction may be covered by a different Master Agreement, potentially resulting in the need for multiple agreements with a single counterparty. A Fund may net exposure and collateralize multiple transaction types governed by the same Master Agreement with the same counterparty and may close out and net its total exposure to a counterparty in the event of a default and/or termination event with respect to all the transactions governed under a single agreement with a counterparty. Each Master Agreement defines whether the Fund is contractually able to net settle daily payments. Additionally, certain circumstances, such as laws of a particular jurisdiction or settlement of amounts due in different currencies, may prohibit or restrict the right of offset as defined in the Master Agreements.

Master Agreements also help limit credit and counterparty risk by specifying collateral posting arrangements at pre-arranged exposure levels. Under the Master Agreements, collateral is routinely transferred if the total net exposure to certain transactions (net of existing collateral) governed under the relevant master agreement with a counterparty in a given account exceeds a specified threshold depending on the counterparty and the type of Master Agreement. A Fund’s overall exposure to counterparty risk can change substantially within a short period, as it is affected by each transaction subject to the relevant Master Agreement. To the extent amounts due to a Fund from its counterparties are not fully collateralized, contractually or otherwise, the Fund bears the risk of loss from counterparty non-performance. The Funds’ Sub-Advisers attempt to limit counterparty risk by only entering into Master Agreements with counterparties that the Sub-Adviser believes to have the financial resources to honor their obligations and by monitoring the financial stability of those counterparties. For swap agreements executed with a Derivatives Clearing Organization (“DCO”) in a multilateral or other trade facility platform (“centrally cleared swaps”), counterparty risk is reduced by shifting exposure from the counterparty to the DCO. Additionally, the DCO has broad powers to provide an orderly liquidation in the event of a default.

Master Repurchase Agreements and Global Master Repurchase Agreements (individually and collectively “Master Repo Agreements”). Master Repo Agreements govern repurchase, reverse repurchase and Treasury roll transactions between a Fund and select counterparties. The Master Repo Agreements maintain provisions for, among other things, initiation and confirmation, income payments and transfer, events of default, termination, and maintenance of collateral. In the event of default, the total value exposure will be offset against collateral exchanged to date, which would result in a net receivable/(payable) that would be due from/to the counterparty. Securities purchased under repurchase agreements are reflected as an asset on a Fund’s Statement of Assets and Liabilities. The value of repurchase agreements and collateral pledged or received by a counterparty are disclosed in the Schedules of Investments. A Fund’s net exposure to the counterparty is determined by the amount of any excess or shortfall in collateral compared to the value of the repurchase or reverse repurchase agreement.

Master Securities Forward Transaction Agreements (“Master Forward Agreements”). Master Forward Agreements govern the considerations and factors surrounding the settlement of certain forward-settling transactions, such as delayed-delivery transactions, TBA securities and Treasury roll transactions between a Fund and select counterparties. The Master Forward Agreements maintain provisions for, among other things, initiation and confirmation, payment and transfer, events of default, termination, and maintenance of collateral. Losses may arise due to changes in the value of the underlying securities prior to settlement date, if the counterparty does not perform under the contract’s terms, or if the issuer does not issue the securities due to political, economic or other factors. In the event of default, the unrealized gain or loss will be offset against collateral exchanged to date, which would result in a net receivable/(payable) that would be due from/to the counterparty. In the ordinary course of business, settlements of transactions are not typically subject to net settlement, except for TBA pools.

Customer Account Agreements. Customer Account Agreements and related addendums govern exchange traded or centrally cleared derivative transactions such as futures, options on futures and centrally cleared derivatives. If a Fund transacts in exchange traded or centrally cleared derivatives, the Sub-Adviser is a party to agreements with (1) a Futures Commissions Merchant (“FCM”) in which the FCM facilitates the execution of the exchange traded and centrally cleared derivative with the DCO and (2) with an executing broker/swap dealer to agree to the terms of the swap and resolution process in the event the centrally cleared swap is not accepted for clearing by the designated DCO. Exchange traded and centrally cleared derivatives transactions require posting an amount of cash or cash equivalents equal to a certain percentage of the contract amount known as the “initial margin” as determined by each relevant clearing agency and is segregated at an FCM which is registered with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission (“CFTC”) or the applicable regulator. The Fund receives from, or pays to, the counterparty an amount of cash equal to the daily fluctuation in the value of the contracts. Such receipts or payments are known as the “variation margin”. For certain exchanges or DCOs, variation margin may include more than one day’s fluctuation in the value of the contracts. Variation margin on the Statements of Assets and Liabilities may include variation margin on closed unsettled derivative transactions. Variation margin received may not be netted between exchange traded and centrally cleared derivatives. In the event of default, counterparty risk is significantly reduced as creditors to the FCM do not have claim to the Fund’s assets in the segregated account. Additionally, portability of exposure in the event of default further reduces risk.

International Swaps and Derivatives Association Inc. Master Agreements and Credit Support Annexes (“ISDA Master Agreements”). ISDA Master Agreements govern OTC financial derivative transactions entered into by a Fund’s Sub-Adviser and select counterparties. The ISDA Master Agreements maintain provisions for general obligations, representations, agreements, events of default, termination and maintenance of collateral. Termination includes conditions that may entitle counterparties to elect to terminate early and cause settlement of all outstanding transactions under the applicable ISDA Master Agreement. Any election to early termination could be material to the financial statements. In the event of default, the total financial derivative value exposure will be offset against collateral exchanged to date, which would result in a net receivable/(payable) that would be due from/to the counterparty. The amount of collateral exchanged is based on provisions within the ISDA Master Agreements and is determined by the net exposure with the counterparty and is not identified for a specific OTC derivative instrument.

JNL Series Trust

Prime Brokerage Arrangements and Other Securities Borrowing Agreements. Certain Funds may enter into Prime Brokerage Arrangements or Securities Borrowing Agreements to facilitate execution and/or clearing of listed equity option transactions or short sales of securities between the Fund and select counterparties. The arrangements provide general guidelines surrounding the rights, obligations and other events, including but not limited to, margin, execution and settlement. These arrangements maintain provisions for, among other things, payments, maintenance of collateral, events of default, and termination. Cash margin and securities delivered as collateral are typically in the possession of the prime broker or lending agent and offset any obligations due to the prime broker or lending agent. Cash collateral held at the prime broker is reflected in Cash collateral segregated for short sales in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities. In the event of default, the value of securities sold short will be offset against collateral exchanged to date, which would result in a net receivable/(payable) that would be due from/to the counterparty.

NOTE 6. DERIVATIVE FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS

Options Transactions. Certain Funds may buy and sell ("write") call and put options on securities, futures, indices, currencies, swap agreements ("swaptions") and inflation caps and floors. An option is a contract that gives the purchaser of the option, in return for a premium paid, the right to buy a specified underlying instrument from the writer of the option (in the case of a call option), or to sell a specified underlying instrument to the writer of the option (in the case of a put option) at a designated price. The right to exercise is dependent upon the contract terms and can be during the term or at expiration of the option. When a Fund purchases an option, the premium paid by the Fund is recorded as an asset. When a Fund writes a call or put option or an inflation cap or floor, the premium received by the Fund is recorded as a liability. All types of options are marked-to-market daily and the change in value is recorded by the Fund as an unrealized gain or loss. Premiums paid for purchasing options which expire are treated as realized losses. Premiums paid for purchasing options which are exercised or closed are added to the cost basis of the underlying investment or offset against the proceeds of the underlying investment transaction to determine realized gain or loss. Purchasing call options tends to increase a Fund's exposure to the underlying instrument. Purchasing put options tends to decrease a Fund's exposure to the underlying instrument. The risks associated with purchasing options are limited to premiums paid and the failure of the counterparty to honor its obligation under the contract. Premiums received from writing options which expire are treated as realized gains. Premiums received from writing options which are exercised or closed are added to the proceeds of the underlying investment transaction or reduce the cost basis of the underlying investment to determine the realized gain or loss. Writing call options tends to decrease a Fund's exposure to the underlying instrument. Writing put options tends to increase a Fund's exposure to the underlying instrument. The risk associated with writing an option that is exercised is that an unfavorable change in the price of the security underlying the option could result in a Fund buying the underlying security at a price higher than the current value or selling the underlying security at a price lower than the current fair value. There is also the risk a Fund may not be able to enter into a closing transaction if the market is illiquid. Options written by a Fund do not give rise to counterparty credit risk, as they obligate the Fund, not the counterparty, to perform.

Depending on the exchange on which an exchange traded futures option is traded, premium may be paid/received when purchasing/writing the option or there may be no premium paid/received when purchasing/writing the option. Variation margin on these options is recorded by the Fund until the contracts are terminated at which time realized gains and losses are recognized. Exchange traded futures options involve to varying degrees, risk of loss in excess of the variation margin recorded by the Fund.

Swaptions are similar to options on securities except that instead of purchasing the right to buy or sell a security, the writer or purchaser of the swaption is granting or buying the right to enter into a previously agreed upon interest rate or credit default swap agreement. The right to exercise is dependent upon the contract terms and can be during the term or at expiration of the option. Swaptions are classified as illiquid investments. Straddle options are written or purchased with premiums to be determined on a future date which are based upon implied volatility parameters at specified terms. An inflation cap can be used to protect the buyer from inflation erosion above a certain rate. An inflation floor can be used to provide downside protection to investments in inflation-linked products. The maximum potential amount of future payments (undiscounted) that a Fund could be required to make under an inflation cap or floor would be the notional amount times the percentage increase (for an inflation cap) or decrease (for an inflation floor) in inflation determined by the difference between the index's current value and the value at the time the inflation cap or floor was entered into.

Futures Contracts. Certain Funds may buy and sell futures on equities, indices, interest rates, commodities and currencies. A futures contract is a standardized contract obligating two parties to exchange a specified asset at an agreed upon price and date. Variation margin is recorded by the Fund until the contracts are terminated at which time realized gains and losses are recognized. Futures contracts involve to varying degrees, risk of loss in excess of the variation margin recorded by the Fund. The primary risks associated with the use of futures contracts are the imperfect correlation between the change in value of the securities held by the Fund or the change in the value of an underlying entity and the prices of the futures contracts and the possibility the Fund may not be able to enter into a closing transaction because of an illiquid market. With futures, counterparty risk to the Fund is reduced because futures contracts are exchange traded and the exchange's clearinghouse, acting as counterparty to all exchange traded futures, guarantees the futures contracts against default.

Forward Foreign Currency Contracts. A forward foreign currency contract is an agreement between two parties to buy and sell a currency at a set price on a future date. The use of forward foreign currency contracts does not eliminate fluctuations in the underlying prices of a Fund's investment securities, but it does establish a fixed rate of currency exchange that can be achieved in the future. The value of a forward foreign currency contract fluctuates with changes in foreign currency exchange rates. Forward foreign currency contracts are marked-to-market daily and the change in value is recorded by a Fund as an unrealized gain or loss and as a receivable or payable from forward foreign currency contracts. Upon settlement, or delivery or receipt of the currency, a realized gain or loss is recorded which is equal to the difference between the value of the contract at the time it was opened and the value at the time it was closed. Forward foreign currency contracts involve market risk in excess of the receivable or payable related to forward foreign currency contracts recorded by the Funds. Although contracts limit the risk of loss due to a decline in the value of the hedged currency, they also limit any potential gain that might result should the value of the currency increase. Additionally, a Fund could be exposed to the risk of a previously hedged position becoming unhedged if the counterparty to a contract is unable to meet the terms of the contract or if the currency changes unfavorably to the value of the offsetting currency.

Notes to Financial Statements
December 31, 2023

Swap Agreements. Swap agreements are bilaterally negotiated agreements between a Fund and a counterparty to exchange or swap investment cash flows, assets, foreign currencies or market-linked returns at specified, future intervals. Swap agreements may be privately negotiated in the OTC market or executed and centrally cleared with a DCO. OTC swaps are typically classified as illiquid investments.

All types of swap agreements are marked-to-market daily and the change in value is recorded by a Fund as an unrealized gain or loss. For OTC swaps, premiums paid or received at the beginning of the measurement period are recorded as an asset or liability by the Fund and represent payments made or received upon entering into the OTC swap to compensate for differences between the stated terms of the OTC swap and prevailing market conditions relating to credit spreads, interest rates, currency exchange rates and other relevant factors as appropriate. These upfront payments are recorded as a realized gain or loss upon termination or maturity of the OTC swap. For centrally cleared swaps, daily changes in valuation are recorded as a receivable or payable, as appropriate, and received from or paid to the DCO on a daily basis until the contracts are terminated at which time a realized gain or loss is recorded. The use of centrally cleared swaps may require a Fund to commit initial and variation margin that may otherwise not be required under an OTC swap. A liquidation payment received or made at the termination of the swap agreement is recorded as a realized gain or loss. Net periodic payments received or paid by a Fund are included as part of realized gain or loss.

Entering into swap agreements involves, to varying degrees, elements of interest, credit, market and documentation risk in excess of the unrealized gain or loss recorded by a Fund. Such risks include that there is no liquid market for OTC swaps, that the counterparty to the agreements may default on its obligation to perform or disagree as to the meaning of contractual terms in the agreement and that there may be unfavorable changes in interest rates or value of underlying securities. Centrally cleared swaps involve to varying degrees, risk of loss in excess of the variation margin recorded by the Fund.

Interest Rate Swap Agreements. Interest rate swap agreements involve the exchange by a Fund with another party of their respective commitments to pay or receive interest with respect to the notional amount of principal. Forms of interest rate swap agreements that certain Funds have entered into may include: fixed-for-floating rate swaps, under which a party agrees to pay a fixed rate in exchange for receiving a floating rate tied to a benchmark; floating-for-fixed rate swaps, under which a party agrees to pay a floating rate in exchange for receiving a fixed rate; floating-for-floating rate swaps, under which a party agrees to pay a floating rate in exchange for another floating rate; interest rate caps, under which, in return for a premium, one party agrees to make payments to the other party to the extent that interest rates exceed a specified rate, or "cap"; interest rate floors, under which, in return for a premium, one party agrees to make payments to the other party to the extent that interest rates fall below a specified rate, or "floor"; interest rate collars, under which a party sells a cap and purchases a floor or vice versa in an attempt to protect itself against interest rate movements exceeding certain levels; callable interest rate swaps, under which the counterparty may terminate the swap transaction in whole at zero cost by a predetermined date and time prior to the maturity date; or forward spread locks, which allow the interest rate swap users to lock in the forward differential (or spread) between the interest rate swap rate and a specified benchmark.

A Fund's maximum risk of loss from counterparty credit risk for an interest rate swap agreement is the discounted net value of the cash flows to be received from the counterparty over the contract's remaining life, to the extent this amount is positive.

Cross-Currency Swap Agreements. Cross-currency swaps are interest rate swaps in which one party pays a stream of interest payments, either fixed or floating, in exchange for another party's stream of interest payments, either fixed or floating, based on the notional amounts of two different currencies. The notional amounts are typically determined based on the spot exchange rates at the inception of the trade. Cross-currency swaps may also involve an exchange of notional amounts at the start, during or at expiration of the contract, either at the current spot or another specified rate. A Fund's maximum risk of loss from counterparty credit risk is generally the aggregate unrealized gain netted against any collateral pledged by the counterparty.

Credit Default Swap Agreements. Credit default swap agreements involve one party making a stream of payments (referred to as the buyer of protection) to another party (the seller of protection) in exchange for the right to receive a specified return if a credit event occurs for the referenced entity, obligation or index. As a seller of protection, a Fund will generally receive from the buyer of protection a premium in return for such protection and/or a fixed rate of income throughout the term of the swap if there is no credit event. As a buyer of protection, a Fund will generally pay the seller of protection a premium in return for such protection and/or a fixed rate of income throughout the term of the swap if there is no credit event. A credit event is defined under the terms of each swap agreement and may include, but is not limited to, underlying entity default, bankruptcy, restructuring, write-down, principal shortfall or interest shortfall. As a seller, a Fund adds leverage to its portfolio because, in addition to its total net assets, the Fund is subject to investment exposure on the notional amount of the credit default swap. If a Fund is a seller or buyer of protection and a credit event occurs, as defined under the terms of that particular credit default swap agreement, the Fund will either (i) pay or receive an amount equal to the notional amount of the referenced obligation agreement and take delivery or deliver the referenced obligation, other deliverable obligations or underlying securities comprising the referenced index or (ii) pay or receive a net settlement amount in the form of cash or securities equal to the notional amount of the swap agreement less the recovery value of the referenced obligation or underlying securities comprising the referenced index. Until a credit event occurs, recovery values are determined by market makers considering either industry standard recovery rates or entity specific factors and considerations. When a credit event occurs, the recovery value is determined by a facilitated auction, administered by ISDA, whereby a minimum number of allowable broker bids, together with a specified valuation method, are used to calculate the settlement value.

Certain Funds may use credit default swap agreements on corporate or sovereign issues. If a credit event occurs and cash settlement is not elected, a variety of other deliverable obligations may be delivered in lieu of the specific referenced obligation. The ability to deliver other obligations may result in a cheapest-to-deliver option (the buyer of protection's right to choose the deliverable obligation with the lowest value following a credit event). Implied credit spreads, represented in absolute terms, utilized in determining the value of credit default swap agreements on corporate issues and sovereign issues serve as an indicator of the current status of the payment/performance risk and represent the likelihood or risk of default for the credit derivative. The implied credit spread of a particular referenced entity reflects the cost of buying/selling protection and may include upfront payments required to be made to enter into the agreement. Wider credit spreads represent a deterioration of the referenced entity's credit soundness and a greater likelihood or risk of default or other credit event occurring as defined under the terms of the applicable agreement.

Certain Funds may use credit default swap agreements on asset-backed securities. Unlike credit default swaps on corporate or sovereign issues, deliverable obligations in most instances would be limited to the specific referenced obligation because performance for asset-backed securities can vary across deals. Write-downs, such as prepayments and principal pay downs, or loss events on the underlying mortgage loans will reduce the outstanding principal balance of the referenced obligation. These reductions may be temporary or permanent as defined under the terms of the swap agreement and the notional amount for the swap agreement will be adjusted by corresponding amounts.

Certain Funds may use credit default swap agreements on credit indices. A credit index is a basket of credit instruments or exposures designed to represent a portion of the credit market. These indices consist of reference credits that are considered to be the liquid entities in the credit default swap market based on the index sector. Components of the indices may include, but are not limited to, investment grade securities, high yield securities, asset-backed securities and emerging market securities. These components can be determined based upon various credit ratings within each sector. Implied credit spreads, the prices and resulting values for credit default swap agreements on credit indices serve as indicators of the current status of the payment/performance risk and represent the likelihood or risk of default for the credit derivative. Increasing fair values, in absolute terms when compared to the notional amount of the swap, represent a deterioration of the referenced entity's credit soundness and a greater likelihood or risk of default or other credit event occurring as defined under the terms of the agreement. Credit indices are traded using credit default swaps with standardized terms including a fixed spread and standard maturity dates. An index credit default swap references all the issuers in the index, and if there is a credit event, the credit event is settled based on that issuer's weight in the index. The composition of the indices changes periodically, usually every six months, and for most indices, each issuer has an equal weight in the index.

Either as a seller of protection or a buyer of protection of a credit default swap agreement, a Fund's maximum risk of loss from counterparty risk is the fair value of the agreement. The maximum potential amount the Fund could be required to pay as a seller of credit protection or receive as a buyer of credit protection if a credit event occurs is limited to the total notional amount which is defined under the terms of each swap agreement. These potential amounts would be partially offset by any recovery values of the respective referenced obligations, upfront payments received upon entering into the agreement or net amounts received from the settlement of buy protection credit default swap agreements entered into by the Fund for the same referenced entity or entities.

Total Return Swap Agreements. Some total return swap agreements involve a commitment to pay periodic interest payments in exchange for a market linked return based on a security or a basket of securities. To the extent the total return of the security, index or other financial measure underlying the transaction exceeds or falls short of the offsetting interest rate obligation, a Fund will receive a payment from or make a payment to the counterparty. A Fund's maximum risk of loss from counterparty credit risk for this type of total return swap agreement is the discounted net value of the cash flows to be received from or paid to the counterparty over the contract's remaining life, to the extent this amount is positive. Other total return swap agreements involve a right to receive the appreciation in value of a specified security, index, basket of securities or other instrument in return for a fee paid to the counterparty, which will typically be an agreed upon rate. To the extent the underlying asset declines in value over the term of the swap, a Fund may also be required to pay the value of that decline to the counterparty. Additionally, long total return swap agreements on equity securities entitle a Fund to receive from the counterparty dividends paid on an individual security and short total return equity swap agreements obligate a Fund to pay the counterparty dividends paid on an individual security. Total return swap agreements where the reference entity is a futures contract do not pay/receive periodic interest payments. A Fund's maximum risk of loss from counterparty credit risk for this type of total return swap agreement is the value of the underlying security, index, basket of securities or other financial instrument along with any dividends or interest receivable.

Non-Deliverable Bond Forward Contracts. A non-deliverable bond forward contract is a short-term forward agreement between two parties to buy or sell a bond denominated in a non-deliverable foreign currency at a specified price and date. Non-deliverable bond forward contracts are marked-to-market daily and change in value is recorded by a Fund as an unrealized gain or loss. A realized gain or loss is recorded at termination of the contract. Upfront premiums paid or received are recorded as an asset or liability by the Fund and represent payments paid or received upon entering into the contract that correlate to the stated price of the underlying security. These upfront premiums are recorded as realized gain or loss on the Statement of Operations upon termination or maturity of the contract. The use of these instruments involves the risk that the counterparty to the agreements may default on its obligation to perform. These contracts may be illiquid, and changes in their values may not directly correlate with changes in the value of the underlying security. The maximum amount of potential loss for a non-deliverable bond forward contract is the value of the contract.

Contracts for Difference. Contracts for differences ("CFDs") are privately negotiated contracts between a buyer and seller stipulating that the seller will pay to or receive from the buyer the difference between the nominal value of the underlying instrument at the opening of the contract and that instrument's value at the end of the contract. Certain Funds entered into CFDs where the underlying instrument was a specified security. The Fund can take either a short or long position on the underlying instrument. In exchange for exposure to the underlying asset, the buyer pays a financing fee, which depending on market factors, can result in either expense or income for the buyer. The financing fee disclosed reflects the cost of each CFD from the perspective of the Fund and is dependent upon whether the position is long or short. For long positions, the Fund pays the financing fee. For short positions, the financing fee can be positive or negative depending on whether the spread is greater or less than the floating rate. To the extent the floating rate plus or minus the spread is negative, that is the financing fee paid by the Fund. If the rate is positive, the financing fee generates income for the Fund. CFDs are marked-to-market daily and change in value is recorded by a Fund as an unrealized gain or loss. A realized gain or loss is recorded at termination of the contract. There is no expiration date to the contract, but a CFD is typically terminated by the buyer. A Fund's maximum risk of loss from counterparty credit risk for a CFD agreement is the ability for the counterparty to make payments or to otherwise honor its financial obligations under the terms of the contract. If the counterparty is unable to make payments, the value of the contract may be reduced.

Derivatives and Hedging and Financial Instruments Eligible for Offset. FASB ASC Topic 815 includes the requirement for enhanced qualitative disclosures about objectives and strategies for using derivative instruments and disclosures regarding credit related contingent features in derivative instruments, as well as quantitative disclosures in the semi-annual and annual financial statements about fair value, gains and losses, and volume of activity for derivative instruments. Information about these instruments is disclosed in the context of each instrument's primary underlying risk exposure which is categorized as credit, commodity, equity price, interest rate and foreign currency exchange rate risk. The following disclosures include: (1) Objectives and strategies for each Fund's derivative investments during the year; (2) A summary table (in thousands) of the fair valuations of each Fund's derivative instruments categorized by risk exposure, which references the location on the Statements of Assets and Liabilities and the realized and unrealized gain or loss on the Statements of Operations for each derivative instrument as of December 31, 2023. Funds which held only one type of derivative during the year are not included in the tables as the location on the Statements of Assets and Liabilities and the realized and unrealized gain or loss on the Statements of Operations can be referenced directly on each Fund's respective statements; (3) A summary table (in thousands) of derivative instruments and certain investments of each Fund, which are subject to master netting agreements or a similar agreement and are eligible for offset in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities as of December 31, 2023. For Funds which held only one type of derivative during the year, amounts eligible for offset are presented gross in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities. Net exposure can be referenced in the assets and liabilities on the Statements of Assets and Liabilities and, if collateral exists, the net exposure is offset by collateral identified in the segregated or pledged collateral table; and (4) A table reflecting each Fund's average monthly derivative volume (in thousands) for the year ended December 31, 2023.

² Financial instruments eligible for offset, but not offset in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities.

³ Cash and security collateral not offset in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities. For derivative assets and liabilities, amounts do not reflect over-collateralization.

⁴ For assets, net amount represents the amount payable by the counterparty to the Fund in the event of default. For liabilities, net amount represents the amount payable by the Fund to the counterparty in the event of default.

* Counterparties are defined on page 717 in the Schedules of Investments.

NOTE 7. PRINCIPAL RISKS

Market and Volatility Risk. In the normal course of business, certain Funds trade financial instruments and enter into financial transactions where the risk of potential loss exists due to changes in the market (“market risk”). Additionally, prices of financial instruments may fluctuate over short periods or extended periods of time in response to company, market, economic or political news (“volatility risk”). Equity securities generally have more price volatility than fixed-income securities, and long term fixed-income securities normally have more price volatility than short term fixed-income securities. Certain Funds may invest in derivatives to hedge a Fund’s portfolio as well as for investment purposes which may increase volatility. Volatility may cause a Fund’s net asset value per share to experience significant appreciation or depreciation in value over short periods of time.

December 31, 2023

Sector Risk. Companies with similar characteristics may be grouped together in broad categories called sectors. Sector risk is the risk that securities of companies within specific sectors of the economy can perform differently than the overall market. For example, this may be due to changes in the regulatory or competitive environment or to changes in investor perceptions regarding a sector. Because certain Funds may allocate relatively more assets to certain sectors than others, a Fund's performance may be more susceptible to any developments which affect those sectors emphasized by a Fund.

Concentration Risk. To the extent that a Fund focuses on particular countries, regions, industries, sectors, issuers, types of investment or a limited number of securities from time to time, including (if applicable) as a result of its investment objective to track the performance of an index, a Fund may be subject to greater risks of adverse economic, business or political developments in such areas of focus than a fund that invests in a wider variety of countries, regions, industries, sectors or investments.

Interest Rate Risk. When interest rates increase, fixed-income securities generally will decline in value. A wide variety of factors can cause interest rates to rise such as central bank monetary policies, inflation rates and general economic conditions. Fixed-income securities with longer durations tend to be more sensitive to changes in interest rates than those with shorter durations. Recently, there have been inflationary price movements, which have caused the fixed income securities markets to experience heightened levels of interest rate volatility and liquidity risk.

Underlying Fund Investment Risk. As it relates to Funds of Funds and Master Feeder Funds, each Fund's prospectus includes a discussion of the principal investment risks of the Master Fund or underlying fund in which it invests, if applicable. Additional risks associated with a Master Fund's or underlying fund's investments are described within the respective Master Fund's or underlying fund's annual shareholder report. The American Funds Insurance Series Master Funds' shareholder reports are also available on the SEC's website at www.sec.gov.

Feeder Funds and Funds of Funds Risks. The value of an investment in a Feeder Fund changes with the value of the corresponding Master Fund and its investments. The value of an investment in a Fund of Funds changes with the values of the corresponding underlying funds and their investments. The Master Fund's and underlying fund's shares may be purchased by other investment companies and shareholders. In some cases, the Master Fund or underlying fund may experience large subscriptions or redemptions due to allocation changes or rebalancing. While it is impossible to predict the overall impact of these transactions over time, there could be adverse effects on Fund performance.

Prepayment Risk. During periods of falling interest rates, there is the risk that a debt security with a high stated interest rate will be prepaid before its expected maturity date and that a Fund may have to reinvest the proceeds in an investment that may have a lower interest rate. In addition, prepayment rates are difficult to predict and the potential impact of prepayment on the price of a debt instrument depends on the terms of the instrument.

Credit and Counterparty Risk. In the normal course of business, the Funds trade financial instruments and enter into financial transactions where the risk of potential loss exists due to failure of the other party to a transaction to perform ("credit risk"). Bonds and other debt securities are subject to credit risk, which is the possibility that the credit strength of an issuer will weaken and/or an issuer of a debt security will fail to make timely payments of principal or interest and the security will go into default. Like credit risk, the Funds may be exposed to counterparty risk, or the risk that an institution or other entity with which the Funds have unsettled, or open transactions will default. Financial assets, which potentially expose the Funds to credit risk, consist principally of investments and cash due from counterparties ("counterparty risk"). The extent of the Funds' exposure to credit and counterparty risks in respect to these financial assets is incorporated within their carrying value as recorded in the Funds' Statements of Assets and Liabilities. For certain derivative contracts (including futures, options on futures and certain swaps), the potential loss could exceed the value of the financial assets recorded in the financial statements for each Fund (or Master Fund or underlying fund, as applicable).

A Master Fund or underlying fund manages credit and counterparty risk by entering into agreements only with counterparties that it believes have the financial resources to honor their obligations and by monitoring the financial stability of those counterparties. A Master Fund's or underlying fund's Adviser(s) and sub-advisers attempt to mitigate credit and counterparty risk by (i) periodically assessing the creditworthiness of its trading partners, (ii) monitoring and/or limiting the amount of its net exposure to each individual counterparty based on its assessment and (iii) requiring collateral from the counterparty for certain transactions. In order to preserve certain safeguards for non-standard settlement trades, the Master Fund and underlying fund restrict their exposure to credit and counterparty losses by entering into master netting agreements with counterparties with whom they undertake a significant volume of transactions. In the event of default, the total fair value exposure would be offset against collateral exchanged to date, which would result in a net receivable/(payable) that would be due from/to the counterparty.

Foreign Securities Risk. Investing in securities of foreign companies or issued by foreign governments generally involves special risks and considerations not typically associated with investing in U.S. companies and the U.S. Government. These risks include the potential for revaluation of currencies, different accounting policies and future adverse political and economic developments. Moreover, securities of many foreign companies and foreign governments and their markets may be less liquid and their prices may be more volatile than those of securities of comparable U.S. companies and the U.S. Government.

Currency Risk. Investing directly in foreign currencies or in securities that trade in, and receive revenues in, foreign currencies, or in financial derivatives that provide exposure to foreign currencies, involves the risk that those currencies will decline in value relative to the base currency of a Fund, or, in the case of hedging positions, that a Fund's base currency will decline in value relative to the currency being hedged. Currency rates in foreign countries may fluctuate significantly over short periods of time or currencies may become illiquid for a number of reasons, including changes in interest rates, general economics of a country, actions (or inaction) of the U.S. Government or banks, foreign governments, central banks or supranational entities such as the International Monetary Fund, or the imposition of currency controls or other political developments in the U.S. or abroad.

Leverage Risk. Certain Funds may enter into a short position through a futures contract, an option or swap agreement or through short sales of any instrument that a Fund may purchase for investment. Taking short positions may involve leverage of a Fund's assets. If the value of the underlying instrument or market in which the Fund has taken a short position increases, then the Fund will incur a loss equal to the increase in value from the time that the short position was entered into plus any related interest payments or other fees. Taking short positions involves the risk that losses may be disproportionate, may exceed the amount invested, and may be unlimited.

Emerging Market Securities Risk. Investing in securities of emerging market countries generally involves greater risk than investing in foreign securities in developed markets. Emerging market countries typically have economic and political systems that are less fully developed and are likely to be less stable than those in more advanced countries. These risks include the potential for government intervention, adverse changes in earnings and business prospects, liquidity, credit and currency risks, and price volatility. The Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, which regulates auditors of U.S. public companies, is unable to inspect audit work papers in certain foreign countries. Investors in foreign countries often have limited rights and few practical remedies to pursue shareholder claims, including class actions or fraud claims, and the ability of the SEC, the U.S. Department of Justice and other authorities to bring and enforce actions against foreign issuers or foreign persons is limited.

Sanction Risk. When sanctions are placed on a country, a Fund may experience limitations on its investments including the inability to dispose of securities in that country, the inability to settle securities transactions in that country and the inability to repatriate currency from that country. Investments in sanctioned countries may be volatile, and the Fund and its pricing agent may have difficulty valuing such sanctioned country securities. Investments in sanctioned countries are subject to several risks, including, but not limited to, liquidity risk, foreign securities risk and currency risk. Russia launched a large-scale invasion of Ukraine in February 2022, which has resulted in the U.S. Government imposing sanctions on Russia. The current and any future sanctions or other government actions against Russia, may result in the decline in the value and liquidity of Russian securities, devaluation of Russian currency, a downgrade in Russia's credit rating, the inability to freely trade sanctioned companies (either due to the sanctions imposed or related operational issues) and/or other adverse consequences to the Russian economy, any of which could negatively impact the Fund's investments in Russian securities. In addition, the U.S. Government has imposed restrictions on U.S. investor participation in publicly traded securities of certain companies with ties to China's military or surveillance industry (each a "CMIC Company"). If the Fund holds securities in a company later deemed to be a CMIC Company, the Fund may be forced to sell such securities and incur a loss. Such restrictions could also adversely affect China's economy.

Convertible Securities Risk. A convertible security tends to perform more like a stock when the underlying stock price is high and more like a debt security when the underlying stock price is low. A convertible security is not as sensitive to interest rate changes as a similar non-convertible debt security, and generally has less potential for gain or loss than the underlying stock.

Real Estate Investment Risk. Certain Funds may concentrate their assets in the real estate industry and investments in these Funds will be closely linked to the performance of the real estate markets. Property values may fall due to increasing vacancies or declining rents resulting from economic, legal, cultural or technological developments.

REIT Investment Risk. The risks of investing in REITs include certain risks associated with the direct ownership of real estate and the real estate industry in general. These include risks related to general, regional and local economic conditions; difficulties in valuing and disposing of real estate; fluctuations in interest rates and property tax rates; shifts in zoning laws; environmental regulations and other governmental action; cash flow dependency; increased operating expenses; lack of availability of mortgage funds; losses due to natural disasters; overbuilding; losses due to casualty or condemnation; changes in property values and rental rates; the management skill and creditworthiness of the REIT manager; and other factors. REITs may have limited financial resources, may trade less frequently and in limited volume, may engage in dilutive offerings of securities and may be more volatile than other securities. REIT issuers may also fail to maintain their exemptions from investment company registration or fail to qualify for the "dividends paid deduction" under the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, which allows REITs to reduce their corporate taxable income for dividends paid to their shareholders.

Participation Note Risk. Certain Funds may invest in P-Notes. P-Notes may contain various risks including the potential inability of the counterparty to fulfill its obligations under the terms of the contract. An issuer of P-Notes may fail to make interest payments and repay principal when due, in whole or in part. Changes in an issuer's financial strength or credit rating may affect a security's value. These securities may be more volatile and less liquid than other investments held by the Fund.

Master Limited Partnership Risk. Investment in MLPs involves some risks that differ from an investment in the common stock of a corporation. Holders of MLPs have limited control on matters affecting the partnership. Investing in MLPs involves certain risks related to investing in the underlying assets of the MLPs and risks associated with pooled investment vehicles. MLPs holding credit-related investments are subject to interest rate risk and the risk of default on payment obligations by debt issuers. MLPs that concentrate in a particular industry or a particular geographic region are subject to risks associated with such industry or region.

Senior and Junior Loan Risk. When a Fund invests in a loan or participation, the Fund is subject to the risk that an intermediate participant between the Fund and the borrower will fail to meet its obligations to the Fund, in addition to the risk that the borrower under the loan may default on its obligations. Senior and Junior loans typically are of below investment grade quality and have below investment grade credit ratings, which ratings are associated with securities having high risk and speculative characteristics. The Fund is also subject to the risk that the agent bank administering the loan may fail to meet its obligations.

Cybersecurity Risk. Cyber-attacks could disrupt daily operations related to trading and portfolio management. In addition, technology disruptions and cyber-attacks may impact the operations or securities prices of an issuer or a group of issuers, and thus may have an adverse impact on the value of a Fund's investments. Cyber-attacks on a Fund's Sub-Advisers and service providers could cause business failures or delays in daily processing and a Fund may need to delay transactions, consistent with regulatory requirements, as a result and could impact the performance of a Fund.

Market Disruption and Geopolitical Risk. The Funds are subject to the risk that geopolitical events will disrupt securities markets and adversely affect global economies and markets. Due to the increasing interdependence among global economies and markets, conditions in one country, market, or region might adversely impact markets, issuers and/or foreign exchange rates in other countries, including the U.S. War, terrorism, global health crises and pandemics, and other geopolitical events have led, and in the future may lead, to increased market volatility and may have adverse short- or long-term effects on U.S. and world economies and markets generally. For example, the COVID-19 pandemic resulted in significant market volatility, exchange trading suspensions and closures, declines in global financial markets, higher default rates, and a substantial economic downturn in economies throughout the world. Natural and environmental disasters and systemic market dislocations are also highly disruptive to economies and markets. Those events as well as other changes in non-U.S. and domestic economic, social, and political conditions also could adversely affect individual issuers or related groups of issuers, securities markets, interest rates, credit ratings, inflation, investor sentiment, and other factors affecting the value of the Funds' investments and the Funds. Any of these occurrences could disrupt the operations of the Funds and of the Funds' service providers.

NOTE 8. INVESTMENT ADVISORY FEES AND TRANSACTIONS WITH AFFILIATES

Advisory and Administrative Fees. The Trust has an investment advisory and management agreement with JNAM, whereby JNAM provides investment management services. Each Fund pays JNAM an annual fee, accrued daily and paid monthly, based on a specified percentage of the average daily net assets of each Fund. A portion of this fee is paid by JNAM to the Sub-Advisers as compensation for their services.

JNAM also serves as the Administrator to the Funds. The Funds pay an administrative fee based on the average daily net assets of each Fund, accrued daily and paid monthly. In return for the administrative fee, JNAM provides or procures all necessary administrative functions and services for the operation of the Funds. In addition, JNAM, at its own expense, arranges for legal, audit, fund accounting, transfer agency, custody (except overdraft and interest expense), printing and mailing, a portion of the Chief Compliance Officer costs, and all other services necessary for the operation of each Fund. Each Fund is responsible for trading expenses including brokerage commissions, interest and taxes, other non-operating expenses, registration fees, licensing costs, directors and officers insurance, the fees and expenses of the disinterested Trustees ("Independent Trustees") and independent legal counsel to the Independent Trustees, and a portion of the costs associated with the Chief Compliance Officer.

The following schedules indicate the range of the advisory fee at various net asset levels and the administrative fee each Fund was obligated to pay JNAM. For the advisory fee ranges presented, refer to the Trust's Prospectus for the specific percentage of average daily net assets and break points for each Fund.

Advisory Fee Waivers and Expense Reimbursements. Pursuant to a contractual expense limitation agreement, JNAM has agreed to waive fees and reimburse expenses of the JNL/WMC Government Money Market Fund to the extent necessary to limit operating expenses, interest, taxes and dividend and extraordinary expenses of each class of shares of the Fund, to an annual rate as a percentage of average daily net assets equal to or less than the Fund's investment income for the year. In addition, when the Fund receives income sufficient to pay a dividend, under the contractual expense limitation agreement JNAM may recapture previously waived fees and reimbursed expenses from the Fund for a period of three years from the end of the fiscal year in which such waiver or reimbursement took place. During the year ended December 31, 2023, JNAM recovered $4,518 of previously reimbursed expenses (in thousands) for Class A shares. Effective April 1, 2023, and after all eligible expenses had been recovered, the contractual expense limitation agreement was terminated.

Pursuant to a contractual fee waiver agreement, JNAM has agreed to waive 100% of advisory fees attributable to JNL Multi-Manager Emerging Markets Equity Fund, JNL/T. Morgan Investment Management Inc. (each a "JPMorgan Underlying Fund"). The AFFE is the total annual fund operating expenses after fee waivers and/or expense reimbursements for each JPMorgan Underlying Fund. Administrative Fee Waivers. Pursuant to contractual waiver agreements, JNAM has agreed to waive 0.05% of the administrative fees of the Class I shares of JNL/DFA U.S. Core Equity Fund, JNL/DFA U.S. Small Cap Fund, JNL/DFA International Core Equity Fund, JNL/Mellon Communication Services Sector Fund, JNL/Mellon Consumer Discretionary Sector Fund, JNL/Mellon Consumer Staples Sector Fund, JNL/Mellon Dow Index Fund, JNL/Mellon Emerging Markets Index Fund, JNL/Mellon Energy Sector Fund, JNL/Mellon Financial Sector Fund, JNL/Mellon Healthcare Sector Fund, JNL/Mellon Industrials Sector Fund, JNL/Mellon Information Technology Sector Fund, JNL/Mellon Materials Sector Fund, JNL/Mellon Nasdaq 100 Index Fund, JNL/Mellon Real Estate Sector Fund, JNL/Mellon Utilities Sector Fund, JNL/Mellon World Index Fund, JNL/RAFI Fundamental U.S. Small Cap Fund, JNL/Morningstar U.S. Sustainability Index Fund, 0.06% of the administrative fees of the Class I shares of JNL S&P 500 Index Fund, 0.12% of the administrative fee of Class I shares of JNL/Vanguard Growth ETF Allocation Fund and JNL/Vanguard Moderate Growth ETF Allocation Fund and 0.13% of the administrative fees of the Class I shares of JNL/Vanguard Moderate ETF Allocation Fund. None of the waived administrative fees can be recaptured by JNAM. The amount of waived expenses for the Funds is recorded as Expense waiver in each Fund's Statement of Operations.

Distribution Fees. The Trust has adopted a Distribution Plan (the "Plan") pursuant to the provisions of Rule 12b-1 under the 1940 Act. Pursuant to the Plan, Class A Shares of the Funds pay a distribution and/or service fee ("Rule 12b-1 fee") to Jackson National Life Distributors LLC ("JNL D"), an affiliate of the Adviser, for the purpose of paying for certain distribution, administrative, or related service expenses from the sale and distribution of each Fund's Class A shares. To the extent consistent with existing law and the Plan, JNL D may use the Rule 12b-1 fees to reimburse or compensate broker-dealers, administrators or others for providing distribution, administrative or other services. The Funds' Plan is structured as a compensation plan. Under a compensation plan, the distributor may receive 12b-1 fees in excess of the allowable distribution and related shareholder servicing expenses, but not exceeding the maximum 12b-1 fee, which may be applied to future periods when distribution and related shareholder servicing expenses are less than the maximum 12b-1 fee set by the Plan. Under the Plan, the maximum annual rate for Rule 12b-1 fees paid by the Class A shares of the Funds is 0.30% of the average daily net assets of the Class A shares of each Fund. Each Fund pays the fee monthly to JNL D. JNL D also is the principal underwriter of the variable insurance products issued by Jackson and its subsidiaries. Amounts charged pursuant to the Plan are reflected as 12b-1 fees (Class A) in each Fund's Statement of Operations.

Affiliated Brokerage Commissions - During the year ended December 31, 2023, the following Funds paid brokerage fees to affiliates for the execution of purchases and sales of portfolio investments (in thousands): JNL/Invesco Diversified Dividend Fund $6 and JNL/Invesco Small Cap Growth Fund $149.

Deferred Compensation Plan. The Funds adopted a Deferred Compensation Plan whereby an Independent Trustee may defer the receipt of all or a portion of their compensation. These deferred amounts, which remain as liabilities of the Funds, are treated as if invested and reinvested in shares of one or more funds at the discretion of the applicable Independent Trustee. These amounts represent general, unsecured liabilities of the Funds and vary according to the total returns of the selected funds. Liabilities related to deferred balances are included in Payable for Board of trustee fees in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities. Increases or decreases related to the changes in value of deferred balances are included in Board of trustee fees set forth in the Statements of Operations.

Directed Brokerage Commissions. A Sub-Adviser may allocate a portion of a Fund's equity security transactions (subject to obtaining best execution of each transaction) through certain designated broker/dealers which will rebate a portion of the brokerage commissions to that Fund. Any amount credited to the Fund is reflected as Brokerage commissions recaptured in the Statements of Operations.

Security Transactions. Security transactions can occur in the Funds where both the buyer and seller of the security are portfolios or accounts for which JNAM serves as the Adviser or the other party to the transaction is another fund advised by the Sub-Adviser. Such transactions occur to eliminate transaction costs normally associated with security trading activity. Such transactions are subject to compliance with Rule 17a-7 under the 1940 Act (“Rule 17a-7 transactions”), and are reviewed by the Chief Compliance Officer and reported quarterly to the Board. Rule 17a-7 transactions are executed at current market price at the time of the transaction. Realized gain/(loss) (in thousands) on Rule 17a-7 transactions is included in Net realized gain (loss) on Investments - unaffiliated on the Statements of Operations. The following Funds have Rule 17a-7 transactions (in thousands) during the year ended December 31, 2023:

Other Transactions with Affiliates. Funds with partnership status for federal income tax purposes may not be eligible for beneficial withholding rates, available to RICs, in certain foreign jurisdictions. JNAM has agreed to reimburse these Funds for an amount equal to the additional tax withheld. These amounts are included in Foreign taxes withheld on the Statements of Operations. The Funds could also experience delays in receipt of tax reclaim payments due to their partnership status, as compared to the timing experienced by funds with RIC status for federal income tax purposes. JNAM has agreed to contribute to these Funds an amount equal to the outstanding tax reclaims, within the timeframe the Funds would have received payment under RIC status. The Funds will then reimburse JNAM once the reclaim payments are received from the foreign tax authorities. Amounts paid to the Funds by JNAM due to delayed tax reclaim receipts are included in Payable to affiliates on the Statements of Assets and Liabilities.

For the year ended December 31, 2023, transactions between the Funds and JNAM, related to foreign tax reclaims, due to the Funds' partnership status for federal income tax purposes, are as follows (in thousands):

NOTE 9. BORROWING ARRANGEMENTS

The Trust is party to a Syndicated Credit Agreement (“SCA”) with a group of lenders. The Funds, with the exception of JNL/WMC Government Money Market Fund, participate in the SCA with other funds managed by JNAM (“Participating Funds”) in a credit facility which is available solely to finance shareholder redemptions or for other temporary or emergency purposes. The Participating Funds may borrow up to $180,000,000, the amount available under the facility; the limits set for borrowing by the Participating Funds’ prospectuses and the 1940 Act; or an amount prescribed within the SCA. Prior to May 26, 2023, the amount available under the facility was $600,000,000. JNL/PPM America Floating Rate Income Fund has priority to utilize $100,000,000 of the SCA under an InterFund Allocation Agreement. The Participating Funds pay an annual fee of 0.15% of the available commitments. These fees are allocated pro-rata based on the allocated commitment as well as the Participating Funds’ total net assets. During the year, the Participating Funds, with the exception of the JNL/Mellon Feeder Funds, paid an annual administration fee to JPM Chase which is allocated based on the weighted average of net assets. The fees related to the SCA are included in Other expenses in each Fund's Statement of Operations. No amounts were borrowed by the Funds under the facility during the year.

Pursuant to an Exemptive Order issued by the SEC, the Funds, with the exception of JNL/WMC Government Money Market Fund, may participate in an InterFund Lending Program ("Program"). The Program provides an alternative credit facility allowing a Fund to borrow from, or lend money to, other participating affiliated funds. Any open loans at year end are included in Receivable for Interfund lending or Payable for Interfund lending, as appropriate, in the respective Fund's Statement of Assets and Liabilities. No amounts were borrowed through the Program during the year.

Each Fund, except those that are treated as a partnership for federal income tax purposes, is treated as a separate tax payer for federal income tax purposes. Each of these Funds intends to continue to qualify as a RIC and to distribute substantially all net investment income and net capital gains, if any, to its shareholders and otherwise comply with Subchapter M of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, applicable to RICs. Therefore, no federal income tax provision is required. Each of these Funds may also fully or partially satisfy their distribution requirements by using consent dividends rather than cash dividends. Consent dividends are authorized by Jackson, and the distributions are treated as if they were paid in cash for tax purposes only. Under current tax law, interest, dividends and capital gains paid by these Funds are not currently taxable to shareholders when left to accumulate within a variable annuity contract or variable life insurance policies.

The following information for Funds treated as RICs is presented on an income tax basis (in thousands). Differences between amounts for financial statements and federal income tax purposes are primarily due to timing and character differences in recognizing certain gains and losses on investment transactions. Permanent differences between financial statement and federal income tax reporting are reclassified within the capital accounts based on their federal income tax treatment. Temporary differences do not require reclassification. Permanent differences may include but are not limited to the following: foreign currency reclassifications, premium amortization or paydown reclassifications, reclassifications on the sale of passive foreign investment company ("PFIC") or REIT securities, net operating losses, accounting treatment of notional principal contracts and partnerships, equalization, consent dividends and other distribution adjustments. These reclassifications have no impact on net assets.

The Funds file U.S. federal and various state and local tax returns. A Fund's federal tax returns are generally subject to examination for a period of three fiscal years after the date they are filed. State and local tax returns may be subject to examination for an additional period of time depending on the jurisdiction. Management completed an evaluation of the Funds' tax positions taken for all open tax years and based on that evaluation, determined that no provision for federal income tax was required in the Funds' financial statements during the year ended December 31, 2023.

NOTE 11. SUBSEQUENT EVENTS

Management has evaluated subsequent events for the Funds through the date the financial statements are issued and has concluded there were no events that require adjustments to the financial statements or disclosure in the Notes to Financial Statements.

Additional Disclosures (Unaudited)
December 31, 2023

Disclosure of Fund Expenses. Shareholders incur ongoing costs, which include costs for portfolio management, administrative services, Rule 12b-1 fees and other operating expenses. Operating expenses such as these are deducted from each Fund's gross income and directly reduce the final investment return. These expenses are expressed as a percentage of the Fund's average net assets; this percentage is known as the Fund's expense ratio. The examples below use the expense ratio and are intended to help the investor understand the ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in a Fund and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds. The examples are based on an investment of $1,000 made at the beginning of the period shown and held for the entire period. The annualized expense ratios for the Funds of Funds do not include expenses of the Funds of Funds' Underlying Funds. The annualized expense ratios for the Master Funds include the expenses of both the Master and Feeder Fund. The examples do not reflect the expenses of the variable insurance contracts or the separate account. Total expenses would be higher if these expenses were included.

Expenses Using Actual Fund Return. This section provides information about the actual account values and actual expenses incurred by each Fund. Use the information in this section, together with the amount invested, to estimate the expenses paid over the period. Simply divide the account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first section under the heading titled "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses paid during this period.

Expenses Using Hypothetical 5% Return. This section provides information that can be used to compare each Fund's costs with those of other mutual funds. It assumes that the Fund's expense ratio for the period is unchanged and assumes an annual 5% return before expenses, which is not the Fund's actual return. This example is useful in making comparisons because the SEC requires all mutual funds to make the 5% calculation.

JNL SERIES TRUST
(the “Trust”)

APPROVAL OF THE TRUST’S
INVESTMENT ADVISORY AND SUB-ADVISORY AGREEMENTS

The Board of Trustees of the Trust (“Board”) oversees the management of the Trust and its separate series (each a “Fund,” and collectively, the “Funds”) and, as required by law, determines annually whether to approve the Funds’ advisory agreement (“Advisory Agreement”) with Jackson National Asset Management, LLC (“JNAM”), unitary fee agreement for its master funds (“Master Fund Advisory Agreement”), and sub-advisory agreements (“Sub-Advisory Agreements” and, collectively with the Advisory Agreement, the “Agreements”) with the Funds’ respective investment sub-advisers (the “Sub-Adviser(s)”), including certain sub-sub-advisers.

At meetings held on May 31-June 2, 2023 and August 29-31, 2023, the Board, including all of the trustees who are not considered interested persons of the Funds (as defined in the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended) (the “Independent Trustees”), considered information relating to the continuation of the Agreements. In advance of the meetings, independent legal counsel for the Independent Trustees requested that certain information be provided to the Board relating to the Agreements. The Board received, and had the opportunity to review, this and other materials, ask questions, and request further information in connection with its consideration. At the conclusion of the Board’s discussions, the Board approved the Agreements through September 30, 2024.

In reviewing the Agreements and considering the information, the Board was advised by outside independent legal counsel. The Board considered the factors it deemed relevant, including: (1) the nature, quality and extent of the services provided, (2) the investment performance of each Fund, (3) cost of services for each Fund, (4) profitability data, (5) whether economies of scale may be realized and shared, in some measure, with investors as each Fund grows, and (6) other benefits that may accrue to JNAM or each Sub-Adviser through its relationship with the Trust. In its deliberations, the Board, in exercising its business judgment, did not identify any single factor that alone was responsible for the Board’s decision to approve the Agreements.

Before approving the Agreements, the Independent Trustees met in executive session with their independent legal counsel to consider the materials provided by JNAM and the Sub-Advisers and the terms of the Agreements. The Board, including the Independent Trustees, considered the data provided by the Adviser and concluded that sufficient information had been provided to allow them to evaluate the terms of the Agreements and each Fund’s investment advisory fee. Based on its evaluation of those materials and the information the Board received throughout the year at its regular meetings, the Board, including the interested and Independent Trustees, concluded that the Agreements are in the best interests of the shareholders of each applicable Fund. In reaching its conclusions, the Board considered numerous factors, including the following:

Nature, Quality and Extent of Services

The Board examined the nature, quality and extent of the services provided by JNAM and the Sub-Advisers.

For each Fund, the Board considered the services provided by JNAM, including, but not limited to, its oversight of the Sub-Advisers pursuant to the Advisory Agreement and its recommendations on an ongoing basis as to the hiring or removal of Sub-Advisers pursuant to the Trust’s “Manager of Managers” exemption, as well as the provision of recordkeeping and compliance services to the Funds. The Board also took into account that JNAM monitors the performance of the various organizations that provide services to the Funds, including the Funds’ distributor and custodian. With respect to JNAM’s oversight of the Sub-Advisers, the Board noted that JNAM is responsible for screening and recommending new sub-advisers when appropriate, as well as monitoring and reporting to the Board on a regular basis as to the performance and operations of the existing Sub-Advisers. The Board also considered the investment sub-advisory services provided by each Sub-Adviser. The Board noted JNAM's evaluation of the Sub-Advisers, as well as JNAM's recommendations, based on its review of the Sub-Advisers, to approve the Sub-Advisory Agreements. The Board also considered the various business-related risks JNAM faces as a result of managing the Funds, including entrepreneurial, legal and litigation risks, some of which may be significant.

The Board reviewed the qualifications, backgrounds and responsibilities of JNAM's senior management that are responsible for oversight of the Funds and each Sub-Adviser, and also reviewed the qualifications, backgrounds and responsibilities of JNAM's and the Sub-Advisers' portfolio managers who are responsible for the day-to-day management of each Fund. The Board reviewed information pertaining to JNAM's and each Sub-Adviser's organizational structure, senior management, financial condition, investment operations, and other relevant information pertaining to both JNAM and each Sub-Adviser. The Board considered compliance reports about JNAM and the Sub-Advisers from the Trust's Chief Compliance Officer.

Based on the foregoing, the Board concluded that (i) each Fund is likely to continue to benefit from the nature, extent and quality of the services provided by JNAM under the Advisory Agreement and (ii) each Fund is likely to continue to benefit from the nature, extent and quality of the services provided by each Sub-Adviser under the applicable Sub-Advisory Agreement.

Investment Performance of the Funds

The Board considered the investment performance of each Fund as described in quarterly reports prepared by management. The Board noted that JNAM reviews with the Board on a quarterly basis detailed information about each Fund's performance results and investment strategies. The Board also considered the performance of each Fund, including how the Fund's gross performance (unless otherwise noted) compared to the average performance of a group of comparable funds ("peer group") selected by an independent data service and how the Fund performed versus its primary benchmark index ("benchmark"). For certain Funds, the Board considered the relevant custom benchmark, blended benchmark, or custom peer group. This consideration was based on JNAM's assertion that the custom or blended benchmark or custom peer group is, in some circumstances, a more meaningful source of comparative information than a broad-based benchmark index or peer group for certain Funds that use a limited or unique investment focus or where the peer group may not be a good source of comparative information. With respect to these peer groups and custom peer groups, the Board further considered that comparison to these groups provides a helpful way to measure the Funds' performance, but noted that peer universes are constantly evolving, and, as such, the Funds' peer groups and, where applicable, custom peer groups, may change from time to time. The performance reviewed by the Board was for periods ended on December 31, 2022 (unless otherwise noted). When available, the Board considered one-, three-, five-, and ten-year performance.

JNL Aggressive Growth Allocation Fund. The Board considered that the Fund outperformed its custom peer group for the fourth quarter of 2022, though it underperformed its benchmark for all periods and underperformed its custom peer group for the remaining periods. The Board noted that the Fund outperformed its benchmark and custom peer group (ranking in the 36th percentile) for the first quarter of 2023. The Board took into account that the Fund outperformed its custom peer group median in three of the last six calendar years. The Board concluded that it would be in the best interests of the Fund and its shareholders to renew the Advisory Agreement.

Costs of Services

The Board reviewed the fees paid to JNAM and each Fund’s Sub-Adviser(s). For each Fund, the Board reviewed fee and expense information as compared to that of comparable funds managed by other advisers, as well as fees charged by each Sub-Adviser to similar clients, if any. The Board also noted that JNAM does not manage any institutional accounts with which the Funds’ fees could be compared. Using information provided by an independent data service, the Board evaluated each Fund’s advisory fees compared to the average advisory fees for other funds similar in size, character and investment strategy (the “peer group”). The Board considered each Fund’s total expense ratio and compared that to the average total expense ratio of the peer group. For certain Funds, the Board considered the total expense ratio without the inclusion of, where applicable, transfer agency and Rule 12b-1 fees. This consideration was based on JNAM's assertion that, due to the composition of certain peer groups that contain both retail and variable annuity funds, the total expense ratio (excluding transfer agency and Rule 12b-1 fees) was a more meaningful source of comparative information. While the Board also considered each Fund's sub-advisory fee and compared that to the average sub-advisory fee of the peer group, the Board noted that each Fund's sub-advisory fee would be paid by JNAM (not the Fund) and, therefore, would be neither a direct shareholder expense nor a direct influence on a Fund's total expense ratio. The Board noted that comparison to peer groups provides a helpful way to evaluate the Funds' fees, but took into account that peer group universes are constantly evolving, and, as such, the universe of comparable funds in the Funds' peer groups may change from time to time.

The Board also took into account that various fee reductions and other fee changes were implemented for certain Funds on March 1, 2021, April 26, 2021, September 1, 2021, October 1, 2021, December 1, 2021, January 1, 2022, March 1, April 25, 2022, May 1, 2022, June 1, 2022, September 1, 2022, November 1, 2022, March 1, 2023, April 1, 2023, May 1, 2023, September 1, 2023, and October 1, 2023. Economies of Scale

The Board considered whether each Fund's advisory fee reflects the potential for economies of scale for the benefit of Fund shareholders. Based on information provided by JNAM, the Board noted that the fee arrangement for each Fund contains breakpoints that decrease the advisory fee rate as assets increase. Additionally, the Board considered JNAM's assertion that it continually evaluates the advisory fee and breakpoint schedules for the Funds, and it considered the extent to which economies of scale are reflected for the benefit of shareholders. The Board concluded that the advisory fee structure, in some measure, allows for adequate participation by shareholders in economies of scale across the Fund complex. The Board also considered that economies of scale can be shared with the Funds in other ways, including low management fees from inception, additional technological and personnel investments to enhance shareholder services, and maintaining existing expense structures in the face of a rising cost environment.

The Board also considered that the sub-advisory fee rates have been separately negotiated between JNAM and each Sub-Adviser at arm's-length. These sub-advisory fees are paid by JNAM to each Sub-Adviser. For this reason, JNAM, rather than shareholders, directly benefits from these breakpoints. Additionally, to the extent that JNAM is waiving its advisory fee with respect to a certain Fund, it may also be benefitting from the breakpoints in sub-advisory fees. The Board concluded that the sub-advisory fee schedules, where applicable, in some measure allow for adequate participation by shareholders in economies of scale.

Profitability

The Board considered information concerning the costs incurred and profits realized by JNAM and each Sub-Adviser. The Board also considered JNAM's fee waivers for certain Funds, pursuant to which it has reduced its fees and reimburses other expenses of the Funds, as applicable, to reduce the total annual operating expenses of the Funds. The Board determined that profits realized by JNAM and each Sub-Adviser were not unreasonable.

Other Benefits to JNAM and the Sub-Advisers

In evaluating the benefits that may accrue to JNAM through its relationship with the Funds, the Board noted that JNAM and certain of its affiliates serve the Funds in various capacities, including as adviser, administrator, transfer agent and distributor, and receive compensation from the Funds in connection with providing services to the Funds. The Board noted that each service provided to the Funds by JNAM or one of its affiliates is provided pursuant to a written agreement, which the Board evaluates periodically as required by law. The Board also noted that certain Sub-Advisers pay for portions of meetings organized by the Funds' distributor to educate wholesalers about the Fund(s) that each of those Sub-Advisers manages. The Board considered JNAM's assertion that those meetings do not yield a profit to the Funds' distributor, that Sub-Advisers are not required to participate in the meetings and that recommendations to hire or fire Sub-Advisers are not influenced by a Sub-Adviser's willingness to participate in the meetings. In addition, the Board considered that certain affiliates of the Sub-Advisers participate in the sale of funds or insurance contracts and are compensated by the Funds' distributor for their activities, in addition to payments for marketing and conferences. The Board reviewed the monetary values of these transactions. Lastly, the Board noted that certain affiliates of JNAM may receive benefits under the federal income tax laws with respect to tax deductions and credits.

In evaluating the benefits that may accrue to the Sub-Advisers through their relationship with the Fund(s), the Board noted that each Sub-Adviser may receive indirect benefits in the form of soft dollar arrangements for portfolio securities trades placed with the Funds' assets and may also develop additional investment advisory business with JNAM, the Funds or other clients of the Sub-Adviser as a result of its relationship with the Fund(s). The Board also considered that, in the case of J.P. Morgan Investment Management, Inc. ("JPMorgan"), affiliates serve as the custodian and/or the securities lending agent for the Funds, as well as for JNL Investors Series Trust. The Board considered that each service provided to the Funds by JPMorgan affiliates are pursuant to a written agreement, which the Board evaluates periodically as required by law.

JNL Series Trust
(the “Trust”)

APPROVAL OF INVESTMENT ADVISORY, SUB-ADVISORY AND SUB-SUB-ADVISORY AGREEMENTS

The Board of Trustees of the Trust (the “Board”) oversees the management of the Trust and its separate series (each, a “Fund” and collectively, the “Funds”) and, as required by law, determines whether to approve the Trust’s advisory agreements (“Advisory Agreements”) with Jackson National Asset Management, LLC (“JNAM” or the “Adviser”) and each Fund’s Sub-Adviser(s) (“Sub-Advisory Agreement” or “Sub-Advisory Agreements,” as applicable) and Sub-Sub-Adviser(s) (“Sub-Sub-Advisory Agreement” or “Sub-Sub-Advisory Agreements,” as applicable, and, collectively with the Advisory Agreement and Sub-Advisory Agreements, the “Agreements”).

At a meeting on November 29 - November 30, 2023, the Board, including all of the independent trustees, who are not interested persons of the Funds (as defined in the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended) (the “Independent Trustees”), considered information relating to the addition of the following two new Funds (the “New Funds”) to the existing Advisory Agreement and corresponding amended Sub-Advisory Agreements noted below:

1. JNL/Morningstar SMID Moat Focus Index Fund
 - a. An amendment to the Trust’s existing Sub-Advisory Agreement with Mellon Investments Corporation (“Mellon”).
2. JNL/PPM America Investment Grade Credit Fund
 - a. An amendment to the Trust’s existing Sub-Advisory Agreement with PPM America, Inc. (“PPM”).

The Board further considered information relating to a Sub-Sub-Adviser addition for the following existing Fund:

1. JNL/T. Rowe Price Balanced Fund
 - a. A new Sub-Sub-Advisory Agreement between T. Rowe Price Associates, Inc. (“TRPA”) and T. Rowe Price Australia Limited (“TRPAU”), whereby TRPAU is appointed as a Sub-Sub-Adviser.

In advance of the meeting, independent legal counsel for the Independent Trustees requested that certain information be provided to the Board relating to the Agreements. The Board received, and had the opportunity to review, this and other materials, ask questions and request further information in connection with its consideration of the Agreements. With respect to its approval of an amendment to the Sub-Advisory Agreement with each of Mellon and PPM, the Board noted that these Sub-Advisory Agreements were with Sub-Advisers that already provide services to one or more existing Funds in the Trust. Thus, with respect to these Sub-Advisers, the Board also considered relevant information provided at previous Board meetings. At the conclusion of the Board’s discussions, the Board approved the Agreements.
